WHITMAN NAMED TO FIGHT SMITH FOR GOVERNORSHIP

ALL HIS TICKET CHOSEN

FEW WOMEN AT THE POLLS

In This City Especially They Failed to Display a Keen Interest in the Contest.

The renomination of Governor Charles S. Whitman for a third term in the Republican primaries by a majority over his opponent, Attorney General Merton E. Lewis, of approximately 153,000 was indicated by returns received up to 3 o'clock this morning. At that hour more than one-half of the districts outside of New York City had been heard from. In the returns from New York City the vote in some districts had been estimated.

In the Democratic primaries William Church Osborn, who opposed Alfred E. Smith, President of the New York Aldermen, and candidate for Governor with the indorsement of the Democratic State Conference held in Saratoga last July, was practically snowed under. Estimates based on returns received at 3 o'clock from 1,538 out of 3,714 election districts up-State gave Smith a majority over Osborn outside New York City of 44,000, while returns from this city, with some election districts estimated, gave him a majority of 86,000 in the five boroughs, making a total majority of 130,000.

The returns indicated the renomination of Lieutenant Governor Schoeneck by a plurality of 145,000 over ex-State Senator William M. Bennett of this [illegible] Ex-State Senator Seth C. Heacock of Herkimer ran a bad third. Lieutenant Governor Schoeneck, though the loyalty issue had been raised against him by his opponents as the result of his activities in the case of John A. Tolishus, a former law clerk in his office, who has been indicted for utterances of a disloyal and seditious character, almost obtained a clear majority over both of his opponents.

Organization Republicans Won.

It was an organization victory all along the line in the Republican primaries. The closest contest was between State Senator Charles D. Newton, candidate for the nomination for Attorney General on the Whitman ticket, and Deputy Attorney General Alfred L. Becker on the Lewis ticket. Returns this morning indicated a victory for Newton by a majority of approximately 41,000.

Mr. Becker ran well in this city and in many localities up-State, though both here and outside of the city Senator Newton obtained a majority through the aid of the Republican State machine firmly controlled by Governor Whitman. Mr. Becker had made a fine record in his investigation of the Bolo Pacha case, and his activities in disclosing and putting the quietus on pro-German plotting. The Deputy Attorney General had the indorsement of Colonel Roosevelt, too.

The victory of Governor Whitman could not very well have been more complete. He carried every county up State, according to the indications furnished by returns early this morning except Albany, the political bailiwick of William Barnes, where Attorney General Lewis got a majority estimated at approximately 3,000, which was less than one-third of what his friends had expected.

Brooklyn, which Mr. Lewis's friends had expected for him, was carried by Governor Whitman by two to one. The Governor obtained a substantial majority in Westchester, where the Republican organization, headed by William L. Ward, had declared for Lewis. Monroe, the home county of his opponent, was carried by Governor Whitman by a majority which incomplete returns indicated would be very big. Onondaga, which had been claimed for Lewis, went for Governor Whitman by two to one.

Alfred E. Smith made a phenomenal run in the five boroughs of New York City. Returns from 631 out of a total of 2,067 election districts in the city indicated that Smith had beaten his opponent in Manhattan 18 to 1, in Queens, 16 to 1; in Bronx, 13 to 1; in Brooklyn, 10 to 1, and in Richmond, 7 to 1. Up-State he led Osborn by an average of 5 to 1. Incomplete returns from Chautauqua and Wyoming Counties indicated that Mr. Osborn would carry these over Smith by a narrow margin. Mr. Osborn carried Putnam, his home county.

Vote Light Throughout State.

There was a light vote throughout the State. Indications early this morning were that out of 1,118,000 enrolled Republicans only about 375,000 had gone to the polls. There are 887,000 enrolled Democrats. Returns indicated that upward of 100,000 of these had taken the trouble to vote in the primary election in which a victory for Mr. Smith over his rival was assured the moment he received his indorsement from the Democratic State Conference in Saratoga.

SEIZE 20,000 HERE IN SLACKER SEARCH

12,000 TAKEN IN NEW JERSEY

200 Proven Slackers Sent as Prisoners to Governors Island and Upton.

The roundup of suspected slackers in the Federal districts of Southern and Eastern New York and Northern New Jersey began at 7 o'clock yesterday morning and proceeded at such high speed during the day that by night the roundup machinery had become so badly clogged that slow-down orders had to be issued. No official figures as to the number of arrests were obtainable last night, but it was estimated that between 10,000 and 12,000 men had been rounded up in Manhattan, between 8,000 and 10,000 in Brooklyn, Queens, Coney Island, and other Long Island beaches, and 2,200 in the Bronx. Reports indicated that about 12,000 men had been apprehended in New Jersey. Of this number 7,000 were reported from Jersey City, 4,000 from Newark, and 1,500 from Paterson.

Based on the statistics obtained from a recent similar raid in Chicago, where 27,000 were taken into custody, it is believed that not more than 2 per cent. of the total arrested here will prove to be real and intentional slackers.

Shortly after 9 o'clock last evening a slacker patrol in command of Inspector Andrew Murray of the American Protective League entered the Lexington Avenue Theatre from different directions, just before one of the intermissions in the performance of "Yip, Yip, Yaphank," which is being played by soldiers from Camp Upton. Some twenty-five sailors and a petty officer entered the orchestra and the latter announced that every man in the audience between 21 and 31 must stand up and show a registration card. Considerable confusion followed the announcement, but the army officer commanding the soldier-actors asked that the examination be deferred until after the performance. This was agreed to and when the play was over all the exits were placed under guard while the examination was made. Several men could not produce cards and they were taken into custody.

Charles De Woody, Chief of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, said, just before he left the 69th Regiment Armory last night, that 200 intentional slackers had been inducted into the service and been sent to Governors Island or Camp Upton. Two hundred more, he said, will follow them this morning, while about 400 others have been detained for further examination. Most of these men, Mr. De Woody said, were from out of town. The men who are physically fit will go into active training at once. Those who are physically unfit will be sent to Governors Island to work out fines to which slackers are subjected.

More Than 20,000 Agents.

The machinery of the roundup operated even better than was expected. Between 20,000 and 25,000 regular and special agents of the Department of Justice, including several thousand volunteers from the American Protective League, as well as soldiers and sailors, took their prisoners, in Manhattan, first to the police stations and from there to the 69th Regiment Armory. The Brooklyn and Queens prisoners were taken to the 23d Regiment Armory. The men were lined up, double file, in the armories, and yellow cards were handed to them, which they were required to fill up. Telephones in the armories connected with every draft board and the answers written on the cards were reported from the armories to the draft boards for verification. Wherever true answers had been given, the holder of the armory yellow card received a white slip, which was his honorable discharge from cus-

NEW REVENUE BILL REPORTED; MAY BE LAW IN A MONTH

House and Senate Plan Speedy Consideration of $8,000,000,000 War Measure.

HEAVIER TAX ON PROFITS

COMMITTEE EXPLAINS BILL

Framed to Raise Third of War Expenses by Taxation, the Rest by Bonds.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The largest revenue raising bill in the history of this or any other nation was unanimously reported to the House today by Representative Claude Kitchin, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, which drafted the measure after public hearings and daily executive sessions covering three months.

The bill is expected to raise $8,182,492,000, and place about one-third of the estimated war expenditures for the next fiscal year on the people directly, leaving two-thirds of the projected expenditures of $24,328,561,427 to be met by bond issues.

While the bill, doubling, and in some instances tripling, the schedules in the present war revenue laws, chiefly reaches individuals and corporations benefited by the war, yet most citizens will feel an increase in direct taxation, and all will feel the operation of the proposed law by the increased cost of living that necessarily will follow as the result of the imposition of the different taxes.

The bill follows closely the taxation sources of the last two revenue laws, increasing the rates greatly in most cases and correcting inequalities of the present laws. Very few new sources of taxation were found by the committee, which aimed, if possible, to double the returns from the last two previous revenue laws by doubling the rates. This was done wherever the situation permitted, but in order to obtain new sources of revenue the small luxury list was amplified, and a semi-luxury list, based upon the price above a nominal figure, was added. Another new tax written into the bill is a Federal license on users of automobiles, based upon horsepower.

On its face the bill will levy the proposed war profits and excess profits taxes only on corporations. Members of the committee asserted tonight that the excess profits taxes now proposed would not apply to salaried individuals, as did the 8 per cent. tax on salaries over $6,000 levied in last year's taxation scheme. Section 301 of Title III., the war profits and excess profits tax title of the bill reported today, declares that "in lieu of the tax" imposed by the act of 1917 there shall be paid on the "net income of the corporation" a tax to be computed either under the war profits method or the excess profits method. The words "individual" and "partnership" do not appear in this title of the new bill.

Consumption taxes were avoided through the imposition of radical taxes on beverages. Already prohibition leaders are asserting that this tax has been made so heavy with the expectation of furnishing an argument for the defeat of wartime prohibition. It was asserted today that it was expected that a threat would be made during the discussion of this feature of the bill to impose consumption taxes in lieu of the tax on beverages if prohibition should become effective before the end of the current fiscal year. Under the bill as reported it is estimated that $1,137,000,000 will be raised during the twelve-month period from this source. It may be found necessary, members of the Ways and Means Committee assert, to insert a tax on breakfast necessities in lieu of the liquor impost, if the latter is reduced materially or eliminated.

Estimated Yields.

The war profits taxes, combining the English pre-war and a modified form of the excess profits plan of the last previous revenue bill, are expected to raise $3,200,000,000. From individual income taxes it is estimated that $1,481,186,000 will be obtained, also that corporations will pay on their incomes $984,000,000. The receipts from these three sources will, it is estimated, reach $5,576,186,000. The fourth source of great revenue, the levy on beverages, is expected to produce $1,137,600,000. In other words, $6,713,786,000 of the amount to be raised, $8,182,492,000, is proposed to be taken from four taxation sources.

The estimated yield from sources other than incomes, excess profits, and beverages includes: Estate tax, $110,000,000; transportation-freight, $75,000,000; ex-

Kaiser's Hair Snow White; He Has Aged Greatly

GENEVA, Sept. 3.—Swiss who saw Emperor William and King Ferdinand quite closely at their Nauheim conference recently, according to the Democrate, declare that the German ruler has greatly aged and that his hair is snow white and his shoulders stooped. The Emperor's eyes are feverish, his gestures abrupt, and his face, which is severely lined and tanned, gives the general impression of a man suffering a great sorrow.

The Democrate learns that the Emperor's visit to King Ferdinand was for the object of obtaining Bulgarian divisions for the western front in order to release German reserves similar to the way Austro-Hungarian troops are being used to fill the gaps caused by the heavy losses during the present retreat. In the meantime German recruits barely 18 years old have received orders to prepare to join the fighting forces on Oct. 1.

WE NOW RECOGNIZE CZECHS AS NATION

LANSING TELLS MASARYK

Previous Recognition Given by Britain, France, and Italy to Council in Washington.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Secretary Lansing, speaking for President Wilson, announced today that the United States Government recognized the Czechoslovaks as a belligerent nation and the Czechoslovak National Council, which has its headquarters in Washington, as "a de facto belligerent Government clothed with proper authority to direct the military and political affairs of the Czechoslovaks." France, Great Britain, and Italy have also recognized the Czechoslovak National Council and the Czechoslovak army.

Secretary Lansing also announced that the American Government was prepared to enter formally into relations with the new de facto Government thus recognized for the purpose of prosecuting the war against the common enemy. Professor Thomas Garrigue Masaryk is President of the Czechoslovak National Council. He is therefore President of the de facto Government which the American Government formally recognized and which, as a Government, is in the same position as the Belgian and Serbian Governments in respect of having its seat temporarily on foreign soil.

The action taken today is interpreted in diplomatic and Congressional circles here as being the forerunner of more important steps to be taken later by America and the Allies in a joint effort to expand the present program for aiding the Czechoslovak forces now operating in Siberia and European Russia. The present Japanese and American expeditionary columns in Siberia were sent to Vladivostok with the distinct understanding that the purpose of the movement was to assist in delivering the Russian people from the shadow of German domination and to aid the Czechoslovak forces in Eastern and Central Siberia.

Czech Army Increasing.

At this time the Czechoslovak forces control the line of the Trans-Siberian Railroad from Samara, on the Volga River, to Irkutsk. From there to Chita it would appear from the latest information that the Bolsheviki have not yet been thrown out, but Czechoslovak and allied control from some distance east of Chita to Vladivostok is practically complete. Regarding the number of Czechoslovaks in arms at present estimates vary. It is doubtful if the leaders of the movement themselves know how many troops they have, but the lowest estimate given by those in touch with the situation is 80,000, and the number runs up to 150,000 or more. It is known that the Czechoslovak army is being rapidly augmented by escaped prisoners as well as by thousands of Russians of Czechoslovak origin who have gone into Siberia in the last twenty years, and it is assumed that with this final act of recognition, as regards the great powers, the increment will be increased largely.

The headquarters of the Czechoslovak National Council formerly were in Paris. The body consists of representatives of the scattered Czechoslovak colonies, but all real authority has been in the hands of the three principal officers of the council. These are, besides Professor Masaryk, General Milan R. Stefanik, its Vice President, and Dr. Eduard Benes, General Secretary. General Stefanik, Vice President of the Council, arrived in New York today from Paris. He was accompanied by his adjutant, Captain Paul Sowneir of the French Army; Captain Ferdinand Pisecky of the Czechoslovak army, and Lieutenant Levi of the French Army.

General Stefanik will come directly to Washington for conferences with Professor Masaryk, and it is believed that important negotiations with the United States Government will follow, the ob-

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES, Sept. 3.—More than 10,000 prisoners behind our lines are the best human proof of yesterday's victory when our troops broke the Drocourt-Quéant line, and today the enemy is in hard retreat from a wide belt of country north and south of the Arras-Cambrai Road in a desperate hurry to escape lest his transport and troops may be encircled by our men, who are pressing their pursuit.

The capture of Quéant last night by our naval brigades, with Pronville beyond it, gives us the enemy's most important pivot where the Drocourt line joined the main Hindenburg line, which has been completely turned, so that this fortress position on which the Germans set their hopes of safety in defense is now in jeopardy.

Lowland Scots of our 17th Corps are walking along the Hindenburg line southeast of Quéant, clearing it of any men who may still be in hiding there, while the naval men of the Drakes and Hoods and Ansons and the Marines are following the line of the Hindenburg support trenches and curving downward to the Valley of Hirondelle River and across its slopes to get astride the Bapaume-Cambrai Road, which is the enemy's line of retreat for all the heavy transport now scurrying away and burning their stores behind them.

There are great possibilities of success in this situation today, when beyond any doubt the enemy is more panic-stricken, as he has all need to be, than at any time in this war, having lost his strongest defensive positions and many battalions of men, of which he is in desperate want, and is at his wit's end to gather fresh reserves in time to make a stand before much more is lost.

Our troops, among which I have been today, are not in the mood to make things easy for him and are exerting their utmost strength of body and spirit, not heeding need of sleep or rest, to keep those Germans on the move and battled out of their halting places.

Ten Divisions Identified.

In my message yesterday I said how the German command had scraped up every unit of every division which still gave some hope of fighting quality in order to counterattack us with ferocity and gain back their Hindenburg line. Ten divisions were identified against us in the region of Cagnicourt and Dury, and we took prisoners of every company of every regiment.

Yesterday I saw them streaming without escort over the battlefield, beaten and glad of capture, and today again I have seen many more trudging down our tracks after last night's progress; but until last evening it seemed likely that those Germans would show some kind of strength and come back at us with the grim endeavor to retrieve their losses.

That did not happen. What did happen was a steady forward movement of our men all through the darkness of last night, all through

Look to the Growing American Army To Deliver the Final "Mopping Up" Blow

LONDON, Sept. 3.—The strategical situation on the western front leaves to the Americans the duty of striking a mopping-up blow against the vast German hordes that are being pressed back by the other allies, in the opinion of some of the British military experts. Much is expected of the American forces, which are increasing with surprising rapidity.

The British critics today expressed the belief that the Germans would not be able to hold the Sensée and Nord Canals, and, with the Germans losing more of the Hindenburg line every day, the experts fail to see where the Germans can make a strong stand after their recent severe defeats and their lack of reserves.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—A few days ago I was writing of the impression which the recovery of the British Army from its buffeting in the Spring had made upon me during my recent visit to France. Every one can now see that in what I said I was in no way exaggerating that recovery. What our troops have accomplished in the past few days is one of the most remarkable performances in the course of the war and eclipses even the recovery of the old "contemptibles" from the retreat from Mons.

In recent dispatches Philip Gibbs, while giving fullest credit to the magnificent work of the Canadian and Australian troops, than which nothing could be finer, very rightly tells us not to overlook what the English, Scottish, and Welsh divisions have done. If one could only add Irish divisions to the list, and be sure they were full of Irishmen!

It was upon troops from Great Britain that the brunt of the desperate fighting in the Spring fell, and it stirs the heart to see them now coming into their own with interest and advancing over ground which never before in this war has been trod by British soldiers. The capture of the Fortress of Quéant by Sir Charles Ferguson's corps, composed of English and Scottish troops and of a naval division, is one of the great feats of the war.

Haig's Skillful Manoeuvre.

The story of the last few days has not in its main features been one of hustling an enemy who was determined upon retreat, but of victory over an enemy who meant to stop us if he could. Sir Douglas Haig inflicted one definite defeat upon the enemy at Bapaume, and had followed this promptly by winning a still greater victory south of the Scarpe. These have been won by skillful manoeuvre, the chief feature of which was the transfer of a Canadian corps from the Somme to the Scarpe.

Canadians who appeared at the capture of Monchy last week were, I take it, but an advance guard, and the full effect of the movement has now been seen in the breaking of the Drocourt line. They have also been won by hard fighting, and it is not possible that our own losses should have remained as extraordinarily low as they were a week ago, not that there is any reason to believe them to be excessive, and they have been more than compensated for by the results obtained.

For these we must look beyond the actual battlefield. A week ago, when I was in France, no one expected to recover Kemmel, Neuve Eglise Ridge, Bailleul, and Estaires without a battle which would have cost us many thousands of casualties.

French Coalfields Freed.

The enemy has been forced to withdraw from all these places and to make a considerable readjustment of his front in Flanders, which may go further because of his heavy losses

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 3.—With the allied forces continuing their unrelenting pressure on the Germans' lines north of Soissons and gradually hammering their way eastward onto the plateau at the further end, which holds the Chemin des Dames position of the Huns, it would not be surprising if at any time the Germans started withdrawing from the Vesle front back to the Aisne or the Chemin des Dames position.

Several raids thrown against the American lines near Bazoches may be efforts to protect this withdrawal.

The boche artillery work of the past forty-eight hours on the Vesle has been negligible and our aviators report lessening German aerial activity on this sector.

A glance at the map will show how a further advance of General Mangin's army north of Soissons will affect the Hun position south of the Aisne.

Prefer to Surrender to Us.

The fighting of the Americans north of Soissons has brought forth many vitally interesting developments. The most significant of all the stories I believe is the following:

Two hundred Germans were surrounded in a cave near Terny-Sorny by Americans on one side and French on the other. The Germans, learning of the situation, rushed out of the north end of the cave to surrender to the Americans rather than to the French. When one knows that this was not due to any fear of maltreatment by the French it is difficult to analyze just what the game was, yet there cannot be the slightest doubt of the authenticity of the happening.

It may have been because of reports circulated among the German ranks that prisoners taken by the Americans are sent to the United States; it may have been a variety of reasons, but one thing is certain and that is that the German soldiers have learned better than to believe the stories of their officers.

A pretty story is told of two Frenchmen, the crew of a tank. This tank was put out of commission by German shells, but the men were not wounded. Stepping from the tank, they reported to the American commander and requested two rifles and went through the fight by the side of our Doughboys.

I witnessed the official end of a tragic story of the utmost bravery. A report came in saying that a certain platoon was held up by a machine gun nest in an advantageous position in the edge of a wood. A few minutes later a second report said that a certain Lieutenant had advanced single-handed and put the

QUEANT TAKEN BY STORM

NEW ADVANCE OF SIX MILES

Worn Enemy Reserves Rushed from Cambrai Offer Only Feeble Resistance.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Field Marshal Haig's troops, in another wide sweep, pushed forward today to Baralle, eight miles from Cambrai, smashing the Drocourt-Quéant line completely and driving the Germans in hasty retreat to the Canal du Nord.

Quéant, the point of juncture between that line and the main Hindenburg line, was carried by storm and thirteen other villages were taken in an advance along a twenty-mile front, which attained a maximum depth of six miles.

More than 10,000 prisoners were captured by the British in these operations.

London was thrilled for a time by unofficial dispatches announcing the occupation of Lens, but Field Marshal Haig, in his night report, does not confirm this, merely stating that "our posts have been pushed forward slightly in the western outskirts of Lens." The fall of the city within a short time is regarded as certain. A French report late this evening says that fighting is in progress in the suburbs. The Germans are reported to be evacuating the city.

The Douai-Cambria line, one of the main channels of communication for the German forces in Northern France, is seriously endangered. The British have now reached the line of Ytres, (eight miles southeast of Bapaume,) Beaumetz-les-Cambrai, Baralle, Rumaucourt, and l'Ecluse, (twelve miles almost due east of Arras.) The gains were both north and south of the Bapaume-Cambrai road.

Field Marshal Haig reports that the enemy was "heavily defeated in his prepared defenses of the Drocourt-Quéant system." The Germans abandoned large quantities of war material, and in some places their retreat, after obstinate resistance, became almost a flight.

So determined were the Germans to hold the Drocourt-Quéant line that they concentrated eleven divisions on a front of 8,000 yards. Large bodies of reserves, including the 2d Prussian Division, were rushed up from Cambrai, but were so worn out that they were easily thrown back.

Towns and villages captured by the British include Pronville, Hamblain-les-Pres, Bertincourt, Doignies, Velu, Rocquigny, Saudemont, Recourt, Etaing, Villers-au-Flos, and Le Mesnil.

In the Lys salient the British advanced again, and now hold the western outskirts of Neuve Chapelle. They have captured Richebourg St. Vaast and Wulverghem.

French troops have crossed the Somme near Epenancourt and have gained a foothold on the east side of the Canal du Nord. Between the Aisne and the Ailette, the Paris official report states tonight, 1,200 prisoners were taken on Monday.

The Berlin official report again admits a German retirement, but does not indicate the real extent of it.

The first substantial indication that the Germans admitted defeat was when the British troops entered Recourt, after having reached the outskirts last night. They had not been in the town for more than a few minutes when the enemy artillery began shelling it heavily from a distance.

Germans Hastily Retreat to Canal.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 3, (Associated Press.)—The British victory in the battle of the Drocourt-Quéant line seems complete. Without having delivered a single counterattack, and staggering from the blows administered to them yesterday, the Germans during the night and early this morning were in full flight for the eastern side of the Canal du Nord.

The enemy is trying to save what men and material he can from the wreck in and behind one of the most powerful defense systems ever devised. The much boasted Drocourt-Quéant line, or, as the Germans call it, the Wotan line, is totally shattered. The British are driving far through it, and the Germans are hurrying eastward, leaving behind only pockets of machine gunners, and even resistance from these is gradually melting away.

It was early in the morning, after a night in which a battle of the most stubborn nature was fought, that the Germans began to show real signs of generally being beaten. The village of Etaing was reported cleared up. Hamblain-les-Pres, on the extreme flank, was taken, and the troops moved eastward. But they did not go far, as the Germans in desperation had dammed the River Scarpe at Vitry-en-Artois and flooded the lowlands in this locality.

Patrols entered Biache-St. Vaast, which soon was reported captured.

From this general locality on the north the British pushed sharply forward. Early in the forenoon airplanes reported no Germans in any number west of Ecourt St. Quentin, which is east of Recourt and Saudemont, where the British were pushing on and overcoming the diminishing resistance.

Pushing Along Cambrai Road.

The British drove down the Arras road with ease today. One force, according to word received at Headquarters, captured Inchy-en-Artois, another occupied and cleaned up the entire Buissy switch.

While this was going on a squadron of airplanes, discovering a large group of the enemy some distance to the east, managed to break through the protecting German airplanes and rained bombs down upon the masses. This probably upset any idea the Germans had of making a determined stand west of the canal.

Since that time airplanes report only a few Germans visible for any distance on the western side of the canal, and these observers flew over the whole region at an altitude of only 200 or 300 feet.

Marines Help in Drive.

After Inchy was taken British forces, among them Royal Marines and naval battalions, began a drive to the south past Moeuvres in an effort to reach the Bapaume-Cambrai road before the Germans fleeing along it. Pronville, having been taken during the night, the British from that place worked in a southeasterly direction and closed the valley of the Hirondelle River to Germans desiring to retreat that way, with the result that the enemy forces had to swing southward, then eastward, probably along the direction of the Bapaume-Cambrai road.

The lack of German shellfire was explained in many instances when gunners captured said that they had no ammunition. Many times, they said, they would have fired with open sights into the advancing British, but they had no shells and could not get any.

The fighting this afternoon seemed to be more vigorous along the northern part of the Hindenburg line than elsewhere. The British are sweeping along astride it from the point where it joined the Drocourt line at Quéant.

Prisoners Pouring Back.

Considerable progress is reported and large numbers of Germans have been killed or taken prisoners. Thousands of prisoners are coming into the cages. One army had 6,000 Germans in its cages this forenoon. How many machine guns were captured will not be known for many days, but there were thousands.

The prisoners were of all sorts, including cavalrymen who had been dismounted and fought as infantry. The hard-pressed German commanders took men from anywhere, no matter what they were supposed to be doing, and put them in the line with rifles and machine guns in an effort to stem the tide.

There is a new switch line behind the Drocourt-Queant line of which the Germans may make some use. It was recently completed and is some six miles to the rear of the old line. This line runs from Brebieres, five miles southeast of Drocourt, southward to Moeuvres and joins the Hindenburg line in the vicinity of Graincourt, three and a half miles northwest of Marcoing.

The British today pushed forward well to the east of Noreuil, and the Australians made steady progress to the east of Péronne.

German Reserves Worn Out.

Southeast of Lagnicourt, the southernmost point at which the British have a hold on the Hindenburg line, the Germans fruitlessly threw in what was believed to be every reserve available. Most of the reserve troops, however, had been worn out in the recent fighting and put up a weak resistance. The Second Prussian Division, considered one of the enemy's best, was rushed up from Cambrai, but the men were so worn that they were easily pushed back.

Opinion here is that the Germans have few, if any, fresh reserves available on this front. It is not believed the line of the Sensee Canal can be strongly defended. If this is taken it will be possible effectually to shell Cambrai.

FINDS HIS FATHER HIS GERMAN PRISONER

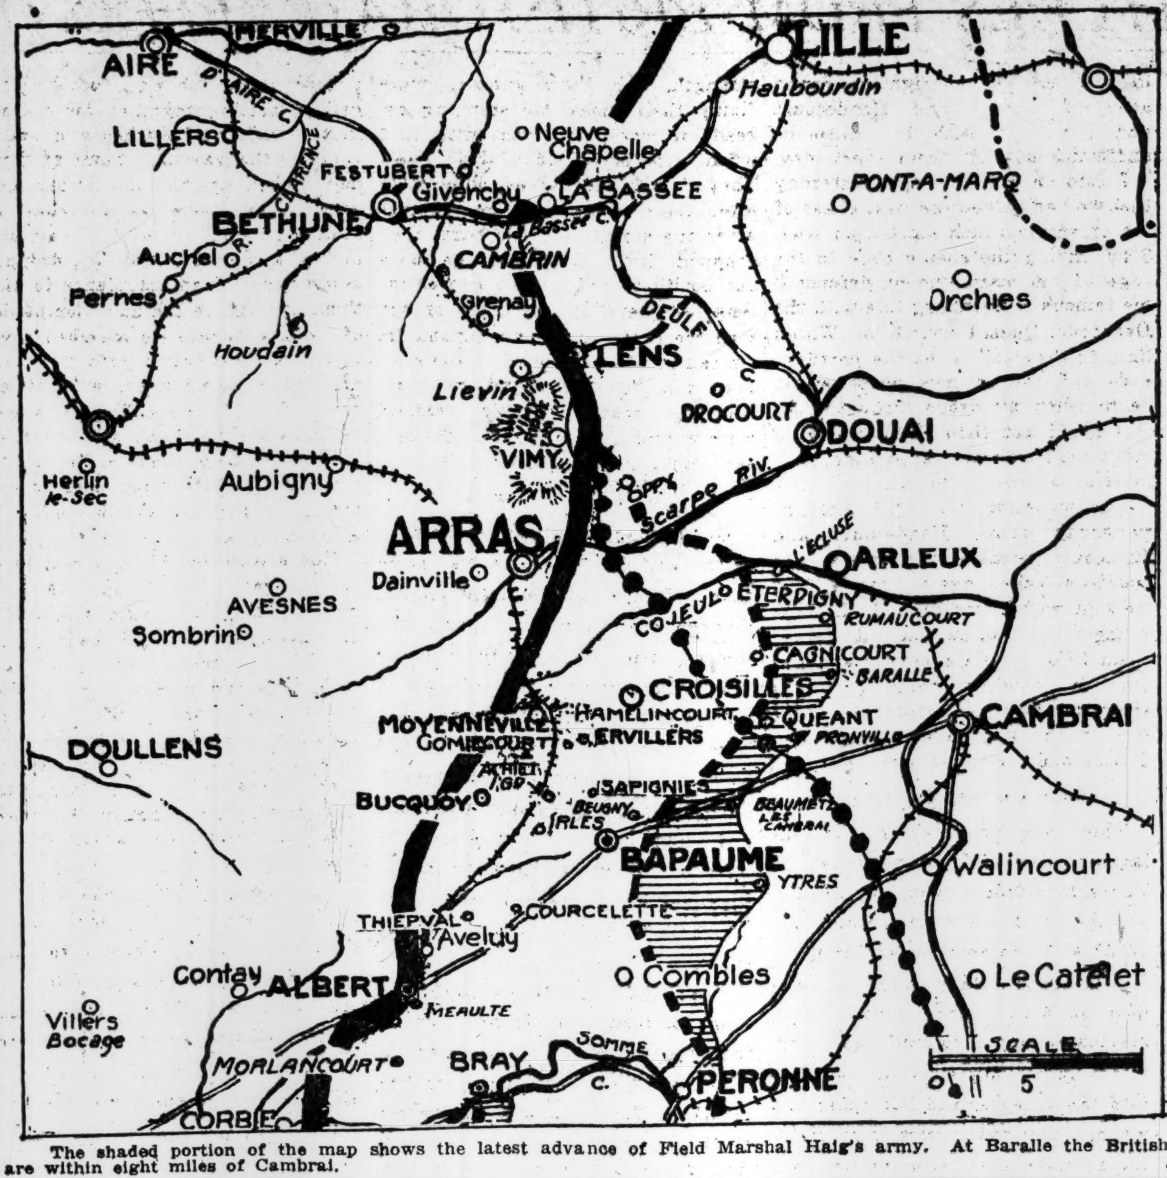
WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 3.—In the American force fighting north of the Soissons are many German-Americans. Apropos of the work of these men a high American officer told me this story: Four German prisoners were carrying a stretcher on which was a wounded doughboy, and marching behind them was another American soldier with fixed bayonet.

When the prisoners put down the stretcher for a rest one of them turned around and recognized in the American guard his son who had years ago moved to America. As the story goes the father started to embrace the son, who held his rifle at attention and reminded the prisoner that he might be his father, but he was nevertheless a boche, and must march ahead.

British Gains in the Drive Toward Cambrai



The shaded portion of the map shows the latest advance of Field Marshal Haig's army. At Baralle the British are within eight miles of Cambrai.

The War Situation

BY THE MILITARY EXPERT OF THE NEW YORK TIMES.

There is one point in connection with the unparalleled success of the continued allied attacks which must occur to even the casual follower of the war. During 1916 the Allies pounded away at the Battle of the Somme and after five months' fighting and a casualty list of half a million men were able to penetrate only eleven of twelve miles into the German positions. In 1917, after the German retreat, the British tried to storm the hinge of the German line about Bullecourt and Queant and after the most vicious sort of fighting were unable to make any impression on the German lines.

This year, after a succession of heavy and uniformly successful attacks against German positions in other parts of the line, the British again struck against the Queant line, and within four days had passed completely beyond it and were in a position to strike the eastern side of the Hindenburg line in the rear. In the two preceding years Russia was still in the war and the German force was of necessity divided. There were indeed at least forty divisions less on the western front than there have been during this year. This is truly one of the great paradoxes of the war. The interesting question is, How can it be accounted for?

Three answers suggest themselves. The secret of successful strategy is always to outnumber the enemy and outgun him at the particular point of attack. It makes no difference how many men he may have if at the crucial point he is outnumbered. This, of course, was possible only if the control of the allied forces were concentrated in a single head. In so far, therefore, as this has been a contributing cause, the answer is found in the superior strategical conceptions of General Foch.

The second explanation is that the Germans, as a result of the severe pounding of the last six weeks, are commencing to crack. They have not broken, but they are deteriorating mentally. And defeat, as Foch himself has stated, is a mental condition even more than a physical fact.

The third solution may possibly be found in Russia. Events in Russia have been turning against Germany for some time. The rate of turning has been much accelerated by the expeditions which have been sent to Kola, Archangel, and Vladivostok. The acceleration will be still greater as the size of these expeditions is increased, and common sense tells us that they must be increased. Germany, seeing her influence in the east dying, and valuing her position there as her only means of obtaining a negotiated peace which will avert positive defeat, must make every effort to retain her grip. Therefore, it is entirely possible that despite the tremendous allied pressure in the west, she has been forced to make certain additions to the forty depleted and inferior divisions left in the east to guard her interests.

The probabilities are that all three of these causes are playing some part in the allied successes, and it is just as important that we realize the cause of a success as the success itself.

The progress of the British military machine toward Douai is most impressive. The British here have beyond question struck the most important blow which has been struck since the allied offensive began. The other moves that have been made tended to push the Germans back where they started from on March 21. The British action has smashed the northern part of this old line and is extending far beyond it. As a matter of fact the British lines are in places six miles further east than they have been since 1914. Already they have advanced almost even with Douai and their positions near L'Ecluse are about six miles south of the city. The principal strength of the German positions has been in the series of bases, well connected by railroad facilities on a north and south line from the Oise to the North Sea. Among these bases, of course, are Lille, Douai, and Cambrai. If one link is cut the chain falls, and the entire German line from the Oise to the sea may be affected.

The British now are working their way east between Cambrai and Douai. They are eight miles from the former place and, as has been stated, six from the latter. But they are going ahead, pushing the wedge in on a front of over six miles, and in doing so not only threatening the connection between these two points, but turning the German positions to the north, thereby operating as a double threat.

The coal area of France, centring at Lens, is thus placed in the balance with the German bases. Lens is of little value in itself, but the area to the east, if reoccupied, will be of incalculable benefit.

Official Reports of the Day's Operations

British

LONDON, Sept. 3.

Night Report—After the heavy defeat inflicted on the enemy yesterday, our progress on the battlefront between Péronne and the Sensée River continued today and our troops reached the general line of Ytres-Beaumetz-Les-Cambrai, Baralle, Rumaucourt and L'Ecluse.

Hostile rear guards which resisted the advance of our infantry have been captured or driven back with loss and heavy casualties were inflicted on the retreating German columns by our artillery. Large numbers of the enemy retiring in close formation over the ridge northwest of Equancourt were successfully engaged by our batteries over the open heights.

In his hurried retreat quantities of stores and material of all kinds were abandoned by the enemy and have fallen into our hands.

As a result of a successful operation this morning south of the Lys, English troops have taken Richebourg-St. Vaast and established themselves on the line of the La Bassée Road and between there and Estaires, which is in our possession. A number of prisoners and a few guns were captured in this attack.

Our posts have been pushed forward slightly in the western outskirts of Lens and east and north of Givenchy-La Bassée. During the night we made progress northeast of Steenwerck and entered Wulverghem.

Day Report—Our operations carried out yesterday south of the river Scarpe were completely successful. The enemy was heavily defeated in his prepared defenses of the Drocourt-Quéant system with the result that he is retiring this morning along practically the whole battlefront.

In the course of yesterday's battle, in addition to inflicting heavy losses on the enemy, we captured 10,000 prisoners.

We are now advancing and are reported to have entered Pronville, Doignies, and Bertincourt.

Canadian troops showed the greatest skill and courage yesterday in storming the Drocourt-Quéant line. These lines had been perfected by the enemy in the past eighteen months. They provided the most formidable obstacle, as they had been furnished with every device of modern engineering.

The enemy had reinforced his defences here to such a degree that on a front of 8,000 yards no less than eleven German divisions were indentified. Undeterred by the strength of his defensive organization, the Canadians, assisted admirably by British troops on their left, carried all before them.

South of the Canadian corps, English, Scottish, and naval troops of the 17th Corps, under command of Lieut. Gen. Sir Charles Fergusson, Bart., K. C. B., K. C. M. G., M. V. O., D. S. O., performed no less a gallant and ardous task in storming the junction of the Drocourt-Quéant and Hindenburg systems.

Those defenses were of the most formidable character, but our troops swept over and around them, encircling Quéant from the north, with the result that this important pivot fell into our hands at nightfall. The tank corps again assisted materially in the success of those operations.

French

PARIS, Sept. 3.

Night Report—Our infantry has crossed the Somme before Epenancourt. Further south our troops have gained a footing in the village of Ceuvry, (Genvry?) east of the Canal du Nord, taking 200 prisoners.

East of Noyon we made new progress and reached the outskirts of Salency. The artillery fighting is lively in this region.

In the course of the battle yesterday between the Ailette and the Aisne we took 1,200 prisoners.

An enemy raid in the Violu sector (the Vosges) brought no results.

Day Report—During the night there were artillery actions on the front of the Somme and between the Oise and the Aisne.

Enemy raids along the Vesle River and in the Vosges region were without result.

BERLIN, (via London,) Sept. 3.

Night Report—Between the Scarpe and the Somme the day passed quietly. Movements commenced during last night were completed in accordance with our plan.

On both sides of Noyon, partial French attacks were repulsed. Between the Ailette and the Aisne fresh fighting developed in the evening.

Day Report—Army groups of Crown Prince Rupprecht and General von Boehn—Between Ypres and La Bassée there have been successful infantry engagements in front of our new positions.

Between the Scarpe and the Somme the British continued their attacks. Southeast of Arras they succeeded, by putting in strong, superior forces, in thrusting back the infantry line on both sides of the Arras-Cambrai high road.

On the line of Etaing, the eastern fringe of Dury, east of Cagnicourt, northwest of Quéant and the northern fringe of Noreuil we held the enemy thrust. Enemy attempts, several times repeated, to press further forward over the heights before Dury and east of Cagnicourt against the canal failed, owing to the intervention of our reserves, which were in readiness.

Enemy attacks made on both sides of Bapaume, in part with tanks and in part after the strongest artillery preparation, were repulsed.

North of the Somme, after vigorous engagements, we retained the heights east of Sailly-Saillisel, Moislans, Aizecourt-le-Haut and the eastern fringe of Péronne.

On both sides of the Nesle-Ham railway line, Reserve Infantry Regiment D 271, which especially distinguished itself during recent engagements, yesterday also repulsed repeated French attacks. Apart from this, there was only artillery activity between the Somme and the Oise.

After the strongest artillery preparation for several hours, the French, supported by Moroccans and Americans, attacked in the afternoon between the Oise and the Aisne. Attacks launched from the plain of the Ailette against Pierremande and Folembray failed under our fire. At isolated places ourt counterattacks drove the enemy back.

In a portion of the wood west and south of Coucy-le-Château the enemy pressed back our foremost line somewhat from the Ailette.

Between the Ailette and the Aisne very strong enemy attacks, several times repeated, failed. The Garde Cuirassiers and the Eighth Dragoons up to and including yesterday, had repulsed sixteen enemy attacks and always succeeded in holding the positions intrusted to them.

Yesterday we shot down thirteen enemy balloons and fifty-five airplanes, thirty-six on the Arras battlefield. Twenty-six of these were brought down by the Chaser Squadron No. 3 under the leadership of First Lieutenant Lörzer, who achieved his thirty-fifth aerial victory.

SENT TO "ENGLISH RIVIERA."

PAIGNTON, England, Aug. 20, (Associated Press.)—Many convalescent American soldiers are now being transferred from hospitals in London and other parts of England to the American Red Cross Hospital on the South Devonshire Coast here.

The hospital is the former country home of a wealthy American, who turned it into an American hospital for British privates early in the war. It is now occupied almost entirely by American enlisted men, sick and wounded.

The estate is one of the finest of its kind in Great Britain, and its location is unsurpassed for convalescent cases. This particular part of Southern England is known as the "English Riviera," on account of its abundance of sunshine and its bracing air. The hospital at present has a capacity of about 300 beds, and is staffed throughout by American doctors and nurses.

MUST NOT RELAX MAURICE WARNS

By Major Gen. Sir F. B. MAURICE.

further south and because he had to find troops to meet Douglas Haig's advance toward Douai and Cambrai. Thus our gains in Flanders must be added to our gains in Picardy when we are balancing accounts of past battles, nor must it be forgotten that our victories have freed the French coalfields, which had to close down in consequence of the German advance into Flanders last April. This is a matter which touches us all very closely, for it means that the call which France has been forced to make upon us for coal will before many months are past be reduced, and Sir Guy Calthrop will be relieved of some of his anxieties.

Furthermore, the Arras-Albert-Amiens railway is again in our hands, and there is an excellent prospect that before very long, and for the first time in the war, we shall be able to use an extension of that railway through Lens to Bethune. This will give us a great increase in manoeuvring power and France very improved facilities for her coal supply.

The breach which we thus made in the Wotan line, otherwise known as the Drocourt switch, is one more proof of the truth of what I was saying last week.

The barrier in the west has ceased to be impenetrable. No line can now stop an attack by our tanks backed by a short but very intense bombardment and, above all, by our men, provided we keep battalions up to strength and give them ample opportunities for training. But we must not expect miracles. There is a sound old military maxim, Hope for the best and prepare for the worst. The one fatal course is to hope for the best and to do nothing.

I cannot be accused of underestimating our prospects in the past. As far back as Aug. 11 I said that it was legitimate to hope that the effect of Haig's victory of Aug. 8 would be to cause the enemy to fall back over the Somme at Péronne and to readjust his front north of that river. That forecast was based not so much upon the effect of the gain of ground which had been made, but upon the effect of the losses which had been inflicted upon the enemy since Aug. 8. His losses have been increasingly heavy, and his need for shortening his front grows greater.

We may, therefore, hope to see the enemy still further east before long, but that does not mean that complete victory is yet in sight, for he can and is shortening his front while our men have had a hard year and cannot go on fighting hard much longer unless they are kept up to full strength. Now that the enemy is yielding it is time to keep up pressure on him, and, therefore, there is greater need than ever for every economy which we can practice and every effort we can make to release men for the front.

The enemy is on the down grade, and we have just been told that he has had to break up eight divisions and to appeal to depressed Austria for help. That process of breaking up divisions must continue, and will be hastened as a consequence of Haig's last victory, but it does not mean that the enemy is exhausted without Austrian help. He has 196 divisions, which is about what we Allies have. It is true that the average strength of our divisions is greater, particularly that of the American divisions, but the difference in strength is not yet sufficient to enable Foch to strike the coup de grace.

Foch is not yet by any means at the end of his resources, and it is legitimate to hope for still better things this year, but the way to make certain of them is to allow no slackening in our efforts. The worst we have now to prepare for is the postponement of complete victory, but it certainly will be postponed if we are satisfied with extravagant predictions of success and do not back the glorious deeds of our men in the field to the very limit of our power.

FRENCH CLOSING ON LAFFAUX POSITION

German Supply Roads Now Under Observation—Gain on the Soissons Plateau.

By G. H. PERRIS.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES, Sept. 3.—The last stage of the victorious approach of Mangin's army to the southern corner of the great German line of defense about Laffaux makes an immense difference in the situation. We have been slowly climbing by converging routes up what the soldiers call the Glacis on the outer slopes and breaking down, one by one, the outlying fortifications of the vast natural citadel that had been strengthened with all the resources of most modern military science. If, as the Cologne Gazette says, this defense has been for the enemy the bitterest battle of the war, its difficulties for the French may readily be admitted. In such a case it is only the most persistent valor in all ranks and the shrewdest dispositions by the army command that can win the reward of victory.

We are now atop the outer wall of the fortress on the west front, Leuilly to Terny-Sorny, and on the south above Cuffies and Crouy. The former position is the more important because it gives us henceforth extended views over the German rear and supply roads. Standing on the promontory above Leuilly you look across the Ailette right up the valley between St. Gobain Mountain and the Chemin des Dames. Anigy is below you. The two towers of Laon Cathedral rise from the northeastern horizon and between these points you have the highways on which the German convoys depend under full observation.

Hill 172, just south of Terny-Sorny, the highest point of the Soissons moorlands, which was carried yesterday afternoon by a famous body of Zouaves and other French troops over the dead bodies of part of the Prussian Guard, gives a different prospect. Looking back to the southwest you see swelling slopes cut by the deep narrow gullies by which we mounted step by bloody step from the Aisne Valley. Forward to the east you face the terrible battlefield where in April of last year from the mouth of a sheltering quarry I watched French soldiers climbing the steep sides of Laffaux and the marginal ravines.

GERMANS DESPERATE IN RESISTING MANGIN

By WALTER DURANTY.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY, Sept. 3.—On the right of the French battlefront the French and Americans have a firm grasp on Terny-Sorny, the plateau whose importance relative to subsequent operations against the enemy positions from the Chemin des Dames to the Vesle is obvious at a first glance at the map.

The centre is momentarily marking time, but the left has made important progress on Hill No. 70, seven miles east of Nesle, which commands the Somme Valley and national highway No. 30 between Ham and St. Quentin. Its occupation will facilitate operations across the river further north against the hill Notre Dame Joie and important developments in this region are probable.

Meanwhile the German effort to resist Mangin is even more desperate than against the British east of Arras. Division after division is recklessly spent, no matter what its quality. Troops of the Prussian Guard counterattacked five times yesterday and Sunday in an attempt to retain Terny-Sorny, with the result that they were practically annihilated.

A cardinal feature of the whole battle is that in the exterme north and south, where the fighting is fiercest, the enemy is unable to hold strong positions fortified with all the modern arts of defense. The allied methods of attack, the multiplication of tanks and Stokes guns, and the magnificent spirit that animates the attacking army have justified the forecast made to your correspondent ten days ago by a French officer that land defenses, however powerful, would not check the allied progress.

Resistance depends primarily and essentially on men, and the quality of the defense which those men put up is measured by their morale and their numbers. It is impossible to speak with certainty of the German morale, but all available indications, including official documents, letters, and prisoners' statements, tend to show that it is already poor and steadily growing worse. Mutinies have occurred in Germany and at the front. There are stories of pillage, not only in French or Belgian territory, to which the severity of army orders regarding acts of indiscipline lends more than the color of truth.

But it is in numbers that the German weakness is most apparent and dangerous. German divisions comprise thirty-six infantry companies, four to each battalion, whose average strength is sixty men. There are also nine machine gun companies of an average strength of sixty-five men and some batteries of light "accompanying" artillery and trench mortars.

The total fighting strength of a division is thus limited to 3,000 men, and already several cases have been noted where the number of companies per battalion has been reduced to three. Even more drastic measures have proved necessary. Some divisions have been suppressed and their men distributed, to maintain the strength of others. The general effect of such procedure is to produce weakness and confusion and seriously to increase the prevailing demoralization.

AMERICAN DIVISION BEAT FOUR AT JUVIGNY

By CAMERON MACKENZIE.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 2.—The first five days of arduous fighting northwest of Soissons have just come to an end for a division of the American Army, and as a result it is possible to report a by no means inconsiderable sum of achievement in the chain of operations just brought to completion.

The United States troops captured nearly 1,000 prisoners, and upon a two-mile front drove the Germans back to a depth of four miles, forcing them out of Juvigny, off the Juvigny tableland, and then eventually, in the engagements of yesterday and last night, pushing them across the highly important Soissons-St. Quentin road. The task that was set for them to perform they performed thoroughly on a set time and brilliantly.

General Mangin used the American troops for work of crucial importance in the scene of the entire operation. The work was such as could be intrusted only to soldiers of assured stamina, of surest quality.

In its essence the task presented to them before the middle of last week was to gain possession of a strip of the Soissons-St. Quentin road, and in particular of the elevation in the highway at the village of Torney-Sorny. Hence, it was as shock troops of the first order that the American division was sent into the line, and it was as shock troops of the first order that they gave account of themselves.

Four different German divisions were opposed to the one American division in the course of the five-day battle. Originally the attackers encountered the 7th Division, an enemy unit of proved worth. Two days of ceaseless combat used that outfit up, and three fresh divisions were rushed forward to ease the pressure. These were the 227th, which was actually marched on foot from Metz, a distance of 140 miles; the 238th, which was brought from Rheims, likewise on foot, and to complete the list the 23d, which was in reserve to the 7th.

Once the drive had started and the Germans had perceived the vigor and determination with which the Americans were pressing the business in hand, it is likely that they fell into something of a panic. At any rate, to match four divisions against one was a grim compliment to the qualities of the new forces from overseas.

In the course of the engagement the whole of this particular American unit displayed much the same fighting characteristics that other units earlier displayed—great personal initiative, intrepid courage, endurance, and agility and skill with the rifle.

If one strove especially to name some one new trait developed in the experiences of Juvigny and Terny Sorny, one would probably declare that these doughboys, through days and nights of shell fire more savage than anything they had perhaps even guessed at, conducted themselves with almost uncanny coolness.

its rainstorms until the light of dawn came, and they moved faster still to make more gains. And everywhere the enemy yielded before them, and in some places, like Quéant, the key position of all his line, he crept away in advance of our men without a show of fighting.

Canadians and English held a line last evening east of Eterpigny Wood, southeastward to Dury and Villers-le-Cagnicourt, and thence southward to our side of Inchy. They, too, were expecting counterattacks, and at one time our airmen reported that the Germans were massing in a wood called Aubigny-au-Bois, covered by an aerial escort of nineteen air scouts. Some of our flying men tried to break through that formation of airplanes, but only one pilot could get past them under cover of clouds, and then he bombed the assembling troops so fiercely that they were broken up and never came forward.

The night was quiet on the Canadian front, and in the morning their troops advanced again to the west of Saudemont and then onward two miles further beyond Inchy, and toward that old evil forest of Bourlon Wood, where last November our men of the 62d Division and others fought in clouds of poison gas and under storms of shells.

Etaing Taken by English Troops.

English troops who were working with the Canadians on the left are reported to have taken the village of Etaing last night, with sixty prisoners, and this morning their patrols went into Recourt Wood, east of that, encountering enemy rear guards, but not meeting stubborn resistance anywhere, so that they went beyond to a high plateau a thousand yards further. The enemy shelled the village of Recourt as soon as our men were in it—so quickly that it is clear his gunners expected us to arrive, and their fighting line withdrew some distance back, leaving a wide No Man's Land for our men to cross.

It was reported this morning that German troops were debouching in Marquin, across the Arras-Cambrai Road, not far from their rear guard, and our guns found this place for their target.

Meanwhile West Lancashires, Naval Brigades, and Lowland Scots in the 17th Corps below the Canadians were advancing steadily. I told yesterday how the West Lancashires attacked in the morning, in line with the Canadians, after much hard fighting on previous days, and then swung southward and cleared out the triangle between the Hindenburg support line and a wood where many pockets of the enemy remained with machine gun nests giving much trouble by their cross-fire. They did this with dogged courage, and in one place south of Bois de Bouche marines of our naval brigades helped them crush one of these wasp nests.

The naval men came into action determined to get their own back and go far forward after their adventures of last March, when they had to fall back before the enemy forces across the Somme battlefields, where I met them then fighting a bitter rearguard action. They had to march far yesterday over ground which I traveled today, so I knew the look of it and the smell of it and the horror of it all.

Behind our present front which is moving forward so quickly there is for many miles a stricken wilderness. There are no landmarks here, as even there are on Somme battlefields, where at least there are rivers and roads and natural features upon which the imagination may fasten for remembrance, but here beyond Neuville-Vitasse and Boiry and Croisilles there is nothing but a landscape of bare monotony rising and falling slightly from one slope to another without highroads cutting across it, without a river or a valley to break its lines, without even ruins more than rubbish heaps of brick which once were hamlets.

Trenches marked by hummocks of white chalk zigzag over this infernal desolation, where tangles of barbed wire, all rusted to the color of withered bracken; piles of abandoned shells gleaming wet in the rain, thousands of German stick bombs, gas masks, helmets, boots, rifles, shattered gun limbers, lorries slashed to pieces by explosives, and huts broken to matchwood are flung about between tumbledown dugouts, deserted gunpits, overturned blockhouses, dead horses, and deep shell pits.

Through this plague-stricken land, mile after mile to the far horizon, our men are marching and our guns are going up and our tents are pitched and our wounded come walking down. Even to them it has become familiar, so that they do not turn their heads to study how this obscenity of a wilderness of death is changed to different tones of evil or of grimness when the sunlight breaks through the rain clouds and washes it all with its pale gold light, revealing more sharply a detail of it all, or how it is darkened when the sun is hidden by a black mass of clouds piled up above the distant slopes.

Yet there is one feature of the landscape to which the naval men turned their heads when they marched up to battle. It is the only thing left standing in all this ruin behind our lines with some character and menacing beyond a mere ruin. In the centre of Croisilles, which is quite destroyed so that hardly one brick stands whole upon another, there is a Calvary of life size. The figure of Christ has been smashed from the cross and lies with face upward on a little hillock, but the Madonna is still left, almost unscarred I think, and the figure of St. John stands out above all this wreckage with a queer gesture of pity for the evil that has been done.

I write these things so that people who do not see them may have in their mind's eye the scenes through which our men are passing, yet no words of mine can give more than a faint, blurred image of what this desolation is really like.

March of the Naval Brigades.

For miles our naval brigades marched through this until they reached their line of action south of the Canadians and below Bouche Wood. As I have said, some Royal Marines turned aside to go to the help of the West Lancashires, but two other bodies of marines and Ansons, followed by Hawkes, Drakes and Hoods, went forward to their first objective, swinging southeastward in order to come down to the valley of the Hirondelle, or Agaghe Valley, as it is sometimes called, in order to block it below Inchy. Here they were checked by machine gun fire from German strongholds, but were successful in destroying these posts and passed on.

They passed beyond range and help of their guns for a time into the zone of open warfare, having to rely utterly upon their own rifles and machine guns for fire power. Their machine guns did terrible work among the enemy. One team fired 30,000 rounds at the retreating Germans and many men fell under this sweeping fire. Very cunningly and rapidly our naval machinegun crews worked their way forward with patrols and small bodies of infantry, enfilading the German positions and getting their targets.

After all the first objectives had been taken one Brigadier went around his forward line, examined the problem ahead and satisfied that his men could go further without grave peril ordered them to advance again and keep on, as long as they did not lose touch with each other or meet trouble in overwhelming odds. Darkness came but they did not stop, and still crept on slowly and cautiously into the enemy's country until dawn came, when they found themselves on the west side of Inchy with Quéant and Pronville below them and a valley curving down southeastward.

Their duty was to block the valley and capture Quéant by this turning movement from the north. According to this plan they spread out and went down the slopes to the valley on the east side of Quéant and Pronville, closer to them than had been intended at first, but achieving the same result. All the Germans fled from Quéant before their arrival, panic-stricken at the knowledge that we were behind their lines and bearing down on them. A small garrison of seventy men were still holding out in Pronville, and these surrendered to a man when they found themselves surrounded.

Later this morning the naval brigades advanced again below Inchy toward the Bapaume-Cambrai road. Their object, as I said before, was to cut this artery of German retreat. If they are successful, it is almost certain that they will hamper the movement of the German forces in sharp retreat further south, and that they will prevent the withdrawal of the heavy transports. The enemy succeeded in getting away most of his guns, but has been forced to blow up some of his Howitzers, which are now behind our lines, with their crews as prisoners.

Guns Rushed to New Lines.

The work of our own gunners in getting forward to keep pace as far as possible with the infantry advance has been very fine, and I saw today how our batteries were straining every nerve to follow up over all this wild, roadless land. Some of our sixty-pounders, which are heavy and slow-going weapons, were already so far forward that at noon today they opened rapid fire on the crossroads outside Cambrai, so that this highway must have been a terror to the crowded German transports struggling back in their retreat.

German prisoners coming back through this ground watched our gun teams gloomily, understanding the meaning and marvel of all this movement toward their lines; where cheery young gunner officers called to their men to carry on and make haste after the Hun, and gunner Colonels rode forward to prospect new positions, and transport men tethered their horses in fields from which the enemy had gone only a little while ago leaving frightful litter and filth behind him.

Small groups of prisoners passed and passed, so that we must have gone well beyond that 100,000, and in wired inclosures stood new arrivals who had drifted down after night and were now under guard. Miserable-looking men were sleeping themselves into forgetfulness of war or pacing up and down like animals in a cage or munching food which we provided. They were very hungry, many of them having gone several days without supplies owing to the chaos and disorganization behind the German line.

But one figure among these groups attracted my attention more than the others because of his gay plumage. It was a German cavalry officer, like a caricature by Hansi, in a sky-blue coat with red collar, almost too beautiful to be true in time of war. He was a haughty young man, too proud to speak even with German infantry officers, so that he kept aloof from them and paced up and down, as he had been doing, I am told, for many hours.

There were numbers of dismounted cavalrymen among our prisoners, wearing a yellow band around their caps and belonging to the 7th Cavalry Division which has been almost completely destroyed during the last twenty-four hours. These men curse the fate which brought them to the west front after an easy time in Russia, where they knew nothing of British barrages and believed the war was won.

In one camp not far from Arras there are today several thousands of prisoners, belonging to ten different divisions, and looking at them one might well wonder whether at last one might be justified in believing that the German Army is beginning to crack. It is only just beginning and is not near the breaking point yet, but the events of the last day and night reveal greater weakness in our enemy than most of us had dared to hope for or believe.

In the north they are still drawing back in Flanders, and on the other side of Péronne the Australians are gaining much of our old ground. Whole German armies on both fronts are being forced into retreat, and how they will camouflage all this under the eyes of their own people or explain what cannot be explained away is an interesting problem.

Our men are full of hope and eagerness to make an end of the whole business; to strike so hard and to go so fast that the enemy will have no time to recover. To end the year with peace is what inspires the hearts of our men, and for that they will fight with their spirit keyed high. Perhaps our wishes go beyond realities, but at least the vision is good.

Some of our men are on their way back to something like peace already. Red Cross trains are running down from the casualty clearing stations with blighty men. They line close to the windows, and have passed down from that abominable land where nothing grows between the shell craters but rank grass and weeds, and where there is nothing human except their own selves in this devilish desert of war.

They travel now behind the lines into the sweet, good country of France, where the last of the harvest is being gathered in and bronzed wheat sheaves stand in stubbled fields and peasant girls wave hands to them and small boys and girls watch by clover patches where sleek cattle feed and white, sun-drenched clouds are piled high above peaceful villages.

Through this landscape, near to the scenes of war now far away, in beauty, our wounded pass homeward-bound after great victories.

Monday's Great Victory.

Sept. 2.—I have seen some very wonderful scenes on the battlefields today. All were proof of another victory, a big and astounding victory, in its first hours. After all our recent progress and the long endurance of our men, today we have pierced the sector of the Drocourt-Quéant line, the main line of German resistance, and our advanced troops are away beyond. The enemy has massed units from divisions fresh or broken, every man and batch of men who can hold rifles and use them, pioneers and dismounted cavalry, labor battalions and signalers whom he can gather together in his back areas miles away, and is rushing them up by road and rail, in motors and carts, in order to smash us back and save himself from irreparable disaster.

So there may be hard fighting ahead; but our men this morning—Canadians and Lancashire men and Scots and English county troops—have braved the enemy's strongest line, taken great numbers of prisoners, utterly shattered the enemy's first lines of defense, and got into country where we have never been before and where now they are fighting against strong and desperate resistance. It is a remarkable military feat that this attack of ours should be made so quickly after the battles I described last week, in which our men engaged in hard and bitter fighting round about Bullecourt and Hendecourt and Riencourt with the Germans stiffening against them every day.

I said in my message yesterday that we had gained the first phase of the offensive which started on Aug. 8 by driving the enemy back to the edge of his main line of defense—his famous Hindenburg line with the Droucourt-Queant switch or Wotan line, as they call it, at the northern end—and that a new phase would begin when we drove through that. But I did not then think we could start that new attack so soon, considering all that it involved.

The situation was still difficult yesterday about Hendecourt and Riencourt because the enemy had counterattacked again heavily, and we had withdrawn from both those villages. It was necessary to retake them before the Canadians and our English battalions could go ahead today to storm the Drocourt-Quéant line on the way to Cagnicourt and Buissy and the country beyond.

Busy Lancashire Troops.

This task of retaking the villages was carried out yesterday by Lancashire troops who had already attacked at 12:30 A. M. on one day, 12:30 A. M. on another, and at 4 and 5 o'clock yesterday morning, and now at 6:05 o'clock that evening started out again to meet the enemy in the open. They stormed their way into the villages, and our observers, whom I met today, saw them fighting at close grips with the Germans in the ruined streets, while others of the enemy escaped and ran. The Lancashire machine gunners did terrible work in this neighborhood, firing at the enemy with close targets; and one Sergeant claims to have killed sixty men with his own gun. One Lancashire light trench mortar battery, further south by Bullecourt, knocked out two machine guns and took twenty-six prisoners, then the next day took thirteen prisoners, engaged three nests of machine guns and cleared them, obtained a direct hit with a trench mortar on one emplacement, destroying its guns, and received the surrender of another machine-gun section—a wonderful achievement for one small team of men.

It was after all that work that these Lancashire lads began the attack this morning in conjunction with the Canadians on their left and other British troops on their right. The Canadians themselves held the ground from the dry wood south of the Scarpe to the left of Hendecourt village, and the Drocourt-Quéant line was 2,500 yards ahead of them, protected by belts of thick and sharp spiked wire and by an elaborate trench system with many dugouts and gun emplacements and strong artillery support. Then they had to go 1,500 yards more to the west side of Dury and Cagnicourt, and then to get through another line to Villers.

The Arras-Cambrai road ran straight through this country. At the southeasterly angle they had the help of a number of tanks. The tank officers and crews waited beside their engines in tense expectation of dawn, when they were to start on their new adventure with many perils ahead of them.

Enemy Scrapes Up Reserves.

Meanwhile, things as we now know were happening on the enemy's side of the lines. The German high command was expecting an attack, but perhaps not quite so soon, and in desperate anxiety to save the Drocourt-Queant line had decided to counterattack the Canadians today in order to defeat our plans, and it had scraped together, as I have said, every available unit from miles back of the line. Into this country south of the Scarpe they had flung up three fresh divisions, the 3d Reserves, 15th Reserves, and the 16th Division, with the remnants of the 1st Guards, 2d Guards Reserve, 12th Reserve, 58th and 7th Cavalry Division, dismounted, A Battery of the 36th, and the 111th Division. The 12th Reserve had been badly broken at Bullecourt, the 111th had suffered exceedingly two days ago at Bapaume, and the others had been hard hit.

It was a wild confusion of men mixed up with units not intended for fighting in the line except in the last ditch of despair, and filled up with some individuals of at least third-class physique, combed out from the last and poorest reserves of German manhood. Truly the German General Staff is hard pressed for man-power to fight battles with such mixed lots.

They had intended, as I said, to attack this morning, and had assembled for this purpose; but our attack broke first. By enormous labor and courage, our gunners had brought their artillery forward over the battle ground captured only a day or two ago, and had many heavy guns as well as field batteries in position; so that when at 5 o'clock our barrage opened it was terrific in power and effect.

The enemy artillery was in position, too, though not in such strength, and their gunners were fixing their fuses and standing by, ready to sweep our lines with fire, when ours broke upon their lines. They found themselves obliged to alter their range, and one minute after our storm of shells burst they dropped down their barrage onto our positions and roads. It was intense and terrible, but many of our men were already away beyond its "mean point of impact," as the gunners put it, and, owing to short shooting, many German soldiers were wounded by their own splinters and direct hits.

The Advance Begins.

Our men went away with the haze of the earliest dawn. It was some time, indeed, before the light pierced through the storm clouds and rain showers and showed any glimmer above those wide fields of desolation, where the only landmarks are torn woods and piles of ruin and white chalk, parapets of broken trenches, and shell-broken windmills and hummocks of earth where the German machine gunners lay in hiding, and belts of barbed wire tossed into broken strands by our bursting shells.

The tanks moved forward over this rough ground behind the first infantry advance, trampling over the wire, plunging over old trenches, searching for German machine-gun nests, while the lighter whippets went faster ahead to round up prisoners and strike terror into the trench garrison.

The German gunners watched for their coming and tried to get direct hits on them as they came. The first German lines were stormed quickly by our men, and the German soldiers were so panic-stricken by our advance and so shaken by fear of death that they could not fight.

"They crowded down in their dugouts," said Canadian soldiers this morning, who came back with many prisoners or with wounds, "and screamed for mercy as soon as we were on them. I'll never forget the sound of those men's yells down there in the darkness where they were jammed in and afraid to come up. It was fairly blood-curdling."

I do not know how many prisoners we took this morning. All I know is that I have never seen so many trooping back over the battlefields. There is one road up which I passed to the front which held a strange and tragic drama, and though I have seen many pictures of war and the swirl of many battles I shall not forget the traffic of that road.

Scenes Behind the Front.

Today the battle was in full progress away over there and our guns were firing heavily; and now and then German shells came over to ruined villages on either side of this winding road, bursting with gruff coughs and flinging up vomits of smoke and death. Through the black rainclouds the sun shone upon these frightful places, these huddles of brick and timber that gashed the skyline with their ribs and fragments, and upon the wreckage of railways and overturned engines and old gunpits and earthworks out of which we had hurled the enemy on our recent progress. That was the background of the road, and along the road itself came an incessant stream of men and mules and guns. It was like a long frieze on a living panel in some picture of war.

A stream going one way was made up of an endless chain of batteries and gunlimbers going forward to follow up the enemy and battalions were marching up in support, played up part of the way by their bands, and there were pioneers to make the way straight for the guns and ammunition and all the supplies, and ambulances with their red crosses burning through all this black etching of guns and wagons. The other way, coming away from the battleline, were the walking wounded and prisoners and stretcher bearers. On one side was the spirit of victory moving forward, and on the other side the human price of victory and the tragedy of defeat. Crowds of German prisoners came stumbling back in small groups of twenties and fifties, odd dozens of pairs of men, and single figures hobbling slowly and painfully, with drooping bodies and their big steel helmets bent to their chests. Many were wounded, their heads all bloody and their faces like masks of blood, or with broken arms or bullet wounds in their legs; others were worse than that, so that they could not walk and seemed already dead. They were carried shoulder high on stretchers by unwounded comrades, one man to each corner of the stretchers, trudging slowly down that crowded way.

Our wounded and the German wounded mixed together and helped each other. Some of the Germans carried one badly wounded man as they carried their own. I saw many groups of English and Canadian and German soldiers walking together with arms about each other's neck, propping each other up, tumbling together, resting together for a time in the shelter of ditches and under ruins by the wayside. Some of them had picked up bits of timber and were using them as crutches or sticks to help them on the way, and others, after coming so far, dropped and waited for an ambulance to pick them up later in the day. Companies of wounded prisoners marched down in military formation with their own officers at their head, without escort. The officers called out words of command to them, as though on their own side of the lines; and I saw some battalion commanders among them, walking gravely through with a beaten look.

There were hardly any escorts at this stage. Our troops were too busy fighting to provide escorts, and the prisoners trudged back alone, perfectly harmless now, and eager to get beyond shell range. They passed and passed, as the guns went up hour after hour; so there must be a lot of them. For the most part, I am bound to say, they looked tall and proper men, though they come from such mixed units and scratch reserves.

Germans Weary of the War.

There were many boys among them, but sturdy enough to make good fighting men, and their high steel helmets gave them a grim look. Many, however, wore their field caps, and by the numbers on their shoulder straps one could see many different regiments. After their first terror, they showed gladness at their escape, and many of them showed gratitude to our men by stopping them on the roadway and offering them Iron Crosses or pictures from their pocketbooks. Some of them spoke bits of English, and held wayside conversations with their captors. I overheard some of these remarks:

"When will the war end, Fritz?" asked one of our men, and the man answered:

"This year."

"Then it will be win for us," said the English lad.

"Perhaps," was the answer, "and I don't care, as long as peace comes."

"Are you fellows tired of the war?" asked an English officer, and the answer was:

"The whole world is tired of war, and so are all of us."

"Is England hungry?" was a question put by a German prisoner, and he seemed surprised when our men laughed and said, "Not a bit of it. We have heaps to eat."

"Then you get plenty of food from America," said the German.

"Some," was the reply. "Your U-boats don't stop us much."

"Ach," said the German sadly, "our U-boats are kaput—finished."

"How many Americans do you think we have in France?" was one question of our men, and another German soldier said:

"Perhaps a million, and that is very bad for Germany."

So they passed and passed, men going up and men coming down, our wounded and theirs.

The battle was going well so far, but the German strength of resistance was growing as the hours passed. The Canadians had swept through the Drocourt line and were beyond Cagnicourt and into Dury and Buissy. They had very hard fighting at Dury, where there was a sunken road behind a windmill crammed with machine guns. They came up against the German 3d Reserve Division, brought up from Mauberge with orders to attack at dawn today and take as much ground as possible.

These men, whose attack had been frustrated, fought well and are still resisting strongly. The Town Major of Dury was captured, and one strange bird who fell into Canadian hands was an officer coming back from leave, who rode this morning with his orderly down the Arras-Cambrai road ignorant of the attack until he fell, horse and all, into the Canadian line there. Several battalion commanders were taken, and one of them, who belongs to the Lancashire bag of prisoners, saw one of his stretcher-bearers carrying the wounded and asked leave to speak to him. Consent was given, and he called the man up and said:

"I was going to give you the Iron Cross yesterday for gallant conduct, and now take this opportunity of presenting it to you with my congratulations."

The stretcher-bearer seemed stupefied by this decoration on our side of the lines.

Another battalion commander, taken yesterday by Lancashire men at Hendecourt, was asked whether he thought we should break through the Drocourt-Quéant line.

"No," he said stiffly; "Germany wants it."

"Yes," said an English officer, "but Germany wanted you, and yet we have taken you."

This seemed to leave the German commander without further argument.

"Mopping Up" the Field.

British troops today south of the Canadians had a difficult operation at the outset holding Hendecourt and Riencourt. They had to form up behind the Canadians, then follow on and swing south to "mop" up the ground in the triangle formed by the Hindenburg support line as a base with a little wooded copse as its apex. This they did, walking down the legs of the triangle; but pickets of the enemy remained in between with nests of machine guns which they served with the utmost resolution. The copse was a source of trouble in this way, and the Lancashires here did not have the help of tanks, as most of them at that time were on the Canadian front. However, all objectives were taken this morning, and our observers reported the tanks far ahead of our line.

The Canadians had hard fighting across the Arras-Cambrai road, especially at certain crossroads near a ruined factory and a place called Brioche Farm.

It is too soon yet to tell the result of the battle, because it is still in progress, and, as I have said, the enemy is apparently pouring up men for counterattacks. But as far as the first phase goes, we may claim full success; for we have broken the Drocourt line and taken many hundreds of prisoners and certainly some guns.

Many Canadians told me this morning that they had passed German batteries abandoned by their gunners, so that these ought to fall into our hands—another severe blow to the enemy; and if we can hold against their fierce counterattacks it must jeopardize the strength of the Hindenburg line and perhaps force them to a greater retreat.

Folks to Buy
Or Goods to Sell

Which would you rather have—100 machines and one thousand customers for them, or a thousand machines and 100 customers?

Five years ago, in the times of piping peace, a jobber complained about his curtailed orders to a great manufacturer of musical instruments. The sales manager banteringly suggested that he go to a competitor (a non-advertiser) who could give him an endless supply of instruments but a limited number of would-be purchasers.

Whether in time of war or in time of peace, the Trade Mark is the franchise which represents not only goods, but consumer Good Will and demand for those goods.

Good Will may be profitably established with the public even when the demand exceeds the supply.

MANY NEW YORKERS ON THE CASUALTY LIST

Lieut. Lansing McVicker, Severely Wounded, Has Recovered and Rejoined Comrades.

LIEUT. LANSING McVICKER, listed as severely wounded, is a son of Henry G. McVicker, member of the Union and Knickerbocker Clubs. When the Mexican border trouble began McVicker, then 21 years old, enlisted in Boston's crack cavalry organization, Squadron A, with which he served throughout the mobilization. He was picked for the first Officers' Training Camp at Plattsburg and at its close was assigned to a regular army artillery regiment.

His brother, Henry Lansing McVicker of Tuxedo Park, last night said that he had received a letter from Lieutenant McVicker announcing his recovery and return to the firing line. He added that prior to entering Plattsburg his brother was a student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

CAPTAIN REGINALD H. STURGIS, on duty with the 77th Division, from Camp Upton, has been gassed after three weeks in the trenches, and is now in Mrs. Whitelaw Reid's Hospital in Paris, according to a cablegram received by his mother, Mrs. Thomas Sturgis, widow of the former Fire Commissioner, at her home, 500 Maple Avenue, Richmond Hill. Captain Sturgis resigned a place with the United States Trust Company to attend the first Plattsburg camp, and was assigned after graduation to an Upton infantry regiment. The message said he expected to be back on duty soon.

The death of Lieutenant Quincy S. Mills, who was officially reported missing in action, was confirmed yesterday in a special cable dispatch to The Evening Sun. Lieutenant Mills was killed by a high explosive shell near Epieds, close to Château-Thierry, on July 26, and was buried there by Chaplain W. E. Robb of the 168th Infantry.

Lieutenant Mills was graduated from the University of North Carolina and joined the staff of The Evening Sun ten years ago, specializing in politics. He left that newspaper to attend the Plattsburg camp, and, winning a commission, was assigned to duty with Company G, 168th Infantry. Lieutenant Mills was 34 years old and unmarried, living with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Mills, at 190 Wadsworth Avenue.

SERGEANT FRANK H. BISHOP of the Aviation Section, has died in a French Red Cross Hospital from injuries sustained a month ago when his airplane fell. He was a partner in Bishop Brothers, automobile dealers, on Boston Road, the Bronx, when America entered the war and, in company with another brother, he immediately entered the service. He lived with his mother, Mrs. Sophia Bishop, at 2 East 128th Street. A tribute to his bravery was forwarded by a Red Cross Lieutenant.

DOMINIC MARANZARO, killed in action, was 22 years old, and lived at 343 East Twelfth Street when he was drafted into the 308th Infantry.

PATRICK D. AGOSTINO, killed in action, was studying to be an opera singer at Naples, Italy, when war was declared, and he had a hard task getting back to enlist in the Quartermaster's Corps, 42d Division. His home was at 104 Mulberry Street. He was enlisted as an interpreter.

ANTONIO LA ROCCO, killed in action, died Aug. 13, his brother said yesterday, at 536 East Eleventh Street. He went overseas with Company E, 308th Infantry.

DANIEL J. SHEEHAN, killed in action, formerly lived at 309 East Eighty-eighth Street. He was assigned to Company D, 19th Infantry. He was employed in a Philadelphia shipyard before entering the army.

BERNARD SALZBERG, killed in action, was a member of the 308th Infantry, 77th Division. He was 24 years old, a shoe salesman, and lived at 536 Morris Avenue, the Bronx.

JOSEPH DE GEORGE, wounded severely, was a first-draft man serving with Company A, 23d Infantry. He was wounded in a surprise attack on July 18. He lived at 77 Thompson Street.

GEORGE WILLIAM SMITH, wounded in degree undetermined, was 18 years old last April when he joined the Headquarters Company, 7th Infantry. He was in the service a week before he walked into his home at 349 East Sixty-first Street and broke the news of his enlistment.

FRANK H. KAVANAGH, killed in action, was known as "Speed" to his fellow-clerks in the New York Central office; and in letters to them he wrote of having killed eight Germans and being anxious to get more. He was then in an hospital recovering from a wound received at Château-Thierry. Prior to joining Company G, 308th Infantry, at Camp Upton, Kavanagh lived at 247 East Fifty-second Street. He was killed on Aug. 27.

CHARLES KAVANAGH was severely wounded on Aug. 2 when serving in B Company, 165th Infantry. He lived at 413 Franklin Avenue, Brooklyn, and was a Pennsylvania Railroad clerk when he enlisted. Two brothers are with the British, and a third was killed earlier in the war. Kavanagh came here six years ago from Ireland.

JAMES R. McAVOY, wounded, lived at 72 East End Avenue. He was a member of Company D, 71st New York, when he was transferred to the 165th Infantry. He was shot on Aug. 24.

LE ROY MEYER, severely wounded, is in Company G, 306th Infantry, and lived at 514 West 177th Street. He was wounded on Aug. 13, his 24th birthday.

CHARLES F. TASHLEIN, severely wounded, is 19 years old, and a member of Company L, 26th Infantry. His father, Charles Tashlein, of 475 Ninth Avenue, is a Y. M. C. A. Secretary in France. Young Tashlein was shot July 18 when driving an ammunition motor up for the big drive.

CORPORAL HARRY M. WEINER, severely wounded on July 19, served with Company H, 26th Infantry, on the border and in France. His father, Alfred Weiner, lives at 179 Rivington Street.

GEORGE LINDAUER, wounded on July 21, is in Company G, 38th Infantry. He was a machinist when drafted, and lived at 1,351 Boscobel Avenue, the Bronx.

HARRY M. ROSENFELD, wounded, was an upholsterer employed by R. H. Macy & Co., and reached Company E, 30th Infantry, by way of Yaphank. He lived at 120 West 117th Street.

HERMAN MYRON, wounded on July 27, is in Company E, 38th Infantry, according to his bride of a few months, who lives at 282 Williams Avenue, Brooklyn. Myron is a Syracuse man, and was formerly employed by the Sheffield Farms-Slawson-Decker Company.

CORPORAL FRANCIS McELROY of 166 Hoyt Street, Brooklyn, was wounded in action on July 30, his mother, Mrs. Mary McElroy, said yesterday.

LOUIS COHEN of 69 Morrell Street, Brooklyn, is in a French Hospital with a bullet in the left shoulder, but will recover, according to his father, Benjamin Cohen, who received his information from a Canadian chaplain under date of Aug. 3. He is an Upton man.

WILLIAM G. CARROLL, dead from wounds, lived on the Percy G. Rockefeller place at Greenwich, Conn., where his father is employed. Carroll was 16 years old last year when he joined Company E, 102nd Infantry, New England Division. He was wounded last February, beating off five Germans, and wounded again on July 19 in the big drive.

The War Department announced yesterday that it had made a mistake in listing Joseph Jackson, 950 East Fifteenth Street, Brooklyn, among the wounded, degree undetermined. Jackson has been home for a couple of weeks, having his discharge from a training camp in America because of physical disability.

NEW YORKERS' BRAVERY IN THE VESLE FIGHTING

Evening Sun Correspondent Narrates Individual Deeds of Daring Under Fire.

Instances of the bravery of American officers and men on the Vesle front, where the 77th (Camp Upton) Division is fighting, are narrated by Thomas M. Johnson, the special correspondent of The Evening Sun with the American Army, in a dispatch dated Aug. 31. Mr. Johnson tells how Private Sing Kee of Bayard Street, Manhattan, stuck to his post through a German shell storm, how Capt. James A. Roosevelt kept cartridges and grenades going forward, through a hot fight, and how Frederick Stouke of Second Avenue, College Point, alone captured three prisoners in a shell hole and brought in one of them, who had been wounded on the way, on his back. Capt. H. E. Stadie, of 270 Willis Avenue, the Bronx, ran out from his dugout and carried a wounded gunner 200 yards to a place of safety.

"Two Brooklynites," says Mr. Johnson, did fine work in 'mopping up' cellars and dugouts in Bazoches. They were John Duffy of 331 Bergen Street and Richard Foy of 495 St. Marks Place. They, with Corporal Peter Finucane of 430 East 137th Street, The Bronx, found a large party of Huns headed by a determined officer brandishing a revolver in one of the cellars. They speedily wiped out the entire crowd."

He tells how Capt. Robert P. Patterson of Glens Falls, N. Y., went ont with Corporals R. A. Straub of 6 Hamilton Terrace, and P. J. Carroll of 158 East 102d Street, toward the outskirts of Bazoches. They ran into a German post containing about ten men, two of whom Capt. Patterson killed with a rifle, while Straub and Carroll accounted for one each.

"In company with other officers," Mr. Johnson reports, "Capt. Patterson did other gallant work previously, when his men were being heavily shelled in a sunken road somewhere near Chery Chartreuve With Capt. J. O. Adler, of 308 West Seventy-fifth Street, [Capt. Adler was a member of the staff of THE NEW YORK TIMES,] and Lieut. Sutherland of 57 East 127th Street, and Lieut. Michale J. Hayes of Cleveland, Ohio, he went on an exposed crest of a ridge, where they selected suitable cover for the men. They showed them how to dig in or take advantage of the natural protection afforded by the slope, calmly walking down to direct this or that man to protect himself, disregarding their own danger.

"The result of their brave leadership was that although the shelling continued ntensely for an hour the men under their command suffered only four casualties, about one-third of 1 per cent. of the total force."

GERMANS STILL PUZZLE OVER AMERICAN ARMY

Newspapers Continue to Spread Misinformation About Its Strength and Personnel.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 3.—The Frankfurter Zeitung's war correspondent, Karl Schmidt, writing from the front, says that Pershing has not yet built up a complete American army, and that this can be seen from the manner in which the American army is being used on different sections of the front. The writer, however, admits that, after the way in which the Americans were grouped at the Vesle and Fismes, "where they were recently defeated," it is evident that the army soon will be ready, and that prisoners already speak of the first American army.

Schmidt says that the Americans are to have their own artillery staff, &c., and that there are to be four American army corps and one naval division.

"The military horizon of the American soldier has not reached far beyond his own company," the writer continues. "He knows he has a Captain and four Lieutenants over him, but not much more."

The paper also declares that of thirty prisoners taken at Fismes the men were all recruits 21 to 31 years old, having mostly had seven months' training before leaving for the front. Five per cent. of these, it says, were so-called rushout men, who are called fit for service after a month and a half. The paper says these prisoners claim that there are 1,500,000 men in France, although the neutral press claims less. The writer also informs his readers that "the loss of men through torpedoing has been at a minimum, because when a ship is sunk every one is saved by the escorting ships."

The Frankfurter Zeitung correspondent declares the men are shut up in their own area and are not allowed to receive visits from other troops, that the letter censorship is very strict, and that besides a company officer there also is a postal supervisor.

"Leave," he writes, "will be granted after six months' service, but then only in France or England." The writer also argues that it is extraordinary how few real Americans there were in the army and declares that out of twenty-six prisoners only twelve are American born, there being three Germans, three Russians, two Irish, two Italians, one Englishman, a Pole, and a Greek.

"The prisoners," he goes on, "are mostly convinced that they are defending America against German attack. The career of some of these officers is interesting. One Lieutenant of 41 years was in the war in Cuba as a soldier. He was a Corporal until 1901 and a farmer until 1904. He was a soldier again until 1907 and then a commercial traveler until the beginning of the war, when he joined up. But in 1917 he got a commission as Lieutenant. Another Corporal became a Captain after a three months' course, and a month later became a Major."

Another paper speaks of a serious French-American defeat on the Aillette. The papers are again bringing up stories about foreigners being forced into the American Army and maltreated. The papers quote a letter of a Swede in America, which is published in the Swedish Aftenblad, to prove this.

The Frankfurter Zeitung admits that Foch's strength has been underestimated, and that his reserves have been forgotten, but it contends that these are not all Americans because there are only three-quarters of a million of them actually at the front.

FAYOLLE HELPED TURN TABLES ON GERMANS

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—France is uniting today to do honor to General Fayolle, commander of the French northern group of armies, which includes those of Humbert and Debeney. To Fayolle's wise planning, largely is due the unqualified success which has attended French arms since July 16. Fayolle occupies the same position under the French Commander in Chief, Pétain, in regard to the armies of the north, as Maistre holds in relation to the armies in the centre.

He is one of a group of purely scientific soldiers in which France is so rich. Like Foch, he had been for some years, until the outbreak of the war, one of the ablest professors at the French Ecole de Guerre, and, like his great superior officer, he helped form many of the Generals who so splendidly are distinguishing themselves today.

He came into prominence in the first month of the war in the battle of Grand Couronne, which saved Nancy during the first onrush of the boche. After Norhange, serving under Castelnau, he employed the audacious tactics of sending the guns of his division into battle in front of the infantry, and thereby stopped the enemy. This brilliantly daring stroke won the French victory of Grand Couronne, where the enemy, under the eyes of their Supreme War Lord, were not only definitely stopped but indisputably beaten in the field.

With Maud'Huy, he soon after took part in the famous race to the sea. Successively he was commander of the 33d Army Corps, and then commander of the French 4th Army. He took a leading part in the great Anglo-French offensive on the Somme. He was commander of the 1st Army in the battle of the Aisne and commanded the French armies in the centre during the hottest fighting in the Champagne. Afterward he commanded the French army in Italy and came back to this country last March, and was intrusted with the group of armies which had the duty of stopping the great, simultaneous German drive on Paris and Amiens. His work with the materials available was almost impossible.

The armies of Humbert and Debeney, on whom fell this overwhelming task, were at that time by no means the magnificently effective weapons they have since proved to be, and Fayolle, as he put it, had constantly to look two ways at once, with one eye on Amiens and the other on Paris.

AMERICAN 1ST ARMY EXPECTED TO STRIKE

Washington Officers Think the Time Near When Foch Will Deal Telling Blow

IN RHEIMS-VERDUN REGION

Indications That Foe Is Disorganized and May Fall Back to the Rhine This Year.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3. — Reports from the British front today indicated to officers here that the German retirement, heretofore conducted with utmost military skill, was getting out of hand. Under the terrific pressure of the British and French armies all along the line from Ypres to Soissons, the enemy apparently is being forced to a more precipitate withdrawal, particularly on the old Drocourt-Quéant front, where Marshal Haig's men hammered forward irresistibly again today.

The official announcement from London that more than 10,000 prisoners have been taken in two days of fighting on this front in itself indicates, it is said, that there is growing disorganization in the German ranks.

With this in mind, there was wide speculation today among officers as to what new developments of the battle were to be expected. It was clearly evident that observers believed the time was fast approaching when General Pershing's first field army could participate in the battle, on the theory that General Foch has been withholding this new and vigorous force for a decisive blow when the time was ripe. As to where or when that blow would be delivered, however, there was wide variance of opinion.

Menace to Hindenburg Line.

The British now have broken a decided gap in the old German fortified line, and the fall of Cambrai, Douai, St. Quentin, and several other rail and road centres upon which the Hindenburg line depended seems imminent.

If the enemy intended to fall back upon this line when he was forced into a general withdrawal along his whole front from Rheims to Ypres, his chances are rapidly dwindling, as the British lines surge forward at the very centre of the great battlefront.

Marshal Haig's forces are moving on Cambrai, the key to a large section of the old line, and if that place is taken it appears to officers here that the enemy will be quickly forced to evacuate the salient in which he is rapidly being pocketed by the French and American advance on the Oise-Ailette lines in the south and the British thrust eastward from Péronne to the north.

So evident is the growing disorganization among the Germans, shown in reports from the British front, that some officers are inclined to think it possible that the enemy may be forced to a withdrawal to the Rhine this year. Others, however, feel that the skill the German leaders have displayed does not warrant any participation of an early collapse of the military machine.

On all sides it is evident here that announcement of the formation of the first American field army and the fact that many American units which had been brigaded with the French or British for final training, have been withdrawn to be added to it, have been taken to mean that the Americans would attack the present year. Ample time remains, it is said, for the organization of the force to be completed and the assault to be launched before Winter interferes.

The American army is a picked force composed of the prime fighting manhood of the nation and filled with ardor for the battle. It forms, officers here believe, an ideal instrument with which General Foch will be able to deliver a real offensive stroke when he deems the field ready. The present fighting, in this view, is preparatory to the delivery of such a blow and it now appears probable to many observers that it will be delivered soon and probably in a region to the east of Rheims or of Verdun, where the concentration of enemy reserves to meet it will be the most difficult because of the bitter fighting in Flanders and Picardy.

In connection with the evidences of weakness noted in the German war machine in the last few days, an official dispatch today from France quoting captured German documents showing the great wastage of men in the enemy's ranks was received with peculiar interest. According to these papers, a typical German infantry battalion in March, 1918, when the German drive was launched, consisted of 980 men. On July 1 this had been reduced to 880, and a telegram from German headquarters, dated July 30, requests opinion from line officers as to further reduction.

FOE MUST GIVE UP HOLD ON THE VESLE

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

German gunners out of the fight, and that the advance had been continued. Following on the heels of the second report came a third, saying that the Lieutenant had been killed while pushing on beyond the machine gun nest with his men.

There was another story of how seventeen Americans captured thirty Germans, including two officers. Another of how five doughboys rounded up twelve Huns and brought them in. Another of how a young German soldier who had a brother in our army staggered into our lines with a wounded American on his shoulders.

These are just a few of many tales which stir one. Many of the prisoners seem glad to be captured—at least they say so. Two German Lieutenants were listening to their men express this sentiment, when one spoke up and said, apologetically: "You know, it is very inconvenient for German officers to be captured. I mean when we get back, you understand."

The Americans told him they understood.

I know of an instance that occurred three months ago when Germans taken by the Americans rushed into French hands. I myself signed an affidavit not so very long ago testifying against the German propaganda stories that German prisoners were mistreated by our men. The Americans have succeeded in proving the falsity of that accusation.

This change in the attitude of the German soldiers is not unwelcome to our army. I may say that disregarding the motives of humanity which prompt our army we have strong military reasons to encourage that feeling. In the first place Foch and Hindenburg agree that the big object in fighting now is to weaken the other side's man power.

One must also realize that the capture of 1,000 Germans by Americans not only weakens the German strength by 1,000 men, but increases the American military strength by 1,000 men. This is because we are short of laborers behind the lines, and the Germans placed at that work liberate Americans who may be taken to the front. Therefore, it is an exceedingly happy turn that the Germans are now showing a desire to surrender to the Americans.

Prussian Dead Lie in Heaps.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES IN THE FIELD, Sept. 3, (Associated Press.)—The battle for the plateau north of Soissons has used up some of the best divisions in the German army. Yesterday's fighting between Crecy-au-Mont and Leuilly and betwen Juvigny and Terny was particularly severe. This was evidenced this morning by the field being strewn with the dead of the Prussian Guards. They are piled one on top of the other in some trenches, and long lines of them show where the Guards counterattacked five times in a vain effort to stem the tide of battle which was running relentlessly against them.

Each one of these efforts added largely to the losses of the Prussians in wounded as well as in dead, while after each rush a lot more of unwounded prisoners remained in the hands of the French. More than 1,200 Germans were sent to the rear in the course of the battle.

Both tanks and air squadrons contributed to the rout of the Guards. Aviators, flying low over the field, met the attacking forces with a galling machine gun fire and pursued the decimated lines as they retired before the unflinching French troops. Tanks drove into the enemy's lines, machine gunning and shelling the assaulting waves and opening big gaps in the German lines.

South of Leuilly, French mountain troops crossed the ravine of Fontaine-St. Remy Hermitage, and took the St. Remy Hermitage, giving the French a solid hold on the plateau leading to Laffaux and the road leading from the Hermitage to Terny-Sorny.

On the left of the line of attack the French troops widening their bridgehead north of the Ailette, took the wood just west of Coucy-le-Château, and gained a footing in the woods west of the Nogent Mill, which borders the road from Chauny to Terny-Sorny. These successes make serious inroads upon the line of defense east of the Ailette and on the plateau that the German troops were ordered to hold at any cost. The first line of defense on the plateau is now entirely in French hands, and breaches have been made in the second line.

Soissons gets more "elbow room" as a result of these operations, and the River Ailette, with its formidable defense works, is entirely held by General Mangin as far south as the Chauny-Terny-Sorny road, while the south bank is dominated to the region north of Vauxaillon.

The French are now only five miles from the line they held before the German advance across the Chemin-des-Dames, and the enemy has only a narrow margin of fighting ground between his present lines and the Hindenburg position along the edge of the Forest of St. Gobain.

Elite of Germany There.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 2, (Associated Press.)—Localization in the activity of the infantry in the past two days has given the appearance of the relinquishment of the pressure on the flying German lines from the Somme to Soissons. The altered face of the battle is due to changes in the conditions of the ground and tactics and though the fighting has been confined to comparatively short sectors north of Soissons, north of Noyon and around Nesle engagements of the utmost importance have been in progress in which the Allies have gained advantages that explain the enormous sacrifices the Germans made to hold them off at those points.

The French and Americans met around Juvigny the élite of the German Army — grenadiers of the Prussian Guard, picked storming battalions, and hardy mountain infantrymen. They defeated them decisively, taking an enormous death toll from their ranks and sending a goodly number of captives to the rear. The Associated Press correspondent saw a column of these prisoners filing back over the plateau to the west, where white wood crosses over fresh graves marked the scene of other recent defeats. Some were young, but all were sturdy, and humiliation and depression showed in their faces rather than the satisfaction exhibited by other prisoners over their final release from the inferno of war.

The Americans co-operated in the attack on Juvigny with the type of tanks which the French have named "Chars d'Assaut," or shock cars. These engines of war have been called "armored infantry." They have all the suppleness of troops afoot and they advance readily into the enemy's positions, dealing weath with gruesome profusion from their quick-firers and cannon. One of these cars, manned by a French Lieutenant, killed 200 Germans before Juvigny. He had just abandoned a damaged tank to take the place of a wounded man in another. His pilot, whose orders were to stay by the disabled car, was unable to resist the enthusiasm of the charging troops past his abandoned post, and fell in with a platoon of Americans short of officers. The pilot showed them the route, and fought with them all afternoon.

Praises the Americans.

"It's good to see how those Americans fight," this boy said to the correspondent. "We are glad to fight with them. Together we will get the Germans."

Very severe fighting has been going on also north of Noyon, along the Meve River and the Canal du Nord and around Nesle. After forcing the last fortified centres of resistance around Roye and Chaulnes, the French arrived at these points, confronting natural obstacles which the Germans utilized to best advantage.

American Guns Level Towns.

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Sept. 2.—A great fight has been in progress all day north and northeast of Soissons. The Germans are defending the Pont Rouge Plateau, northeast of Soissons, and the Laon Railway with great vigor, as well as the line on the right along the north bank of the Aisne.

The Americans are bombarding the German positions from the south and west. The lines of the enemy for hours have been a seething inferno of smoke and dust. The villages he has been holding are burning like vast torches.

Smoke from the conflagrations is boiling up from the valley and over the hills, which are about 600 feet high. Fires are spreading through the woods and about them in scarlet wreaths of flame.

The Germans at 1 o'clock drenched the American positions on the Juvigny plateau with gas, but in retaliation an American barrage silenced his guns for the moment.

On the southern end of the line the enemy is continuing to interpose an energetic resistance between the Ailette and the Aisne, profiting by the intricacies of the terrain, which make the region one of the most difficult to attack and easiest to defend on the whole of the western front. Nevertheless, General Mangin is making progress daily, scoring advances which, while not great in themselves, are appreciable and continuous and are calculated to have a cumulative effect.

Through the capture of Leuilly, eight miles north of Soissons, and of Terny-Sorny, three miles directly south of Leuilly, the French have completed the capture of the plateau above Soissons. Leuilly, in addition, is close to the Ailette, while Terny-Sorny is on a level with the Chemin-des-Dames, which is less than four miles to the east. One effect of the advance is to give a view eastward over the whole country as far as Laon, an advantage which will have its effect in due time.

RHINE RAIDERS DROP 15 TONS OF BOMBS

British Independent Air Force Smashes Military Centres in German Towns.

WRECKS HANGARS AT BUEHL

Railway at Ehrang and Saarbrucken Attacked—Fires Started in Burbach Works.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—The British independent air force within the last twenty-four hours has dropped fifteen tons of bombs on German military works in the Rhine provinces.

Three raids were made on the German airdrome at Buehl. Three hangars were demolished and direct hits were obtained on many others.

The Air Ministry this evening issued the following statement dealing with recent aerial operations:

> In addition to the attacks already reported on the hostile airdrome at Beuhl on the morning of the 2d inst., our squadrons on the afternoon of the 2d inst. again attacked the same objective. Very good results were obtoined. More hangars were hit and a fire was started. All our machines returned safely.
> On the night of Sept. 2-3 our squadrons dropped a total of seventeen tons of bombs. The Beuhl airdrome was again heavily attacked and the following targets bombed: The Burbach works and the railways at Saarbrücken and Ehrang and the Boulay airdrome. Several fires were started. At Beuhl three hangars were demolished and direct hits were obtained on mnay others. The attack was carried out at an altitude from 300 to 900 feet. More than fifteen tons of bombs were dropped on this airdrome in twenty-four hours.
> The railways at Ehrang were attacked from a height of 900 feet and every bomb obtained a direct hit. A fire was started in the Burbach works (Saarbrücken) and very good bursts were observed. All our machines returned safely.

American and British airmen in a raid on the German airdrome at Vassenaere, Belgium, have caused great damage, according to an announcement made here today. A gasoline and oil dump was set on fire, and this in turn ignited an ammunition dump and also six Fokker biplanes. Two other machines were destroyed by direct hits by bombs, and a large Gotha hangar was completely burned.

The pilot of a British two-seater was attacked by seven hostile machines. The enemy fired explosive bullets and the pilot was hit five times in the left leg. Although his leg was almost severed, he succeeded in landing his machine behind the British lines.

Of the work of the airmen in the battle zone an official communication this evening says:

"On Sept. 2 our airplanes worked all day in front of the advancing battle line, behind which our observation balloons folllowed closely. Our airmen were frequently attacked by large formations of hostile machines, but persisted in their various tasks.

"The targets offered by the retiring Germans were reported to our artillery and contact with our infantry and tanks was maintained. Concentrations of hostile troops and transport along the road were engaged with bombs and machine guns, hostile anti-tank guns were silenced, and supplies of small arms ammunition were dropped to our infantry in the forward zone.

"Many aerial encounters took place. We destroyed ten German machines and drove two down out of control. Our missing machines amounted to twenty.

"Twenty-four tons of bombs were dropped during the day and the nighth following."

PARIS, Sept. 3.—The War Office announcement tonight says:

"Aviation—On Sept. 2 our aviators were particularly active along the whole front. They did important work. Our observers increased their reconnoissances over the enemy lines. They took about one hundred photographs of the battle zone. Our infantry airmen chronicled the advance of our troops, reported on the enemy batteries in action, and in liaison with the artillery co-operated in the destruction of enemy centres of resistance.

"Numerous engagements were fought, in the course of which nineteen enemy planes were brought down or put out of action, and nine captive balloons were burned.

"Our bombing planes dropped more than thirteen tons of bombs in the region of Chavignon, Ainzy, and Brancourt. During the night our bombing machines continued their work. Sixteen tons of projectiles were dropped on stations, bivouacs, and railways behind the enemy front. The station at Flavy-le-Martel received six tons, and two violent fires broke out. Three tons were dropped on cantonments in the region of Jussy, and four tons on the stations at Guignicourt and Maison Bleue, giving excellent results. Our bombing machines also used several thousand cartridges against enemy bivouacs."

AUSTRIA LOSES STAR FLYERS.

Several of Her Best Pilots Downed on Italian Front.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—A telegram to the Italian Embassy today stated that during recent enemy raids on the Italian front the Austrians lost numerous machines and several of their best pilots. Eight of these had been mentioned in Austrian dispatches for special bravery.

The dispatch said that in August Lieutenants Oppocher and Schuffs were killed over Levico. Lieutenant Linke and Count Salm, belonging to the 13th Dragoons, also were killed in air encounters. Lieutenant Hebra, who had been decorated several times, was brought down after a fierce duel over Klagenfurt. Lieutenant Eprfeld also has been killed and Baron Kutchers has had both legs fractured.

A communiqué to the Belgian Legation today stated that Lieutenant Willy Coppens of the Belgian Aviation Service had brought down in flames three balloons, achieving his twenty-sixth, twenty-seventh and twenty-eighth victories.

159 SURVIVORS LAND.

Crews of Several Vessels Sunk by U-Boat Reach Canadian Port.

A CANADIAN ATLANTIC PORT, Sept. 3.—One hundred and fifty-nine men, comprising the crews of a Norwegian steamer and five Lunenburg, Newfoundland, and French fishing schooners, recent victims of a German submarine, have arrived here on a trawler. The men, in thirty-one dories, had been nearly a week in making land. They were picked up off the Grand Banks.

The men reported that after they were ordered from their craft they were not allowed to go back for food, clothing or money.

Fifth Avenue and The Bond Market

FIFTH AVENUE, New York, has long been the buying center of the United States for everything except bonds. And now it is a place to buy bonds also.

The National City Company's new uptown office at Fifth Avenue and Forty-third Street is right in the heart of the hotel and shopping district, and is provided with every facility of the Company's home office, including bond and news tickers, financial literature and private wire connection with many important investment centers. Thoroughly equipped men and women will be glad to discuss with you any investment problems.

It is our plan in establishing this office to enable an investor to step in and buy bonds with as little trouble as he would have in buying gloves. We are bringing the market to him instead of asking him to go downtown to reach the market.

This new Fifth Avenue office offers the complete service of our national organization. We shall be happy to have you call.

High Salaries

HIGH SALARIES will be paid this year to thousands of business women who a few months ago never expected to earn over $150 a month—and even to other thousands of women who have had no previous commercial experience. They are stepping forward, day by day, into executive positions that were formerly reserved for men.

But make no mistake on this point. The women who are placed in these positions will have to conform to the same standards as men.

There is an especially strong demand at the present time for women who can dictate letters.

Our Course in Business-Building English is under the direction of George Burton Hotchkiss, one of the ablest authorities in this field. It is not concerned merely with handling correspondence, but with dictating letters that get business results—letters that sell goods, make collections, adjust complaints, satisfy customers, and build up profits and good-will. The course is thoroughly practical from beginning to end. It provides executive training for men and women who are capable of stepping forward into important new duties, with salaries to correspond.

TRAINED ABILITY to write result-getting letters is never overlooked for long. It is ability that you can use and demonstrate at once in your present position. It commands its proper rewards.

We shall be glad to send you—without charge or obligation—a 60-page booklet on "Business Building English" in which this training is fully described. The booklet itself will interest you and is well worth reading for the valuable business information it contains.

Write, call or telephone today for advice on any problem of Business Training. We also have equally thorough courses in Business Organization, Foreign Trade, Business Essentials and Personal Development for Executive Work.

COMMITTEE REPORT ON BILL TO RAISE $8,000,000,000 IN TAXES

press, $20,000,000; club dues, $9,000,000; admissions, $100,000,000; gasoline, $40,000,000; pleasure boats and yachts, $1,000,000.

In presenting the bill, Representative Kitchin read the chief parts of his comprehensive report and explained that the committee had worked faithfully and along nonpartisan lines in drafting the immense revenue raiser. He obtained unanimous consent to begin consideration of the bill next Friday, and the measure will have right of way until passed, which probably will be within less than ten days. Mr. Kitchin said that if the prohibition bill should reach the House while the revenue bill was under consideration it could not be taken up until the revenue bill was on its way to the Senate.

An effort by House leaders today to obtain the consent of the Senate for a joint recess while the Senate Finance Committee was considering the war revenue measure failed. The Senate is not disposed to have any recess. Members of the House wanted the recess so they would be able to go home to engage in campaign work.

The Finance Committee will begin hearings next Friday. It is expected that the committee will be able to offer the bill to the Senate within ten days. A vote on the measure, if the plans of the Senate leaders are not upset, may come soon after Oct. 1.

The committee report, after explaining the purpose of the bill, the raising of $8,000,000,000 by taxation, one-third of the estimated expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, the balance of the $24,000,000,000 to be raised by the sale of bonds, announces that the bill is divided into fourteen titles, as follows:

Title 1.—General definitions.
Title 2.—Income tax.
Title 3.—War profits and excess profits tax.
Title 4.—Estate tax.
Title 5.—Tax on transportation and other facilities and on insurance.
Title 6.—Tax on beverages.
Title 7.—Tax on cigars, tobacco, and manufactures thereof.
Title 8.—Tax on admissions and dues.
Title 9.—Excise taxes.
Title 10.—Special taxes.
Title 11.—Stamp taxes.
Title 12.—Advisory Tax Board.
Title 13.—General administrative provisions
Title 14.—General provisions.

Distribution of Profits.

"The dividend provision makes any distribution made by a corporation out of its earnings or profits accrued since Feb. 28, 1913, and payable to its shareholders or members, whether in cash or in other property or in stock of the corporation, subject to tax in the hands of the shareholder the same as under the present law. It also provides that any distribution made in 1918 or subsequent years shall be deemed to have been made from earnings or profits accrued since Feb. 28, 1913. The present law provides that dividends distributed to the stockholder shall be taxable to the individual at the income tax rates in effect in the year in which the dividend is received, unless the corporation distributes more than its earnings for the taxable year, in which case the additional amounts so distributed are taxable in the hands of the individual at the rates in effect during the year in which the corporation earned the same. Under the proposed bill all distribution of earnings accrued since Feb. 28, 1913, will be taxable in the hands of the stockholder according to the rates in effect during the year in which the divided is received. The proposed bill, like the present law, provides that earnings or profits accrued prior to March 1, 1913, may be distributed in stock dividends or otherwise exempt from tax after the earnings and profits accrued since Feb. 28, 1913, have been distributed.

"Under court decisions an addition to surplus through reappraisement of assets is not made out of earnings or profits, and therefore a distribution of the amount so added to surplus would not be a taxable dividend, since not made out of earnings or profits. In order to prevent tax evasion by this method, it is provided by the proposed bill that any distribution made shall be deemed to have been made from earnings or profits unless all earnings and profits have first been distributed.

"In determining gain or loss from the sale or disposition of property, real, personal, or mixed, the bill provides that the basis shall be as follows:

"In the case of property acquired before March 1, 1913, the fair market price or value of such property as of that date; and in the case of property acquired on or after that date, (1) the cost thereof, or (2) the inventory value, if the inventory is made in accordance with the rules and regulations to be prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue in order that the inventory may clearly reflect the income.

"In many cases the only way that the net income can be determined is through the proper use of inventories. This is largely true in the case of manufacturing and merchandise concerns. The bill authorizes the Commissioner to require inventories whenever in his opinion the same is necessary in order clearly to reflect the income of the taxpayer."

Taxation of Individuals.

Under the subhead "Individuals" the report continues:

"Under existing law a normal tax of 2 per cent. is levied under the Revenue act of 1916 upon the amount of the net income of a head of a family or married person in excess of $4,000 and upon the amount of the net income of a single person in excess of $3,000. A like normal tax of 2 per cent. is also levied under the Revenue act of 1917 upon the amount of the net income of a married person or head of a family in excess of $2,000 and in the case of a single person in excess of $1,000. In lieu of the rates now in effect the proposed bill (Section 210) levies upon citizens or residents of the United States a normal tax of 12 per cent. upon the amount of the net income in excess of credits provided in Section 216, but provides that upon the first $4,000 of this amount the rate shall be only 6 per cent.

"The committee gave careful consideration to the advisability of making a differential between earned and unearned income, but finally determined that a flat normal tax was advisable in view of the difficulty experienced by the committee in finding a satisfactory method of distinguishing between earned and unearned income (a difficulty also experienced by the Treasury Department) and in view of the almost insuperable difficulties in the administration of such a differential and the added complications in the law which would be necessitated thereby. The Treasury Department also gave careful consideration to this question and reached the same conclusion as the committee.

"In determining the amount of net income for the purpose of the normal tax only the following credits are allowed (sec. 216) (1) The amount received as dividends from a corporation. (2) Any amount received as interest upon obligations of the United States, any State, Territory, any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, if the same has been included in gross income. (3) In the case of a single person, an exemption of $1,000 or in the case of a head of a family or a married person living with husband or wife, a personal exemption of $2,000. A husband and wife living together are entitled to but one personal exemption of $2,000. If a husband and wife make separate returns either one may take credit for the $2,000 or they may divide the same between them. (1) An additional credit of $200 is allowed a taxpayer for each dependent receiving his chief support from the taxpayer if the dependent is under 18 years of age or incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective.

"For the purpose of the normal tax levied under the act of 1916, a single person was entitled to a personal credit of $3,000 and a married person or head of a family to $4,000. The proposed bill reduces this exemption to the exemption provided under the Revenue ac tof 1917, namely, $1,000 in the case of single persons and $2,000 in the case of heads of families or married persons. Under the Revenue act of 1917 a credit of $200 was allowed a taxpayer for each dependent child under the age of 18 years. The proposed bill allows the same exemption for dependent children under 18 years of age, but extends the $200 exemption to cover persons receiving their chief support from the taxpayer who are incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective.

"Under existing law a nonresident alien is not entitled to a personal exemption, but is only subject to a 2 per cent. normal tax. The bill provides that the normal tax upon nonresident aliens be made the same as in the case of citizens or residents, namely, 12 per cent. of the net income in excess of credits provided in Section 216 (but without any reduction to 6 per cent. on the first $4,000) and that nonresident aliens be entitled (Sec. 217) to the same deductions and credits as citizens of the United States if they file or cause to be filed with the Collector a true and accurate return of their total income received from all sources, corporate or otherwise, in the United States, and include therein all the information which the Commissioner may deem necessary for the calculation of such deductions and credits. Provision is made in the bill (Sec. 217) to allow the Commissioner, in his discretion, to permit nonresident aliens to file a claim for the personal exemption with the withholding agent in cases where the income is withheld at the source.

"The bill also provides (Sec. 216 (e)) that if the nonresident alien is a citizen or subject of a country which imposes an income tax the personal exemption shall be allowed only if such country allows a similar exemption to United States citizens residing in such country.

"The following table shows the surtaxes levied under existing law and the proposed bill:

Net Income Defined.

"The bill (Sec. 212) defines net income to mean the gross income as defined in Sec. 213 less the deductions allowed by Sec. 214. Gross income will include the same items of income as are included under the present law, with the following exceptions:

"(1) The bill includes in gross income the interest from obligations of States, Territories, political subdivisions thereof, or the District of Columbia, issued after the passage of this act, unless authorized by law prior to the passage of this act or unless issued for the purpose of funding or refunding interest-bearing indebtedness outstanding at the time of the passage of this act or for the performance of a contract entered into prior to the passage of the act. The committee was of the opinion that, although there is doubt as to the constitutionality of including the interest on these obligations, justice requires that at least in time of war the holders of these securities should share the burdens equally with the holders of Liberty bonds. The bill places these bonds and Liberty bonds upon the same basis, exempting the holder of not more than $5,000 of them from all income, war profits, and excess profits taxes, and exempting him from normal income tax on the interest received from the total amount held by him, and subjecting him to surtax and war profits or excess profits tax on the interest received from such bonds the aggregate principal of which exceeds $5,000.

"(2) The compensation of the President of the United States and of the Judges of the Supreme and inferior courts of the United States and all other officers and employes of any State, Territory, or political subdivision thereof or the District of Columbia, is made subject to income tax. The compensation of these officials under existing law is not subject to income tax. Your committee realizes that there is a great difference of opinion among the best legal talent with reference to the constitutionality of this provision, but feels that in all equity and justice such officials should be subject to income taxes and that, if necessary, this matter should be definitely decided by the courts.

"(3) The bill also excludes from gross income amounts not in excess of $3,500 received by persons in the military or naval forces of the United States as salary or compensation in any form from the United States for services abroad or at sea in such forces.

"(4) The present law excludes from gross income the proceeds of life insurance policies paid upon the death of the insured to individual beneficiaries. The proposed bill also excludes the proceeds of such policies paid to the estate of the insured.

"(5) Under the present law it is not necessary to include in gross income the income of foreign Governments received from investments in the United States in stocks, bonds, or other domestic securities owned by such foreign Governments, or from interest on deposits in banks of the United States of moneys belonging to such foreign Governments. The proposed bill, in addition to providing that the aforementioned income shall not be included in gross income, provides that income of foreign Governments from any other source within the United States shall not be so included.

"(6) Under the present law it is doubtful whether amounts received through accident or health insurance, or under workmen's compensation acts, as compensation for personal injury or sickness, and damages received on account of such injuries or sickness are required to be included in gross income. The proposed bill provides that such amounts shall not be included in gross income.

Deductions.

"Sec. 214 of the bill allows the same deductions from gross income as under existing law, with the following exceptions:

"1. The present law allows the deduction of interest paid, except on indebtedness incurred for the purchase of tax-free obligations or securities. This is difficult of administration, for in many cases it is impossible to tell for what purpose indebtedness is incurred. A man, for example, may have a mortgage on his house and have $1,000 in bank. He borrows $1,000 and buys a Liberty Bond and makes a payment on his mortgage. For what purpose was the $1,000 borrowed? The proposed bill allows the deduction of all interest paid in excess of the amount of interest received free from income tax. This is easy of administration and carries out the general purpose of the existing law.

"2. The present law allows as a deduction the whole amount of taxes paid to a foreign Government. The proposed bill, since it allows (Sec. 222) the amount of income and excess profits taxes paid to foreign countries upon income received from sources therein as a credit against the income tax payable to the United States, does not allow the same amount over again as a deduction in computing net income.

"3. Under existing law, in transactions entered into for profit but not connected with the taxpayer's business or trade, only the losses actually sustained therein during the year to an amount not exceeding the profits arising therefrom can be deducted. The proposed bill changes the provision of existing law to allow the entire loss in such transaction to be deducted.

"4. Due to the necessity for erecting buildings and building machinery for war purposes many buildings and much machinery have been erected that will be of little value after the war. Under existing law it is impossible for the Treasury Department to allow deductions other than for the ordinary exhaustion, wear and tear, and depletion of such property. A provision is incorporated in this bill to allow the Treasury Department in such cases to allow special amounts for amortization, according to the peculiar condition in each case, but such amounts cannot exceed in any year 25 per cent. of the net income. At any time within three years the allowance may be re-examined, and if found incorrect the taxes will be readjusted, and any overpayment refunded or any underpayment collected from the taxpayer.

"5. The depletion provision of existing law does not grant an allowance for cost of development. In the case of mines, oil, and gas wells such an allowance seems only equitable and fair and the bill provides that a reasonable allowance in such cases be allowed for depreciation of improvements. The bill also corrects an inequality of the present law by providing for an equitable apportionment of the depletion allowance between lessor and lessee.

"Under the proposed bill the partners will be liable to income tax the same as under existing law. The partnership as such is not liable to income tax, but each partner will pay his income tax upon his share of the partnership profits, whether the same are distributed or not.

"Under existing law a citizen of the United States can only deduct income war or excess profits taxes paid to a foreign country from gross income in computing net income. With the corresponding high rates imposed by certain foreign countries the taxes levied in such countries in addition to the taxes levied in the United States upon citizens of the United States place a very severe burden upon such citizens. The bill provides that a credit against the income tax imposed in the United States be allowed a citizen of the United States subject to income and war or excess profits taxes in a foreign country of an amount equal to the tax paid in such country upon income that is received from sources within such country. The bill further provides that in the case of an alien resident of the United States who is a citizen or subject of a country which imposes income, war profits, or excess profits taxes, a like credit shall be allowed if such country allows a similar credit to citizens of the United States resident in such country.

Individual Returns and Estimates.

"Under existing law only persons of lawful age have to make returns. A minor's income is either included in the income tax return of the parent or a return is made for the minor by his guardian. Single persons of lawful age and having a net income of $1,000 or over and married persons having incomes of $2,000 or over are required to make returns under existing law. The proposed bill requires every person, whether of lawful age or not, having a net income for the taxable year of $1,000 or over, if single, or if married and not living with husband or wife, to make a return, and requires all married persons living with husband or wife having a net income of $2,000 or over to make returns. It is deemed advisable to allow persons under 21 years of age to make their own return and pay their own tax separate from their parents if they are making their own living or are emancipated. It is believed that there are a considerable number of young men and women under the age of 21 now earning more than $1,000 per year.

"The income tax estimates are based upon the returns for the calendar year 1917, as near as the Treasury Department can determine the details of such returns at this time.

"These figures show that there were about 615,000 individuals with an income of over $4,000 per annum, and 2,440,000 with taxable incomes of $4,000 or less.

"The total taxable income is given as $7,400,000,000 and of income subject to normal tax $4,700,000,000, the difference being due to the fact that in computing the normal tax a credit is given for the personal exemption and for dividends received from corporations.

"It is estimated that the individual normal income tax will yield $414,000,000 and the surtaxes $1,068,186,000, making the total individual income tax for the current taxable year $1,482,186,000.

Corporation Income Tax.

Taking up the income tax on corporations, the report says:

"Under the Revenue act of 1916 a corporation tax of 2 per cent. is levied upon the net income of all corporations, and under that act dividends received by one corporation from another are not allowed to be deducted in arriving at net income. The Revenue act of 1917 levies an additional corporation income tax of 4 per cent. upon the net income of all corporations, but for the purpose of such additional tax allows a corporation to deduct dividends received by it from other corporations in arriving at its net income. The proposed bill allows a deduction of all dividends received by one corporation from another in computing net income and levies, (Section 230,) a corporation tax of 18 per cent. upon the amount of the net income in excess of the credits allowed in Section 236, but provides that the rate shall be 12 per centum upon so much of this amount as does not exceed the sum of (1) the dividends paid during the taxable year, plus (2) the amount paid during the taxable year out of earnings or profits in discharge of bonds and other interest-bearing obligations outstanding prior to the beginning of such year.

"An example will make clear the effect of this tax. Suppose the amount of the net income of a corporation in excess of its credits is $100,000. Suppose it has paid out during the year $50,000 in dividends, and discharged $10,000 worth of bonds. Its tax would then be 12 per cent. of $60,000, and 18 per cent. of $40,000.

"The committee believes that the reduction of the rate to 12 per cent. on an amount equal to the amount of dividends paid will have a wholesome effect in many cases in stimulating the payment of dividends, which will be subject to surtax in the hands of the stockholders.

"The bill makes no change in the corporations exempt from income tax.

"Section 234 of the bill allows corporations the same deductions from gross income as under existing law, with the following exceptions:

"(1) Under existing law the interest deduction is limited to interest on an amount of indebtedness not in excess of the sum of the paid-in capital stock plus one-half of the interest-bearing indebtedness. Since borrowed money is not allowed to be included in computing invested capital for the purpose of the war profits and excess profits tax, it seems only fair to allow as a deduction in computing net income the whole amount of the interest paid during the year. This is done in the bill, which, however, contains the same limitation in respect to the tax-free interest received by the corporation which is applied in the case of an individual. This matter is discussed under the heading 'Deductions,' under the portion of this report relating to the individual income tax.

"(2) Existing law allows as a deduction the whole amount of taxes paid to a foreign Government. The proposed bill, since it allows (Sec. 238) the amount of income and excess profits taxes paid to foreign countries upon income received from sources therein as a credit against the income tax payable to the United States, does not allow the same amount over again as a deduction in computing net income.

"(3) A new amortization provision applicable to corporations has been added to the deduction provisions. This amortization provision as applied to corporations is exactly the same as the amortization provision applicable to individuals, which is explained at an earlier page of this report.

"(4) The depletion provision of existing law has been changed in the same manner as in the case of an individual. For a statement in regard thereto, see Paragraph 5 on an earlier page of this report.

"In computing the net income for the corporation tax the following credits are allowed:

"(1) The amount received as interest upon obligations of the United States, any State, Territory, or political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, which is included in gross income.

"(2) The amount of any war or excess profits taxes imposed by act of Congress for the same taxable year.

"(3) In the case of a domestic corporation, $2,000.

"Like existing law, the proposed bill provides that every corporation not specially exempt shall make a return. The exempt corporations are specified in Section 231. The return will be required to show the items of gross income and the deductions and credits allowed, in a manner similar to that now required under existing law. The returns will be required to be filed with the collector of the district in which is located the principal place of business or principal office or agency of the corporation, the same as under existing law.

"The net income of corporations for the current taxable year has been estimated by the Treasury Department at $10,000,000,000.

"After deducting from this amount the credits allowed (1) $2,000 exemption allowed each corporation, estimated to amount to $500,000,000, and (2) the estimated excess and war profits taxes amounting to $3,200,000,000, the income subject to the corporation taxes will be $6,300,000,000. It is estimated that of this amount $4,000,000,000 will represent amounts distributed in dividends and indebtedness paid off during the taxable year and at the 12 per cent. rate will yield $480,000,000. The remaining $2,300,000,000 will be subject to the 18 per cent. rate and will yield $414,000,000 revenue, thus making a total revenue of $894,000,000 from the corporation income taxes."

Payment in Installments.

Under the head of "Administrative Provisions," the report says:

"Under existing law all corporations having an accounting period ending with the close of the calendar year and all individuals are required to make their return on the following March 1 and to pay their tax on or before June 15. Under the present law corporations having a fiscal year other than the calendar year are required to make return on the first day of the third month following the close of the fiscal year. In order to harmonize the payment dates of business concerns and Government transactions, with a view of distributing the burden upon the banks to the best advantage, it is deemed preferable to change the time for filing the return of such corporations to the fifteenth day of the third month after the close of the calendar or fiscal year. A like period is also provided for individuals having accounting periods for a fiscal year other than the calendar year and also for those having an accounting period closing at the end of the calendar year.

"In order not to have the large payment of income and excess profits taxes come upon one date, the bill provides that these taxes be paid in three installments, one-third to be paid at the time of the filing of the return, one-third on the fifteenth day of the second month thereafter, and the remaining one-third on the fifteenth day of the fourth month after the time fixed by law for filing the return. In other words, the tax payment dates of individuals and corporations whose accounting period is on the basis of the calendar year will be March 15, May 15, and July 15. The commissioner is authorized to extend the time for making the return, whenever in his judgment good cause exists, for a period not to

"In the case of taxpayers who are abroad the Commissioner has discretionary authority to extend the time for such period as he deems necessary. Except in the case of a taxpayer who is abroad, taxpayers securing such extension of time must pay the first installment of taxes upon the expiration of the period of extension, and the second and third installments will become due as in the case of all other taxpayers and as above stated. In the case of any taxpayer who is abroad the Commissioner may extend the time for payment of the second and third installments by not more than four months after the expiration of the period of any extension of time for filling his return.

"A new provision is incorporated in the bill providing that if upon examination of any return of income made pursuant to the income tax provisions of the Revenue act of Aug. 5, 1909, or Oct. 3, 1913, or the Revenue acts of 1916 and 1917 or this act it appears that an amount of income, war profits, or excess profits tax has been paid in excess of that properly due the amount of the excess so paid shall be credited against any income, war profits, or excess profits taxes or installments thereof then due from the taxpayer under any other return and that any balance of such excess shall be immediately refunded to the taxpayer. It is believed that this provision will materially assist in the settlement of transactions between the taxpayer and the Government.

"The Revenue act of 1917 abolished collection at the source and substituted information at the source in lieu thereof, and provided that all individuals, corporations, and partnerships, including lessees or mortgagors of real or personal property, fiduciaries, and employers making payment to another individual, corporation, or partnership of any fixed or determinable annual or periodical sum in excess of $800 should report this information to the Commissioner in order that he might use the same as a check upon the returns of the respective taxpayers. The proposed bill retains the system of information at the source, but only requires information of income payments made in excess of $1,000 or more in any taxable year.

"The proposed bill, as under existing law, only requires the withholding of income in the case of payments by individuals, corporations, and partnerships of fixed and determinable annual or periodical gains, profits, and income to nonresident alien individuals or nonresident corporations. In the case of nonresident aliens the normal tax will be withheld at the rate of 12 per cent.

"In the case of tax-free covenant bonds, the obligor will be required to deduct and withhold a tax equal to 2 per cent. of the interest upon such bonds and similar obligations the same as under existing law."

War and Excess Profits Taxes.

Taking up the levies to be made on war profits and excess profits, the committee reports:

"In lieu of the excess profits tax imposed by Title II of the revenue act of 1917 and in addition to the other taxes imposed by this act, a tax is levied for each taxable year upon the net income of every corporation, computed according to whichever of the two following methods will yield the higher amount of taxes: (1) The war profits method or (2) the excess profits method.

"In view of the increased individual normal and surtax rates upon the income of individuals and partnerships which in most cases will make the taxes paid by such individuals as high as the income and excess or war profits taxes paid by corporations engaged in similar business and in view of the difficulty in administering an excess profits tax applicable to individuals, the bill provides that the war and excess profits taxes shall apply to corporations only.

"In view of the fact that in many cases it has been the experience under the present excess profit tax law that the excess profits tax has borne more heavily upon many small corporations with capital of less than $50,000 than upon the larger corporations, because of the fact that the smaller corporations are in most instances capitalized on a different basis, and the income of such smaller corporations is in most cases largely attributable to the personal activities of the stockholders rather than to the capital invested. In order to more equally distribute the tax burden the bill provides that in the case of a corporation having an invested capital of not more than $25,000 the excess or war profits tax levy shall in no case exceed 35 per cent. of the amount of its net income for the taxable year in excess of $3,000, and that in the case of corporations having more than $25,000 but not more than $50,000 invested capital, the excess or war profits tax levy shall in no case be more than 40 per cent. of the amount of its net income for the taxable year in excess of $3,000. This provision, however, will not apply to corporations whose net income exceeds $50,000.

"In certain instances the experience under the existing excess profits tax law has been that there are certain classes of corporations the earnings of which are to be ascribed primarily to the activities of the principal owners or stockholders and in which capital is not directly or indirectly a material income-producing factor. In such cases the excess profits tax would bear too heavily upon such corporation, as practically all or by far the greater portion of the income would be subject to the rate provided in the highest excess profits bracket. In order to equalize this situation the bill provides in Section 303 that in the case of such a corporation, in lieu of the tax imposed by the excess profits tax provision of the Revenue act of 1917 and in lieu of the tax imposed by Section 301 of the proposed bill, and in addition to all other taxes imposed by such bill, a tax of 20 per cent. upon the amount of the net income of such corporation for the taxable year in excess of $3,000. It is provided, however, that no corporation shall be taxable under this provision if 50 per cent. or more of its gross income consists of gains or profits derived from purchase or sale, or of gains, profits, or commissions derived from Government contracts, or if the invested capital of such corporation is more than $100,000. Such corporations will be taxable under Section 301 under the excess profits method or the war profits method, whichever will yield the higher tax.

"All corporations exempt under the income tax title will be exempt from the excess profits or war profits tax. A list of these corporations will be found in Section 231.

War Profits Method.

"This part [Part III.] fixes the prewar period as the calendar years 1911, 1912, and 1913, or, if a corporation was not in existence during the whole of such period, then as many of such years during the whole of which the corporation was in existence. The bill provides a tax of 80 per cent. upon the amount of the net income in excess of the war profits credit. The war profits credit will be determined in the following way: Every corporation will be allowed a specific exemption of $3,000, and in addition its average pre-war earnings for the pre-war period of 1911, 1912, and 1913. In the case of corporations who have increased their capital since the pre-war period, the bill provides that an additional amount be allowed equal to 10 per cent. of the additional invested capital employed during the taxable year. If the corporation has reduced its capital since the pre-war period, the allowance must be decreased by an amount equal to 10 per cent. of the invested capital withdrawn. If a corporation was not in existence during the whole of any one calendar year during the pre-war period, or if it had no net income for the pre-war period, or if its pre-war earnings were less than 10 per cent. of its invested capital for the taxable year, it will be entitled to a specific exemption of $3,000 and an additional amount equal to 10 per cent. of the invested capital for the taxable year. The proposed bill, like the present excess profits tax law, specifically provides that a foreign corporation shall in so case be entitled to the specific exemption of $3,000.

"The war profits tax is not distinctly a war profits tax, since a minimum exemption of 10 per cent. is allowed in all cases. In view of the high rate of tax imposed by this method and in view of the fact that owing to a serious depression in many industries, many corporations were making very small profits during the pre-war period, your committee believes that it is only equitable and fair to allow such corporations a minimum exemption of 10 per cent. and that sucn an exemption is necessary to allow such corporations a sufficient return upon their investment in order to assure them a reasonable profit and at the same time to enable them to maintain their plants as going concerns.

Excess Profits Method.

"The bill provides that for the purpose of determining the excess profits tax the credit shall consist of a specific exemption of $3,000 plus an amount equal to 8 per cent. of the invested capital of the corporation for the taxable year. The tax under the excess profits tax method will be computed upon the following basis: Thirty-five per cent. of the amount of the net income in excess of the excess profits credit (of 8 per cent. of the invested capital plus $3,000) and not in excess of 15 per cent. of the invested capital for the taxable year; 50 per cent. of the amount of the net income in excess of 15 per cent. of the invested capital and not in excess of 20 per cent. of such capital; and 70 per cent. of the amount of the net income in excess of 20 per cent. of such capital. Even with the increased excess profits tax rates, it is probable that many corporations whose tax will be computed under this method, will not have their taxes increased to so great an extent over their excess profits taxes of last year as many corporations whose taxes will be computed under the war profits tax method.

"Under existing law it is found that some corporations of small capital would not be able to take their entire credit out under the first bracket. The bill provides that in such cases where the full amount of the credit cannot be allowed in the first bracket by reason of the fact that such credit is in excess of 15 per cent. of the invested capital the part not so allowed shall be deducted from the amount in the next succeeding bracket, and if not then fully allowed the remaining part shall be deducted in the last bracket. As under existing law, in computing the excess profits tax a foreign corporation will not be entitled to a specific exemption of $3,000 in computing the excess profits tax under the proposed bill.

Net Income.

"The net income of corporations for the prewar period 1911, 1912, and 1913 will be computed exactly as under existing excess profits tax law and will be comparatively easy to ascertain, since the returns are already on file in the Treasury Department. The net income for the taxable year will be computed upon the same basis and in the same manner as is provided for computing the corporate income under Title II. of the proposed bill.

"The average net income for the prewar period will be determined by dividing the number of years within that period during the whole of which the corporation was in existence into the sum of the net income for such years, even though there may have been no net income for one or more of such years.

Invested Capital.

"The definition of invested capital in the existing law, while rewritten in the proposed bill in the interest of clearness and while changed slightly in order to apply a more liberal rule in a few cases where the existing law has in operation been found to produce certain inequalities, has not been changed in any important particular.

"In order to simplify the definition of invested capital it has been deemed advisable to define certain terms, such as 'intangible property,' 'tangible property,' 'borrowed capital,' and 'inadmissible assets.' These definitions will be found in Section 325 of the bill.

"In the case of certain investment banking houses whose business is almost entirely confined to tax-exempt securities, such as municipal and State bonds, a very difficult question arises as to what should be the invested capital of such corporation. Although the definition of invested capital in existing law specifically states that the amount invested in such securities shall not be included in invested capital if the interest income from the same is not subject to income, excess and war profits taxes, the income from the gain upon the sale of these bonds, however, is subject to all the afore-mentioned taxes. The bill, therefore, allows such a corporation to add to its invested capital an amount equal to the same proportion of the amount invested in such tax-free securities as the profit from the sale of such securities bears to the total net income derived from the sale thereof and the interest thereon.

"It also has been the experience of the Treasury Department that the excess profits tax places a very heavy burden upon investment houses and similar corporations whose business is largely confined to dealing in tax-free securities, because such corporations cannot include in invested capital either such securities or borrowed money. In order more nearly to equalize this burden, the bill provides that in such cases a corporation shall be entitled to include in invested capital an amount invested in such tax-free securities not in excess of the borrowed capital of such corporation (other than indebtedness maturing within one year of its creation, all accounts payable and current liabilities) for such year, if it includes in its net income for excess profits tax purpose the interest and dividends from the bonds and stocks included in computing invested capital.

Constructive Capital.

"The existing excess profits act provides that in cases where the Secretary of the Treasury is unable to determine satisfactorily the invested capital of a corporation he may construct the same upon the basis of representative concerns. The bill provides that the Commissioner of Internal Revenue be given this same discretion under the proposed excess profits tax method and adds a provision in Section 327 for the construction of capital in two additional specified cases: (1) Where the mixed aggregate of tangible property and intangible property has been paid in for stock or for stock and bonds and the Commissioner is unable satisfactorily to determine the representative values of the several classes of property at the time of payment or to distinguish the classes of property paid in for stock and for bonds, respectively, or (2) where capital is a material income producing factor but where, because of the fact that the capital employed is in large part borrowed, there is no invested capital, or the invested capital is materially disproportionate to the net income as compared with representative concerns engaged in a like or similiar trade or business. This section is not, however, to apply to any corporation 50 per cent. or more of whose gross income is derived from Government contracts.

"The bill provides in Section 328 that in determining invested capital in the above cases the Commissioner shall compare he taxpayer only with representative corporations whose invested capital can be satisfactorily determined and which are as nearly as may be similarly circumstanced with respect to gross income, net income, profits per unit of business transacted and capital employed, the amount and rate of war or excess profits, and all other relevant facts and circumstances.

"Section 328 also provides that the commissioner shall keep a record of all cases in which invested capital is constructed under Section 327 and that the Senate or House of Representatives may call for a copy of such record or information regarding any such cases without regard to the restrictions contained in Section 257 with reference to publicity of income tax returns.

Reorganizations.

"In the case of the reorganization, consolidation, or change of ownership after Jan. 1, 1911, of a trade or business now carried on by a corporation, for the purpose of determining the net income and invested capital for the prewar period, the corporation shall be deemed to have been in existence prior to that date, and the net income and invested capital of the predecessor trade or business for all or any part of the pre-war period prior to the organization of the corporation shall be deemed to have been the net income and invested capital of the corporation.

"In the case of the reorganization, consolidation, or change of ownership of a trade or business after March 3, 1917, if an interest or control in such trade or business of 50 per cent. or more remains in the same persons or any of them, in such case no asset transferred or received from the predecessor trade or business shall, in computing invested capital, be allowed a greater value than would have been allowed in computing the invested capital of the prior trade or business if such asset had not been so transferred or received.

"In the case of corporations having a fiscal year ending during 1918 the income will be divided into two parts: The income falling in the year 1917 will be subject to the excess profits tax rate provided under existing law in the revenue act of 1917, and the income falling in the period from Jan. 1, 1918, to the close of the fiscal year will be taxable at the war-profits rate or excess-profits rate, whichever is higher, provided in this bill.

"No returns for excess or war profits tax purposes will be required of any corporation not having a net income of $3,000 or over for the taxable year. Corporations subject to tax under this title will make return and pay their taxes at the same times and places and in the same manner and subject to the same conditions as is required of corporations in making their return for income-tax purposes.

"It is assumed that the net income of corporations for the current taxable year will be $10,000,000,000. This is less than the net income for the last taxable year, which is estimated by the Treasury Department at $10,500,000,000, and it is estimated that these earnings will be reduced to the above figure for 1918.

"As a basis for applying the rates provided in this bill, the returns of about 11,500 corporations for 1917, selected at random, were tabulated. It is assumed that the returns for the current year will be similar to these known corporations reporting for last year, the total net income, of course, being estimated at $10,000,000. It is estimated that the revenue from these taxes will be about $3,200,000,000."

Inheritance Tax.

The report then proceeds to explain the inheritance, or estate, tax.

"The present bill," says the committee, "provides for the imposition of a tax which will take the place of that imposed by Title II. of the Revenue act of 1916 as amended March 3, 1917, and the tax imposed by Title IX. of the Revenue act of 1917.

"Section 402 of this bill, which takes the place of Section 202 of the original act, has been revised so as to contain a provision specifically including in the gross estate dower, curtesy, or any estate created in lieu of dower or curtesy.

"There has also been included in the gross estate the value of property passing under a general power of appointment.

"The gross estate section has been amended to specifically include (1) insurance receivable by the executor under policies taken out by the decedent upon his own life and (2) insurance in excess of $40,000 receivable by all specific beneficiaries under policies taken out by the decedent upon his own life. Agents of insurance companies have openly urged persons of wealth to take out additional insurance payable to specific beneficiaries for the reason that such insurance would not be included in the gross estate.

"Section 403, which takes the place of Section 203 of the original act defining the deductions for the purpose of arriving at the net estate, inserts a provision that income taxes upon income received after the death of the decedent, and estate, succession, legacy, or inheritance taxes, are not to be deducted.

"An additional subdivision has been added to Section 403 which will grant a deduction of amounts which have been received by the decedent as a share in the estate of any person who died within five years prior to the death of the decedent. It has come to the attention of the committee that persons closely related have died within such a short

To Manufacturers
Engaged in Essential
Industries or in War Work

THE United States Government has found it necessary, in order to effect a general saving of fuel, iron and steel, to considerably curtail the business of all stove manufacturing concerns.

This leaves us, or will very shortly, with a large excess capacity available for war work, or work classed as "Essential" on which U. S. priority orders are available. This concern, one of the largest and best known in our industry, in the country, was established in 1846. We now have a big up-to-date plant, equipped in the most modern manner and backed by a corps of experienced men, capable of handling any proposition in our line which you can put up to us.

We especially solicit work from other manufacturers, in the following lines:

1—Vitreous Porcelain Enameling on Steel or Cast Iron—all colors.
2—Sheet Metal Work—all kinds.
3—Nickel Plating and Polishing.
4—Japanning on Steel or Cast Iron and Electro Galvanizing.
5—Gray Iron Castings—all kinds.

For handling Vitreous Porcelain Enamel Work, we have a big capacity and one of the largest and best equipped enameling plants in the U. S.

For Sheet Metal Work, we have sheet steel and metal stamping machinery for employment of 100 men.

For Nickel Plating and Polishing, we have capacity for the employment of 100 men with all modern equipment.

For Japanning and Electro Galvanizing on steel or cast iron, our company is well equipped—has large capacity for both.

For handling Gray Iron Castings, we have 100 moulding machines with capacity for 250 moulders. Also cleaning mill capacity for foundry output including sand blast.

We are also in a position to make all types of stoves, ranges and furnaces, as well as cast iron garbage incinerators, cast iron latrine incinerators, (Conley Pat.), Army ranges, hotel ranges, etc. We have manufactured, at various times, a considerable line of Enameled Hospital Supplies and kindred lines and can handle any work of this nature required. The floor space available is about 360,000 sq. ft. We employ over 600 men and are in a position to serve you promptly and efficiently. We make a specialty of handling big jobs on short notice, and have a wide reputation for doing things right and on time.

Tell us about your needs and we will have our representative call—or will take the matter up with you by mail—and estimate on the cost, time of delivery, etc. WRITE, TELEPHONE or WIRE US AT OUR EXPENSE.

WHITMAN NAMED TO FIGHT SMITH

Mr. Schoeneck carried all counties with the exception of Kings, where almost complete returns indicated a victory for Bennett, and Oneida, where, with about half of the election districts heard from, ex-Senator Heacock had a lead over both his opponents.

In the Democratic primaries Mr. Osborn carried his home county, Putnam, where the vote stood 99 for Smith and 441 for Osborn. In Wyoming County, in the extreme western part of the State, with nine election districts missing, Smith had 99 votes against 127 for Osborn.

Probably two score of women had been designated for nomination throughout the State, a majority in the Socialist and Prohibition Parties. The women in nearly every case ran unopposed and in districts where the party which named them is in a hopeless minority.

An exception was Miss Helen McKelvey of Rockland County, who was a contestant with Mrs. Mary C. Brewster for the Republican nomination for State Senator in the Twenty-fourth District, including Richmond and Rockland Counties, and won the nomination in a district which at the present time is represented by a Republican. Mrs. Ida B. Sammis, who was a candidate for the Republican nomination for Assembly in the Second Suffolk District against Henry A. Murphy, the present incumbent, according to all indications will win a nomination which is almost certain to result in her election to the Assembly.

In the Twenty-first Congressional District in New York City, where there were four candidates for the Republican nomination, John A. Bolles, the organization choice, won easily. There was a contest in the Democratic primaries in the same district between Jerome F. Donovan and D. C. Oliver. Donovan, who had organization backing, won.

In the Thirty-fourth Congressional District, which includes Broome County, the fight between William H. Hill and Julius E. Rogers was close, but the returns indicate a Hill victory.

Representative Walter W. Magee, who was a candidate against Giles M. Stilwell for renomination in the Thirty-fifth, which includes Onondaga and Cortland, won a ready victory, though Francis Hendricks, the vetrean Republican leader of Onondaga had indorsed his opponent.

In the Third Congressional District returns indicate that Conrad Hasenflug by a narrow majority has defeated Francis P. Bent, the candidate of McCooey and Hylan.

WOMEN STAY AWAY FROM CITY'S POLLS

Their Absence All Over the City Was the Feature of Primary Day.

WHITMAN VOTES WITH WIFE

Governor's Wife Casts Ballot No. 1 Through Courtesy of Woman in Line Ahead of Her.

Yesterday's primary election was one of the quietest ever held in this city. From the time the polls opened at 1 P. M. until closing time at 9 o'clock last night the police had no difficulty in preserving order. During the afternoon the voting in practically every section of the city was unusually light, but after 5 o'clock, when the men returned from work, there was more activity at the polling places Women who participated yesterday for the first time in a primary election for candidates for nomination to State, Congressional, legislative, and judicial offices were slow to go to the polls during the first few hours, but they made up for the dilatoriness after sundown. In some districts the woman vote equaled that of the men.

In the eastern section of Harlem the women late in the afternoon turned out in large numbers, but along the upper west side the vote was light and the draft crusade appeared to be the centre of attraction.

In the Yorkville section the voting during the afternoon was exceptionally light, although it picked up considerably at night. At one polling place, the Eleventh Election District of the Fifteenth Assembly District, located at 718 Lexington Avenue, only thirteen votes had been cast up to 4 o'clock, and of this number two were women. Little interest was manifested anywhere in the outcome of the Whitman-Lewis fight in the Republican primary or the Smith-Osborn contest among the Democrats, for the Governorship nomination, but in districts where there were local contests there was frequent old-time election activity.

In other sections of the city, particularly on the east side, most of the voting was done during the last two hours. In the Twelfth and Fourteenth Assembly Districts, on the lower east side, few persons went to the polls until after 6 P. M. The voting by women was particularly light. In the Twelfth Assembly District, the home of Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, the men and women did not go to the polls in any numbers until after the dinner hour. In the First and Second Assembly Districts, on the east side, the voting was extremely light up to 6 o'clock, except in the Sixteenth Election District of the First Assembly District, which is Alfred E. Smith's district. At 4 o'clock the vote totaled 77, women casting 11 of the ballots. Fifty of the 99 registered women in the district had voted up to 6:30 o'clock.

In the district where Governor Whitman voted, the Eighth Election District of the Fifteenth Assembly District, the vote cast at 5 o'clock was: Democratic, 14; Republican, 42. In the Fourth District, adjoining, the vote at the same hour was: Democratic, 7; Republican, 26; Socialist, 2. The absence of any large number of women at the polling places was the feature of the day.

Governor and Mrs. Charles S. Whitman cast their ballots at a polling place in the store of a florist at 980 Sixth Avenue. They reached the polling place at 1:07, but had to wait fifteen minutes while the polling place was being put in order. When the Whitmans arrived there was one voter ahead of them, a woman. She insisted that Mrs. Whitman and the Governor take precedence, so Mrs. Whitman voted Ballot 1 and the Governor Ballot 2. The proprietor of the establishment presented Mrs. Whitman with a bunch of roses.

NEW REVENUE BILL MAY BE LAW SOON

space of time that the same estate passing within a short period of time has been subjected to the estate tax and thereby diminished unreasonably because of the short period within which the two levies have been made.

"Section 404 includes a provision that returns shall be made in all cases where the gross estate exceeds $50,000 instead of $60,000, as provided under existing law.

"A provision has been included in Section 406 which will enable the Commissioner to grant relief in the form of an extension of time for the payment of the tax not to exceed two years from the due date where the requirement for immediate payment of the tax will impose undue hardship upon the estate.

"The rate of interest chargeable on taxes not paid within a year and a half after the decedent's death has been changed from 10 per cent. to 6 per cent. per annum in the belief that this rate is a fair rate as interest, and that penalties should preferably be imposed as penalties and not in the form of penal rates of interest.

"The following table compares the estate tax rates imposed by the existing law and the proposed bill:

AMOUNT OF NET ESTATE, (AN EXEMPTION OF $50,000 IS ALLOWED ESTATES OF RESIDENTS OF THE UNITED STATES IN COMPUTING THE VALUES OF NET ESTATES.)

	Rates on Net Estate Under— Existing Law. Per Cent.	Proposed Bill. Per Cent.

$8,000,000 and not $10,000,000	22	35
Exceeding $10,000,000	25	40

"It is estimated that the estate tax will yield during the fiscal year 1920 $110,000,000, and that when the bill is in full operation the annual yield will be $140,000,000. For the fiscal year 1919 it is estimated that the estate tax yield will be about $80,000,000.

Transportation and Insurance.

On the taxation of freight and kindred subjects the report says in part:

"The proposed bill does not increase the present rate of 3 per cent. upon the amount paid for transportation of freight. It does provide, however, that in the case of freight transported from a point without the United States to a point within the United States, a tax of 3 per cent. shall be paid upon the amount paid for transportation of such freight within the United States.

"The receipts from the freight tax during the period it was in operation during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1918, amounted to $30,000,000. It is estimated that this tax will yield $75,000,000 during the first twelve months' period the bill is in operation.

"The proposed bill does not increase the rate of 1 cent for each 20 cents or fraction thereof of the amount paid for transportation by express. It does, however, as in the case of the freight provision, provide that a tax shall be paid upon express transported from a point within the United States to a point without the United States, and levies a tax of 1 cent for each 20 cents or fraction thereof upon the amount paid for such transportation within the United States.

"During the period that the express tax provision was in operation during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918, the express tax receipts amounted to $6,459,000. It is estimated that this tax will yield $20,000,000 during the first twelve months' period the bill is in operation.

"The proposed bill levies a tax of 8 per cent. upon the amount paid for transportation of persons, the same as under existing law.

"During the period that this tax was in operation during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1918, the tax yielded $24,306,000. It is estimated that during the first twelve-month period this bill is in operation the receipts from this tax will amount to $60,000,000.

"Under existing law the tax upon Pullman accommodations is an amount equivalent to 10 per cent. of the amount paid for seats, berths, and staterooms in parlor cars, sleeping cars, or on vessels. The proposed bill reduces this rate to 8 per cent. This reduction is recommended because the Director General of Railroads contemplates issuing in the very near future a ticket combining the regular fare and Pullman accommodation charge, and therefore in order to most expeditiously conduct the sale of such tickets and to avoid making a separate computation of tax for each railway and Pullman transportation charge, it is deemed advisable that the rate for both such charges be the same.

"The receipts from seats and berths during the period that the tax upon Pullman accommodations was in effect during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1918, amountedto $2,237,000. It is estimated that this tax will yield during the first twelve months' period this bill is in operation $5,000,000.

"In view of the fact that freight charges have been increased 25 per cent. and that there has been no similar increase in the transportation charge on oil by pipe line, your committee deems it fair to make an increase in the tax on the amount paid for the transportation of oil by pipe line of approximately 25 per cent. The present rate is 5 per cent. of the amount paid for such transportation, and the bill provides that the rate be increased to 6½ per cent. of the amount so paid.

"During the period of the fiscal year 1918 that the oil tax provision was in operation the receipts from this source amounted to $1,453,000. It is estimated that the receipts from the increased tax during the first twelve months this bill is in operation will amount to $4,550,000.

"Under existing law a tax of 5 cents is levied upon each telegraph, telephone, or radio dispatch, message, or conversation in which the charge for the transmission is 15 cents or more. The bill provides the following taxes upon the transmission of such messages: A tax of 5 cents for each message on which the charge is more than 14 cents and not more than 50 cents, and a tax of 10 cents upon all such messages when the charge is more than 50 cents.

"The bill provides a new tax upon the amount paid to any telegraph or telephone company for any leased wire or talking circuit special service equivalent to 10 per cent. of the amount so paid. It is provided, however, that this tax shall not apply to the amount paid for so much of such service as is utilized (1) in the collection and dissemination of news through the public press or (2) in the conduct by a common carrier or telegraph or telephone company of its business as such.

"The receipts for the period the tax upon telegraph and telephone and similar messages was in effect during the fiscal year 1918 amounted to $6,299,000. It is estimated that at the increased rates the tax, together with the tax upon talking circuit and leased wire charges, will amount to $16,000,000 during the first twelve months this bill is in operation.

"A tax equivalent to 8 cents, on each $100 or fractional part thereof of the amount for which any life is insured, is levied under existing law, and this same tax is retained in the proposed bill. It is found that some industrial insurance is written on the monthly payment plan. A new provision is proposed in such cases to harmonize more nearly the tax upon such insurance with the tax upon industrial policies issued on the weekly payment plan providing that in the case of industrial insurance upon policies by which a life is insured not in excess of $500 issued on the monthly payment plan, the tax shall be 20 per cent. of the amount of the first monthly premium. This bill also provides that in the case of such policies issued on the weekly premium plan the tax shall be 40 per cent. of the amount paid for the first weekly premium, the same as under existing law. The bill contains a new provision in the case of group life insurance covering groups of not less than 25 lives in the employ of the same person for the benefit of persons other than the employer, providing that the tax shall be equivalent to 4 cents on each $100 of the aggregate amount for which the group policy is issued and of any net increase in the amount of insurance under such policies.

"The bill re-enacts the tax of 1 cent on each dollar or fractional part thereof of the premium charged under each policy of such insurance without change.

"Under existing law a tax is levied equivalent to 1 cent on each dollar or fractional part thereof of the premium charged under each casualty-insurance policy. No charge is made in this provision except that in the case of industrial-insurance policies when issued on the monthly payment plan, a tax equivalent to 20 per cent. of the amount of the first monthly premium is imposed; and when issued on the weekly payment plan a tax of 40 per cent. of the amount paid for the first weekly premium is imposed, so that the tax levied upon such casualty-insurance policies will correspond to the tax levied upon similar life-insurance policies.

"During the period the insurance provisions were in operation during the fiscal year 1918 the revenue receipts from insurance amounted to $6,492,000. It is estimated that the receipts from insurance during the first twelve months this bill is in operation will amount to $12,000,000."

Tax on Beverages.

The committee says in part concerning the tax on beverages:

"In fixing the rates upon beverages your committee has endeavored to fix the maximum revenue producing rate, and therefore the bill provides in the case of distilled spirits for beverage purposes for an increase in the rate from $3.20 to $8 per gallon, and in the case of beverages to be used for manufacturing purposes for an increase in the rate from $2.20 to $4.40 per gallon. In the case of imported perfume containing distilled spirits, the bill provides for an increase in the rate from $1.10 to $3.30 per gallon, in order to place the imported perfume upon the same tax basis as domestic perfume. In the case of all other beverages, other than soft drinks, the rates under existing law are doubled.

"The present law levies the tax upon soft drinks upon the basis of the gallon and the present tax only applies to soft drinks sold by the manufacturer, producer, or importer. As a considerable portion of the soft drinks sold are compounded at the soda fountain, and not reached under existing law, the taxes levied under existing law are not great revenue producers. In order to secure a greater revenue from soft drinks the bill provides that a tax of 30 per cent. be levied upon the manufacturer's, producer's, or importer's selling price of cereal beverages, and that a tax of 20 per cent. be levied upon the manufacturer's, producer's, or importer's selling price of all other soft drinks.

"In the case of soft drinks, compounded or mixed at the soda fountain, ice-cream parlor, or other similar places of business, and ice cream, ice-cream sodas, sundaes, or other similar articles of food or drink when sold for consumption in or in proximity to such places of business, the bill levies a tax of 2 cents for each 10 cents or fraction thereof of the selling price to be collected from the consumer by the proprietor of the soda fountain or similar place of business and returned to the Government. In the case of sales amounting to 7 cents or less the tax will only be 1 cent."

The report gives in detail the tax rates on distilled spirits, rectified spirits, fermented liquors and wines, &c., and enumerates certain technical new legislation contained in the bill. The beverage taxes are estimated to yield $1,137,600,000.

Tobacco Products.

The next subject taken up is that of tobacco.

"Your committee," says the report, "after making a careful study of the tobacco taxes of England and the monopoly receipts from tobacco and kindred products of France and Italy, and the revenues raised therefrom in proportion to population as compared with the United States, has concluded that the proposed taxes are approximately the highest revenue-producing rates that can safely be levied in the United States at this time in the interest of a continuous flow of revenue into the Treasury and without greatly reduced consumption of tobacco and manufactures thereof. Under the Revenue act of 1916 retail dealers were allowed to hold not to exceed 100 pounds of manufactured tobacco and snuff and not to exceed 1,000 cigars or cigarettes free from the floor taxes levied under that act. It has been the purpose of your committee in framing this bill to eliminate all exemptions as far as possible and in this particular case no similar exemption is provided in this bill.

"The Revenue act of 1917 only levied one-half of the additional tax imposed by that act upon cigars, cigarettes, and manufactured tobacco and snuff held by retail dealers upon the passage of the act. The bill provides that the entire additional taxes imposed by this bill be levied upon all stocks held and intended for sale by any person upon the passage of this act.

Admissions and Dues.

"Under existing law," says the report, "the tax upon the amount paid for admission to any place of amusement is 1 cent for each 10 cents or fraction thereof of the amount paid for such admission. The bill increases this tax to 2 cents for each 10 cents or fraction thereof of the amount paid for such admission. Under existing law and under the proposed bill in the case of children under 12 years of age the tax upon such admission will be 1 cent regardless of the amount paid for the admission.

"Under existing law there is no tax levied upon admission to any place the maximum charge for admission to which is 5 cents or in the case of shows, rides, and other amusements (the maximum charge for admission to which is 10 cents) within outdoor general amusement parks or in the case of admission to such parks. The proposed bill provides in lieu of the provision that in cases where the charge for admission is 7 cents or less the tax shall be 1 cent.

"Under existing law in case of persons having permanent use of a box or seat in an opera house or any place of amusement or a lease for the use of a similar box or seat a tax equivalent to 10 per cent. of the amount for which such box or seat is sold for a performance or exhibition is required to be paid by the person enjoying such privilege. The bill increases this tax to an amount equivalent to 25 per cent. of the amount for which similar boxes or seats are sold.

"It is estimated that during a twelve-month period the present rates on admissions and dues will yield $50,000,000 and the proposed rates $100,000,000."

Excise Taxes.

The committee reports that in recommending excise taxes it "has endeavored to select articles that fall within two classes: (1) Articles that are more or less a luxury because of their nature, and (2) articles that become in the nature of a luxury when sold for more than a fixed price.

"Under existing law the tax upon jewelry is based upon the manufacturer's selling price. The jewelry definition has been materially extended in the interest of securing more revenue from this source and because of this extension your committee is of the opinion that this provision can be better administered by placing the tax upon the basis of the retail sales.

"It is estimated that the revenue from the excise taxes during the first twelve months this bill is in operation will amount to $517,305,000."

OPERETTA RETURNS IN 'FIDDLERS THREE'

LOUISE GROODY ARRIVES

Book and Music in the Ripe Tradition of Years and Years Ago.

FIDDLERS THREE, an operetta in two acts and three scenes. Book and lyrics by William Cary Duncan; music by Alexander Johnstone. At the Cort.

Gilda Varelli	Louise Groody
Carlo Andreani	Henry Leoni
Reginald Denby, Lord Duffer	Echlin Gayer
Sam Wrigglesberry	Hal Skelley
Rosa	Betty Dodsworth
Nicolo Colona	Thomas Conkey
Giuseppe	Joseph Miller
Suzanne Foppitt	Josie Intropidi
Bernice Brockway	Hazel Kirke
Anina Andreani	Tavie Belge
Beppo	Antonio Salerno
Paganini	Gilbert Clayton
Kubelik	Antonio Salerno
Giorgio	Tempe Evans

The good public which last saw "Flo Flo" at the Cort will rub its eyes when it envisages "Fiddlers Three." Rip Van Winkle could scarcely be more mystified at the difference in the morning. After decades of musical comedy which has made it a business, as the historic Devery might have said, to touch on and appertain to what it shouldn't, here we have again the real old thing, with a grand manner of propriety which is absolutely Victorian. The book is soundly based on tradition, with no false step—and not too many gay ones; while the score is so scholarly and eclectic that you positively can't tell it from music unless you happen to know about such things.

The scene is in Cremona, and the story is of three makers of violins who compete with their handiwork in an annual contest. The atmosphere of artistic endeavor is enlivened by an English fortune-hunting lordling, who pursues a supposed pickle heiress from Pittsburgh, and by an American salesman of egg beaters. With such material, of course, it is quite impossible to go wrong. The prima donna is Tavie Belge, whose excellent voice is familiar to patrons of the Strand. Henry Leoni is the heavy father and Thomas Conkey the romantic lover—sound artists both. There is an operetta chorus of Italian village maidens, reasonably personable and skirted to the ankle.

It remained, however, for a virtual newcomer to score the hit of the evening. Louise Groody is her obviously veracious name. Her voice is no better than it should be, but she has a trick of personality which stands out, in that academic cast and play, like a rocket among the stars. And how she does dance! Assisted by Hal Skelley, the purported salesman of egg beaters, she smiled and moued and rollicked her way into the very hearts of last night's audience, which for once burst into spontaneous applause.

It was rumored in the lobby that "Fiddlers Three" is the precursor of a coming series of operettas, the aim of which is to bring into this dark wartime a ray from the serener past. Be that as it may, it may safely be asserted that Miss Groody has arrived to stay. And if her advent falls in with a coming back of operetta—why not? Very much worse might happen—has happened. As Maestro Kelcey Allen put the case, with the draft age mounting and all that is really young sailing from Hoboken, it is up to us others who linger to renew our own youth as best we may.

SOVIET GOVERNMENT TRIES REIGN OF TERROR

Decrees Summary Execution for All Persons in Moscow Found with a Weapon.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—The attempted assassination of Nikolai Lenine, the Bolshevist Premier, has been followed by drastic measures on the part of the authorities in Moscow, according to the Helsingfors correspondent of the Hamburg Fremdenblatt, who reports that, in addition to the removal of thousands of persons from Moscow to Petrograd, the following proclamation has been issued by M. Peters, Chief of the Extraordinary Commission in the Russian capital:

"The criminal adventures of our enemies force us to reply with measures of terror. Every person found with a weapon in his hand will be immediately executed. Every person who agitates against the Soviet Government will be arrested and taken into a concentration camp and all his private property seized."

The Russian newspaper Pravda says that numerous officers and members of the Social Revolutionary Party have been arrested at Moscow in connection with the attempt to assassinate Lenine.

In connection with the assassination at Petrograd on Aug. 31 of Moses Uritzky, the People's Commissary for Home Affairs, the Pravda says that numerous houses were searched. They included the building of the British Embassy, where an exchange of shots took place. Two persons were killed, one of them being a Britisher whose identity has not yet been established.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 3.—All persons in Petrograd and Moscow who are not actually residents are ordered by a decree issued by the Government to leave within twenty-four hours, says a Moscow dispatch received here from Berlin.

The condition of Nikolai Lenine, the Bolshevist Premier, has so improved that physicians consider all danger passed, according to a Moscow dispatch received through Berlin.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 3.—Dora Kaplan, the Russian revolutionary who attacked Premier Lenine, has refused to disclose the names of her accomplices or to give any information regarding the attack, says a dispatch from Moscow to the Berlin Lokal-Anzeiger. She said that she recently arrived in Moscow from the Crimea.

Witnesses stated that a student about 15 years old stopped the Premier and handed him a paper and at the same time two women approached him. Dora Kaplan, after the shooting, fled into the street, where she was arrested and taken to the Ministry of War. Poisoned cigarettes were found on her.

HYLAN REPORTS ON AUTOS.

Mayor Promises None Will Be Used for Pleasure Next Sunday.

Mayor Hylan sent a telegram last night to President Wilson reporting on New York City's observance of the Government's request that pleasure automobile riding be discarded on Sundays. In his telegram he said:

"The Police Department reports that out of 193,000 cars usually in use in New York on Sundays not more than several hundred were observed in use last Sunday. Owners of many of these had their cars out through misunderstanding.

"I am sure that following a proclamation which I shall issue within a day or so there will not be a pleasure vehicle on the streets of New York next Sunday. You would have thrilled with pleasure had you been here to see how patriotically New Yorkers observed the Government's request as if it had been a command."

ject of which will be to obtain all the aid that is so vitally necessary to the Czechoslovak forces fighting in Russia and Siberia. These forces need clothing, munitions, and arms, and must be safeguarded against enemy movements of any character intended to cut off the Czechoslovaks in Central Siberia from lines of communication toward Vladivostok.

Whenever he is in Washington Professor Masaryk will act as the diplomatic representative of the Council. When absent from the city he will be represented by Charles Pergler, his secretary, who is a delegate to the Council and will act as a substitute. Mr. Pergler is a native of Bohemia, but has lived a long while in America.

Mr. Lansing's Announcement.

The official text of Secretary Lansing's announcement of recognition follows:

The Czechoslovak peoples having taken up arms against the German and Austro-Hungarian Empires, and having placed organized armies in the field, which are waging war against those empires under officers of their own nationality and in accordance with the rules and practices of civilized nations; and,

The Czechoslovaks having, in prosecution of their independent purposes in the present war, confided supreme political authority to the Czechoslovak National Council,

The Government of the United States recognizes that a state of belligerency exists between the Czechoslovaks thus organized and the German and Austro-Hungarian Empires.

It also recognizes the Czechoslovak National Council as a de facto belligerent Government, clothed with proper authority to direct the military and political affairs of the Czechoslovaks.

The Government of the United States further declares that it is prepared to enter formally into relations with the de facto Government thus recognized for the purpose of prosecuting the war against the common enemy, the Empires of Germany and Austria-Hungary.

Secretary Lansing received Professor Masaryk at noon today and formally conveyed to him the fact that the American Government had taken this important action. Professor Masaryk subsequently issued this statement:

"Mr. Lansing handed me the declaration today at 12 o'clock; I read it and thanked him very heartily as indeed I value the American recognition of our army, the National Council, and nation very highly. Mr. Lansing's explanation confirmed what I have read myself in the wording of his declaration.

"The American recognition differs from the French and British in that these recognize the right to our independence directly, whereas Mr. Lansing's wording recognizes in the first place our army and the National Council. But speaking of the Czechoslovaks the declaration denotes our whole nation. The British text recognizes our national council as the present trustee of the future Government; the United States recognizes our council directly as the de facto Government.

"The United States lays stress on the belligerency and they emphasize the organization of our nation shown first in mobilizing armies and second in confiding all political affairs to the leading authority of the National Council. In accordance with the humanitarian principles of the American Constitution the military practice of our armies, (this applies especially to our army in Russia,) is acknowledged.

"I once more would express my satisfaction and thanks to the United States Government and the President for their recognition of our national cause. I, of course, know that we also owe a good deal to the American public opinion and its representatives."

Careers of the Czech Leaders.

Professor Masaryk was a teacher in the University of Prague, as well as Deputy to the Vienna Parliament for a great many years. He left Bohemia a few months after the outbreak of the war with full authority from representatives of the Czech political parties to speak in foreign lands in the name of his people. He is 69 years old, and even before the war he was looked upon by every member of the Czechoslovak race as the "grand old man" of Bohemia. Both his official position and the reverence in which he is held by his people make his authority supreme and unquestioned.

General Stefanik was, before the war, a noted astronomer in Paris. Upon the outbreak of the war he entered the French Army as a private and soon became an officer and a daring aviator. He has been wounded several times and promoted for gallantry. He holds at present the rank of Brigadier General in the French Army. He represents the Slovak branch of the Czechoslovak nation on the National Council.

Dr. Edouard Benes was an instructor at the University of Prague, fled from Bohemia at the first opportunity, and was placed in charge of the Paris office. He is a diplomat and an author of ability.

The Commander in Chief of the three Czechoslocak armies in Russia, France, and Italy is Professor Masaryk. The General in command of the forces in Russia is General Diderichs. The Commander of the forces on the French front is Major Gen. M. Janin. The Czechoslovaks in Italy are commanded by General Graziani.

There are 410,000 Czechoslovaks in the United States, a large proportion of them naturalized and most of those of military age have already been incorporated into the United States military forces.

The recognition of the Czechoslovaks is held here to mean that America is irrevocably committed to the principle of dissolution of the Austro-Hungarian Empire as a feature of the scheme of reconstruction of Europe along the lines of nationality.

BOLSHEVIKI INTERN ENTENTE SUBJECTS

Say Samara Government, Formed by Constituent Assembly Members, Is Having Trouble.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—The Daily Chronicle's correspondent at Stockholm, under date of Sept. 1, wires that the Bolshevist official journal, Pravda, announced on Aug. 28 that, in accordance with an order of the Commission Extraordinary for Combating the Counter-revolution, all subjects of the Entente States between the ages of 16 and 45 were being interned, and would not be released until they had explained their reported anti-Soviet action.

There is a report from the Murman coast of an attempt upon an English General. A bomb was thrown into his room.

The Pravda also gives extracts from newspapers in the Archangel region, from which it may be seen that the Governmental power there is composed of members of the Constituent Assembly from the northern provinces, under the name of the Supreme Administration of the Region of the North. The Government is supported by Social Revolutionaries and Menshevist Social Democrats. With British aid, a volunteer army is being organized. Private soldiers receive subsistence and 100 rubles (about £10) a month in wages, and noncommissioned officers 125 to 175 rubles.

The Bolsheviki having taken away before their retreat all money in the State bank, the Government is finding pecuniary difficulties. Money is being raised by subscription, as well as by a certain number of Russian notes printed in England. The Bolsheviki are trying by their propaganda to provoke disorders. They seem to have succeeded in bringing about a railway strike, now on the eve of a settlement. The Social Democratic journal, Loutch, published at Archangel, is urging the working classes to reunite with other democratic forces in the common object of liberation of their country.

Recent issues of Pravda give extracts from newspapers of Samara, from which it would appear that the power is in the hands of a Central Committee, elected by members of the Constituent Assembly. The committee has concluded treaties with the Ural and Orenberg Governments upon a basis of a federative union or all-Russia coalition of political parties on a democratic platform, a reprisal war against Germany, and an alliance with the Entente. The committee has not succeeded in concluding a similar treaty with the Siberian Government, which has separatist tendencies; but recently a conflict has broken out between it and the Siberian District Duma, representing the democratic parties of the Government. All the democratic members of the Government have resigned, and the issue of the conflict is still unknown.

It is announced that the conference of Consuls of the Entente Powers, which took place at Chelyabinsk, pronounced itself in favor of the District Duma. This dispute appears, therefore, to be analogous to that with General Horvath at Vladivostok.

Other difficulties seem to be springing up to cause a financial crisis, the great capitalists having refused to lend money to the Samara Government without guarantees by the Entente. Representatives of commerce and industry, assembled at Samara, have decided to draw up a declaration to the Allies, asking for the desired guarantees.

Life at Samara is reviving every day. Politicians are arriving from all parts of Russia, as well as subjects of the allied countries, and a national army is being energetically organized. In the near future a gathering will be convoked of all members of the Constituent Assembly for the Volga, Ural, and Siberian regions, with the object of co-ordinating the nation.

GERMANY PREPARING TO INVADE RUSSIA?

London Hears of an Ultimatum to Bolsheviki Demanding Passage for Troops—Not Verified Here.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—It is reported here on what seems to be good authority that the Germans have decided to take military action in Russia against the Allies and have delivered an ultimatum to the Bolshevist Government demanding free passage for their troops. Official confirmation of this is awaited.

At present the Germans do not seem to be in a strong military position in Russia. Their economic measures in occupied districts have undoubtedly turned the feeling of the masses against them in the last month, and a strong reaction in allied favor among all classes is noted in the scant news that comes from there. Meantime all those who know Russia argue strongly against the Allies supporting any single party or initiating any political program in Russia beyond the restoration of order and giving economic help to the starving population.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Nothing to confirm the rumor that Germany had served an ultimatum on the Bolsheviki demanding a free passage for German troops through Russia to attack the Czechoslovaks and Allies had reached Washington tonight. Secretary Lansing said the State Department had no confirmation of the report. Professor Masaryk, President of the Czechoslovak National Council, and the Russian Embassy were also without confirmation. It was intimated, however, in several quarters that it would be no great surprise should such action be taken by Germany.

RECOGNITION OF THE CZECHOSLOVAKS.

The United States takes its place beside Great Britain, France, and Italy in recognizing the Czechoslovak people as co-belligerents. It is a policy of wisdom, it is right; we might add that it is a generous policy did we not feel that it is first of all an act of justice. The Czechoslovaks stand with us against the common enemy of mankind. They have shown their bravery in Siberia, in Italy, and in France. In recognizing them as co-belligerents, the allied nations make official acknowledgment of an accomplished fact and discharge a just obligation.

The Government of the United States, as Secretary LANSING states its purpose, "recognizes that a state "of belligerency exists between the "Czechoslovaks" and the German and Austro-Hungarian Empires. Our Government also recognizes "the "Czechoslovak National Council as a "de facto belligerent Government "clothed with proper authority to "direct the military and political af-"fairs of the Czechoslovaks." The fact of recognition by four Allied Powers and its implications will be of the greatest encouragement to the Czechoslovaks in their aspiration to free themselves from the Hapsburg and the Magyar and to establish an independent State. It follows of necessity that at the peace conference their separation from Austria-Hungary will be insisted upon and their recognition as a nation will be a natural consequence.

The Allies have reached the end of their period of delusion about Austria. We hear very little now about a separate peace with that Power, for it is recognized that she is an instrument in the hands of Germany. Nor is there any considerable acceptance of the theory that it would be to the advantage of civilization to preserve Austria as a national unity of federated autonomous States as a counterpoise to the power of Germany. The races hitherto held in subjection to that Empire cannot be federated under its rule. Their interests are distinct, their yearnings for nationality and independence cannot be satisfied by any such artificial political arrangement. It smacks too much of the doings of the Congress of Vienna, separated from this present time by a century of which the chief political distinction was the growth and recognition of the nationalist feeling. The Czechoslovaks have earned their freedom and the Jugoslavs must be set free with them.

When the time is ripe, a logical extension of the policy of recognition of the Czechoslovak would demand equally the recognition of Poland. The Polish people are at present under the Prussian heel, but they must be delivered, as Russia must be delivered. A very brief survey of the map of Europe will bring home to the mind the wisdom of establishing between Germany and the new Russia a barrier of independent States. The Czechoslovaks with their 9,000,000 people, the Poles with some 20,000,000 in the territory they aspire to call Free Poland, the Lithuanians and Finns, would serve an important end in sheltering Russia from German designs of domination. It will be many years before the Russian Government can be so firmly established that it will reconstitute the power of that once great Empire and be able to maintain itself against the unceasing efforts of Germany, by intrigue, by "economic penetration," and by all the detestable arts of which Potsdam is the master, to control the destiny of the Russian people. The recognition of the Czechoslovaks is a step in the creation of a permanent barrier against German exploitation in the east.

PAY FOR LOST NEUTRAL SHIPS.

Since the reception in Berlin of the note in which Spain announced her intention to seize interned German vessels in place of any Spanish ships torpedoed thereafter, two sinkings have called for such compensation. Both of the ships destroyed, the Carasas and the Ataz Mendi, were engaged in peaceful service. One was bringing coal to Spain from England. The U-boats have sunk eighty-three Spanish ships, or 20 per cent. of the nation's merchant tonnage, many of them, as was said in the note to Berlin, "without the slightest pretext."

After the warning from Madrid, Germany replied to a recent protest from Norway by offering to pay for Norwegian vessels destroyed if it should be proved that they were torpedoed without warning. This is not enough to satisfy the Norwegian press, which says the Government must not only insist upon replacement of ships lost but also demand compensation payments to the families of the seamen who have been killed. Having made this offer to Norway, Germany cannot reasonably refuse to deal with other neutrals in the same way. It can easily be proved that hundreds of neutral vessels were torpedoed "without warning," and the number would be increased if the men lost on ships "sunk without trace" could be brought to life. Compensation for all the vessels destroyed and for the murdered seamen would severely tax the Berlin treasury. According to the latest reports, neutral sinkings have been as follows: Norway, 856; Denmark, 172; Sweden, 124; Holland, 159; Spain, 83. And the number of sailors killed exceeds 2,000.

The offer to Norway and the seizures in Spanish ports clear the way for concerted action by these neutral countries. They should now agree to seize all German ships interned in their harbors, and to insist upon full pay for all not thus replaced, with compensation for the lives wantonly and brutally taken.

THE SHADOW OF DISASTER.

Marshal HAIG's great victory on Monday is not to be measured by the number of prisoners taken, which is estimated at more than 10,000, and by this time may be double that total; it must be estimated by the significance of the breaking down, the shattering, practically the elimination of the fifteen-mile-long Drocourt-Quéant defensive line of HINDENBURG guarding the railway and strategic centres of Douai and Cambrai. On the southern part of that line the British delivered a smashing blow which carried them to Cagnicourt and to Buissy, the latter three miles east of the line, while Pronville, a mile and a half southeast of Quéant, was taken.

In his dispatch Marshal HAIG says that "the enemy was heavily defeated "in his prepared defenses of the Dro-"court-Quéant system, with the result "that he is retiring along practically "the whole battlefront." Marshal HAIG adds that "these [the enemy's] "lines provided the most formidable "obstacle, as they had been furnished "with every device of modern en-"gineering." The Germans had been at work on them for eighteen months. They were defended stubbornly, as their loss would mean a disaster to the defensive plan of the General Staff; how desperately, indeed, may be judged from the fact that "on a front "of 8,000 yards, [almost five miles,] "no less than eleven German divi-"sions were identified." No official sophistry can distort the character of the defeat suffered by the German Army. It took the spirit out of the men in the works. They must have surrendered faster than they could be taken back. There was no resisting the furious onslaught of the British infantry, led by squadrons of tanks that found their way everywhere.

On both sides of the Bapaume-Cambrai road (Arras and Bapaume are the base of a triangle, the apex of which is Cambrai,) the British are making swift advances—Bertincourt, five miles from Bapaume, and Doigniés, to the northeast of Bertincourt, have been taken, so that HAIG's forces are converging on Cambrai. Marquion, which they are nearing, is only five miles from that very important railway centre.

What we are now seeing is the battering down of the German defenses all the way from Ypres to Péronne in what may be described, strange as the term sounds, considering the elaborate German works, as open warfare. The British are pressing their advantage in Flanders, where La Bassée is about to fall, as well as in Artois. The wearing-down process goes less rapidly in the north, but surely. Douai, a great railway and canal centre, almost midway between Cambrai and Lille, is menaced by the crumbling of the Drocourt-Quéant line. To speak of forcing the Germans to retire from the great industrial city of Lille would seem like rashly discounting the future and assuming the breaking down of German resistance. But there is no doubt that it has been broken down on the key defensive line, Drocourt to Quéant; and if the Allies can take Douai and Cambrai and extend their lines east of those towns—there are two good fighting months left—the Germans will have to consider seriously the giving up of Lille.

The condition of the German Army now verges on demoralization. At no time in the war has it suffered such heavy losses in men and guns. The tally of prisoners taken by the Allies in little more than six weeks must be near 150,000 with HAIG's latest success. The Germans are gravely crippled by waning power of artillery. Their casualties have recently been enormous. It is evident that they cannot bring up enough reserves to stop the Allies. The Germans are in the shadow of a great disaster on the western front.

TRYING TO FRIGHTEN US.

Germany incorrigibly believes, after four years of war, that she can terrorize her enemies. She believes it in the face of her failures in that direction, her failures by air raids, by submarine crimes, by atrocities of every description. She includes us in that belief. Witness the story told by Captain MANUEL QUADROS of the American fishing schooner Rush, sunk by a U-boat off the Nova Scotia coast. Captain QUADROS had a long conversation with the commander of the submarine, and the most interesting thing he reports of what the German said is this:

> He said that when his vessel left Germany it was under instructions to sink only three-masters, but that because of the attitude of the American press orders had come to the U-boat by wireless to sink everything in sight.

In other words, the expert psychologists who conduct Germany's affairs believed that the mere bringing of the war to American coasts, the mere sinking of a few three-masters, would spread panic here. They watched eagerly for the American newspapers to find the signs of this panic. Not finding it, it never occurred to them that America could not be terrorized. The fault must be, they argued, that the dose was not strong enough. So now they have ordered unrestricted warfare, and no doubt they are again eagerly reading the extracts they get from the American press to get the first whiff of that panic.

This would not be so extraordinary if it had not happened so often, with the same result. They tried, for instance, to terrorize England by air raids. It resulted only in enraging England and stimulating recruiting. Again it did not occur to Germany that England could not be frightened; the thing to do was merely to increase the dose, which they did, with the same result. To this day they must believe that the only reason France is not on her knees begging for mercy is that they have not committed atrocities enough. The only possible conclusion is that they judge others by themselves; they could not possibly hold this delusion so long if that were not the case. It is precisely for that reason that the German Generals and press exhibit so much alarm when they see the first faint signs of despondency or irresolution among their soldiers and people, and issue such furious exhortations to them to be "men" and to be "stout-hearted."

POLITICAL MYTHOGENESIS.

Pondering the candidacy of Mr. HENRY FORD for Senator, The Chicago Tribune repeats his declaration that he is in the contest "solely because "he was requested to run by Mr. "WILSON." While a statement to this effect has been made by Mr. FORD, our Chicago contemporary ought to remember the intensity of his business duties, his long remoteness from and innocence of politics, and his philosophical indifference to history.

It is matter of very recent history that Mr. WILSON, writing to Senator CHILTON of West Virginia, "ab-"horred even so much as the ap-"pearance of an effort to pick and "prefer a candidate."

Mr. FORD, in his political emanation, is so largely the creature of myth that it is not unjustifiable to suspect that his belief in his being picked and preferred by one who abhors even the appearance of picking and preferring may well be of mythical origin.

If verbal or documentary "evidence" to the contrary be submitted, it must be thrown out of court. Mythogenesis arises from a condition of the mind. It is not subject to the rules of evidence or controlled by facts.

NEXT YEAR'S FOOD PRICES.

President WILSON's continuance of last year's wheat price into the next crop year goes far to establish other food prices. All breadstuff prices are relative to wheat, and bread is a more necessary food than meat. No doubt wheat producers will be disappointed. Already the President has been compelled to veto a proposal to enact higher prices than the Food Administration approved, but public sentiment will not favor the producers' claim for larger profits at the expense of consumers. The price fixed by the President is even more generous for the next year than for this year, for the end of the war is at least nearer by the elapsed time between the crops, and the steady gain in the construction of ocean tonnage promises to give speedy access in either war or peace to immense supplies in Australia and elsewhere which now hang over the market. The President's estimate of a possible loss to the country of a half billion dollars by giving the farmers a "sure thing" on the next crop is perhaps fairer to the farmers than to the consumer.

What the President has done for the consumer is set forth in THE ANNALIST in the form of a chart showing the effect of the Food Administration's policy upon the course of prices. The writer of the article, Mr. RAYMOND PEARL, is chief statistician of the Food Administration, and he describes authoritatively what he calls an "economic miracle." He shows that the prices paid to the farmer have risen while the wholesale price has fallen. For years the two prices ran along in neighborly fashion, alternately rising and falling in relation to each other within narrow limits. But in 1917-18 they separated widely by the steady and large rise in the farmers' prices. For the Food Administration period these two prices compare in this manner for May, the latest month calculated for each year:

Wholesale price index..	120	193	179

These figures are not the usual record of price fluctuations. The figures are weighted for forty-six articles of food according to nutritional value, in an attempt to include the variation of food costs by substitutions of one article for another. On this long and varied list of farm products the producer made a gain of 108 points over three years, and the wholesaler a gain of 59. But for the last year the producer made a gain of 2 points, while the wholesaler lost 14. It is not practicable to carry the results through the retail trade, but it is clear that the Food Administration, by limiting the costs of wholesale distribution, has advantaged the consumer, and not at the producer's loss. If the producer has done his share by increasing his product, he has had his reward. The consumer also has done his share by paying the added price, and by self-denial which has enabled us to feed our hungry allies in a manner for which they have expressed their gratitude.

While the farmer gets a guarantee of next year's prices, the consumers and the taxpayers take up their burden without grudging the farmer his prosperity, but not without casting an observant eye over such items as the purchase of automobiles, the payment of farmers' taxes, especially the income tax, and subscriptions to the Liberty Loans.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Teaching the Rule of Service.

A truly excellent address was made to the men and women who are to form the working staff of the new Consolidated railway ticket offices in this city by GEORGE A. CULLEN, Chairman of the United States Railroad Administration Committee, on the eve of the day when they were to begin their very important dealings with the public. It is evident that Mr. CULLEN had heard, or heard of, the complaints not a few people have been making about a new brusqueness, irritability, and arrogance that have been displayed by some railway officials and employés since the roads came under Government control. It is equally evident that he does not approve of any change in this direction, for, in a speech at once brief, simple, and earnest, he laid down the principles of true service—principles which, if followed in the new ticket offices or in any other offices, would bring about ideal relations between those who serve and those who are served.

He told his hearers, first, of the admirable conditions in which their work is to be done, and of the many facilities that had been provided to lighten and expedite it. There remained only, he said, for them to do their part in the sincere spirit of courteous helpfulness toward the great number of people who would come to them in search of the accurate and vital information they had a right to expect from the agents of their Government. Here is a fine passage from the address:

> You can respond to this need in a careless and perfunctory way, doling out half-facts and guesses, or you can painstakingly ascertain what the inquirers want to know (indeed help them to find it out as is so often necessary) and then give them clear, explicit, and understandable answers —a joy to do. You can provide them with transportation and accommodations in a grudging and indifferent manner, or do this with carefulness and alacrity and with consequent satisfaction to yourselves.

Mr. CULLEN didn't issue any orders or lay down any laws—not on this occasion, at least. He contented himself with making what amounted to an appeal for a practical application of the Golden Rule by every employé of every grade in the new offices.

Bettering Records of Railways.

There is a general impression, far from ill-founded, that the airplane is still a machine not very confidently to be trusted—of enormous possibilities far from fully developed. Yet many a commuter, though his daily journeys of a few miles are over a steel roadway spiked firmly in place, along which he is drawn by a machine on the perfecting of which human ingenuity has been expended for the better part of a century, must have read with bitter envy the record made last month by the four airplanes that have flown back and forth every day between New York and Washington.

In that time these most unstable of vehicles—the only vehicles that can be called third dimensional — have failed only twice to make continuous trips or to arrive and depart on schedule time. And in both of the exceptional instances the delays were trivial, the longest of them being only ten minutes! In 105 trips there were no accidents worthy of the name, but one aviator having been obliged to land in a fog because he didn't know exactly where he was, and another having had an engine trouble that lasted only a few minutes under his skillful ministrations. Not one mailbag or one letter was lost, and no attention was paid to weather, though it was by no means constantly good.

It seems only yesterday, and it was only a few years ago, when we read with rather more incredulity than amazement that the Wright brothers had made a continuous flight of five whole minutes in a machine heavier than air. Now expert and experienced aviators talk seriously of a flight across the Atlantic, and most people are wondering why they don't do it rather than prophesying disaster if they attempt the feat! Its accomplishment any day would excite interest, indeed, but it would be taken as a matter of course—one of the things that everybody expects. As for flying across the English Channel or Long Island Sound—things like that are done in "tuning up" for a real day's work in the air, though it was only the other day that they supplied material for long stories on the front pages of all the papers.

Pleasure Riding Unpleasant.

Nobody has a single word to say in defense of the few automobilists who ventured abroad last Sunday on errands that were not works of charity or necessity, and the experiences of the venturers were not such as to encourage them in further defiance of public sentiment as it was demonstrated by all whom they encountered. From their going out of their garages until the returning thereto they found themselves the objects of clearly audible scorn, and when they were haled to police court, as they were whenever a policeman could discover a colorable excuse for doing so, the least of their penalties was a lecture from the Magistrate far more severe than he is wont to deliver to pickpockets.

Naturally enough, a good many of these vicious and unpatriotic folk violated the laws of their country in addition to ignoring a reasonable and well explained request of their Government. They drove recklessly or they drove without a license. In all those cases, arrest meant the heaviest fine the law allowed, a workhouse sentence if circumstances permitted, and a holding for trial under heavy bail when that was what was required by the particular statute they had infringed.

Next Sunday, in all probability, will see no pleasure riding at all in motor cars, chiefly, perhaps, because there will be no pleasure in it and much of humiliation and risk.

Just why all the saving of gasoline should be done on one day has not been very clearly explained. The really good citizen economizes in that as in other directions every day, quite content with charging his deprivations up against the Germans, and he finds his consolation in thinking of the payment he will exact some day—some day.

Not a Public Library Ban.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In today's issue of THE TIMES there is an article under the title, "Censorship at Its Very Worst," in which it is stated that "a very recent inquirer at one of the New York libraries for "The Unpardonable Sin," by Rupert Hughes, was told, rather scornfully and rather haughtily, that it was not the intention to have the book there or to assist in its circulation." It is not stated at what library this happened; and I fear some of your readers may be led to conclude that it was at some branch of the New York Public Library.

The book referred to was approved for purchase for the branches of the New York Public Library some time ago. In due course copies will go to every one of the branch libraries in Manhattan, the Bronx, and Richmond—the only libraries under the control of the New York Public Library. We cannot promise fully to meet the demand for the book, because our book funds are inadequate.

If the incident described by "Inquirer" occurred at a branch of the New York Public Library we shall be grateful to him if he will write us at once, giving the name of the branch and information that will enable us to identify the assistant who made such a statement as he describes. It goes without saying that branch library assistants do not decide questions of this sort.

E. H. ANDERSON,
Director, New York Public Library.
New York, Sept. 3, 1918.

A War Creed.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

President Wilson's Labor Day message is the war creed of the United States. It is a stupendous truth and a superb classic, and should be put at once in the curriculum of all public schools, high schools, private schools, and colleges, to be learned and recited by every boy and girl in the United States.

This concrete statement of our war aims cannot fail to enter the brain and soul of every human being who reads it. It frees every vein and artery for the spirit of patriotism to circulate, and stirs the heart to carry on to intensive service over every physical limitation. Never have the great mind and brilliant pen of our President given such an inspiring call to his people. It is the bugle call for action today and an epic for the history of ages to come. It stands for democracy and human brotherhood as a condition and not a theory, and shines to the world through the halo of love and justice.

FLORA MacDONALD POTTER.

THE TEMPER OF A PEOPLE.

They did not know—nor we—one year ago!

We seemed a Land of unrelated folk
Who thought in terms of gold and selfish gain,
A Nation all untempered, unrefined,
Unrecognizing still that clash of wills,
The Will to conquer for the sake of Might
Against that Will-to-Live, undriven, free,
Wherever men belong, on land or sea!

And then—God knows just how—we saw the truth!
From State to State its silver bugle sang:
"This war is ours!—A war that Washington
And Lincoln, Lafayette, Ben Franklin, Lee
Would fearlessly have waged and grimly won!
This war is ours, and each must do his part
In mine or shipyard, factory or trench!
This war is ours, the war of rich and poor,
Of men and women, soldiers, mothers, priests,
Of laborers and poets, clerks and cooks,
Of men who sail our seas or write our books."

And so we learned the need of sacrifice,
To give our blood, our dreams, our splendid sons, . . .
To yield those lesser things, good wheaten bread,
And dazzling lights, and that sweet joy of speed
Which seemed but yesterday essential to
Our children's health and ours: no law was passed,
No grim "forbidden" posted in our streets!
. . . We merely understood the Nation's need
To husband even gasoline, and lo!
A Sunday like our Sundays years ago!

Wherever free men dwell, in home or camp,
Wherever souls aspire and dream of God,
Wherever Youth burns bright, a lighted torch
To carry on the flame from age to age,
There waves our flag, beside those elder flags,
To carry Freedom o'er the tortured Earth!

No rest shall be until the thing is done,

ASSAILS WILSON AS AN AUTOCRAT

Senator Sherman Declares the President Is Using War to Undermine Civil Liberty.

COL. HOUSE ALSO A TARGET

Administration Described as a Political Clique Bent on Exploiting the Nation.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—In a long speech today on what he called "unofficial and personal government," Senator Sherman of Illinois, Republican, made a bitter attack on President Wilson and his Administration, and, particularly, on Colonel E. M. House, the President's personal friend and adviser.

He declared that under the guise of war necessity the Administration was seeking to set up a civilian autocracy.

"What of those," she said, "who, while the American people are centering thought and effort on our tremendous task, use the war to betray republican government to its undoing? Under the specious pretext of war necessity they are now substituting their obsessions and follies for the institutional liberty that is the birthright of both soldier and civilian. They pillage the temple of free government and set up in it their false gods, shouting that war demands the new worship. When the men return in victory, they face in civil life a socialistic State. Vast bureaucracies and centralized departments will have seized the prinicpal occupations of private life. I believe it part of my duty to save for the man at the front the domestic institutions of his country at home while he is making the world safe for democracy abroad.

"Autocratic power never rests. One demand granted becomes the lever to lift its impudent claims to further heights of usurpation. The great climacteric of civil government will come with the end of the war. We must then decide whether the American Republic remain a Government of regulated individualism or be transformed into a civilian autocracy of interrelated boards, bureaus, and departments operating the chief instruments of production, distribution, and communication of thought, including the printing press. The newspaper is as much within this subtle and malign power as the telegraph or bank. The recent order curtailing news columns under the guise of conserving paper stock is an invasion of the right of a privately owned, free press, designed to control the avenues of information.

Calls It Political Control.

"Not one undertaking seized as a war measure is intended ever to be returned to their owners by the Burlesons, the Bakers, and the Gompers. They know as we do that the war is a handy npretense to embark the Government on their fantastic adventures. Physical properties are seized. They are used to exploit pay rolls dedicated to the alleged sacred cause of labor. At the very mention of this a complaisant Congress falls prostrate. Pay rolls inevitably become the potent rod of politics. Not a Government enterprise but will be a recruiting station to mold votes to continue such a Government. It is political, not Government control. It is not Government ownership, it is political ownership. No one knows this better than its promoters, who laugh at the ease of concealing from the public their real political purpose.

Further on he denounced the Administration as a political oligarchy, saying:

"History does not record a race that permitted its private possessions, its earnings, and its right to toil to be assumed by an oligarchy, however wise and just originally, that the subjugation of their personal rights or civil war did not end the melancholy chapter. Those who deserve civil liberty and the rights of a free man see danger from afar, as did the spirits who laid the deep foundations of the Republic now so vilely sought to be cast away with the best of our blood and brain struggles devotedly to free the world from a military despotism. The Kaiser will be overthrown, his ambition blasted, till he eats the bread of bitterness and drinks of the waters of sorrow. While we sacrifice to this paramount purpose, shall we permit without protest civil officers to rivet an economic class despotism on our necks? I abhor such a scheme. I denounce a political autocracy covertly engaged when the nation is in the stress of war in undermining the institutional civil liberty that will turn victory into ashes on a trusting people's lips.

Politics Not Adjourned.

"Politics adjourned! Worse, more rampant, rancorous, partisan politics never abused the patriotism and generous confidence of a great nation. I know the answer to this. My reward will be the mendacious charge that I am embarrassing the Administration in its conduct of the war. American civil government need not be destroyed to achieve victory abroad. 'A country preserved at the sacrifice of all the cardinal principles of liberty is not worth the cost of preservation.' Against the clandestine partisan activities of this Administration, hidden under the thick clouds of war, I raise my voice seasonably in remonstrance.

"Behind this rampart of a nation's devotion hide a coterie of politicians gilded and plated by a group of theorizing, intolerant intellectuals as wildly impractical as ever beat high heaven with their phrase-making jargon. They appeal to the impulsive, the thoughtless, the ignorant, class hatred, the iconoclast, the freak, the degenerate, to convert the United States into an economic class despotism administered by a political party. Even now it is putting up and pulling down candidates to this end. Not on principle is the test, not how they voted, but when, and their ability to endure servile prostration before the seat of power. It even presumes to dictate Republican candidates in Republican States, beating its pharisaical bosom the while that all may witness its nonpartisan virtues."

The Senator lauded ex-Secretary Garrison and denounced Newton D. Baker in the following remarks:

"A. Mitchell Palmer was originally slated for Secretary of War. Unfortunately Mr. Palmer was a Quaker. He feared the position would endanger his creed. There was little time left in Cabinet building, we learn by a perusal of the book, to secure a man of the proper calibre, so they had to take what was available. Joseph P. Tumulty suggested Lindley Garrison. Every sincere lover of his country could wish Mr. Tumulty might have been authorized then and there to select more of the Cabinet if this is so. Garrison measured up to the place. He saw the shadow of the mighty struggle across the Atlantic. More practical was he than House because he sounded the note of preparation. His plan would have trained an army ready to strike when we declared war, not fifteen months afterward. Creel would have been robbed of his rapturous ecstacy, but the public would have reconciled itself to that. Garrison's successor has made everybody wish the Quaker had overcome his scruples and been put in charge of the fighting instead of one who thinks the war front is 3,000 miles away, talks glibly of quantity production of combat airplanes, delays three months the draft law amendment of 1918, opposes universal military training, and says Washington's soldiers at Valley Forge were drunkards and chicken thieves, only to be declared by Executive proclamation to be the most capable official that distinguished functionary ever knew."

Attacks Colonel House.

Colonel House was characterized by Senator Sherman as "this alleged, unelected, unofficial assistant President." The Senator gave an analysis of a novel which he said had been written by Colonel House, which he described as an autobiography.

"When the Colonel," said the Senator, "went to Europe as the President's personal envoy in May, 1914, he abode in the capitals of the Powers. Advice he gave them in abundance. The faithful chronicler of unofficial Government informs us they listened politely and went their several degenerate ways. The views of the United States on the freedom of the seas were delivered to the belligerents in March, 1915, by the Colonel on a second trip. In substance it meant the exemption from capture or harm of all noncombatants and neutrals and confined war solely to operations of the armies and navies of the belligerents, the cargo, contraband or noncontraband, of merchantmen being guaranteed against seizure. A blockade of an enemy nation becomes impossible. A navy could be used only as a defense against invasion. The United States was then a neutral and at peace with every Government in the world. The offer of Colonel House changed the international law known to every civilized country. The President then had no war powers. His secret and personal envoy exercised unofficial and usurped powers of government. His gratuitous advice so to settle the U-boat dispute provoked the derision of Germany and the impatience of the Allies."

RAILROAD WAGES GO UP.

Nearly a Million Men Share in Second Increase Granted by McAdoo.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3. — Nearly 1,000,000 men, or half the railroad employes in the United States, share in additional wage increases approved today by Director General McAdoo for track laborers, watchmen, other maintenance of way employes, clerks, station agents, and other classes of employes drawing relatively low pay.

The new increases, the second granted in supplement to the Government's general wage order, will add nearly $100,000,000 to the annual railroad payrolls, it is said. Most of the increases range from 10 to 30 per cent. above present wages.

Details of the new order will be announced tomorrow. The Director General adopted most of the recommendations of the Board of Railroad Wages and Working Conditions, which investigated requests of employes for more pay. Pay increases for railroad telegraphers are the subject of another report to be made soon to the Director General.

MONTREAL, Sept. 3.—Wage increases amounting to $15,000,000 annually will be granted to 30,000 men in railroad shops throughout Canada, affecting all the railroads in the Dominion, under an agreement announced here today. The award is the same as that given to railway employes in the United States by Director General McAdoo.

The agreement was reached between the Canadian Railway War Board, through its Labor Committee, and representatives of the Railroad Shopmen's Federation, which had presented the wage demand.

AGRICULTURAL BILL SNAG.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Final vote on the emergency agricultural appropriation bill with its rider for national prohibition next July was blocked in the Senate again today by discussion of appropriations designed to stimulate farm production. Leaders, however, were confident that the measure would be disposed of tomorrow.

Practically the whole day was spent in debating and voting on an amendment by Senator Kenyon of Iowa, Republican, to eliminate appropriations aggregating $600,000 for the stimulation of the production of beef cattle, pork, poultry, and sheep, and "for making cottage cheese on the farm."

The amendment was voted on by sections, and after all the other sections had been voted down Senator Kenyon withdrew that relating to cottage cheese. This provision, however, later was stricken from the bill, on motion of Senator Thomas of Colorado.

POST FOR H. B. WALKER.

Takes Charge of All Coastwise Ships of Railroad Administration.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3. — H. B. Walker, President of the Old Dominion Steamship Line, today was placed in charge of all coastwise steamships operated by the Railroad Administration and will succeed the Railroad Administration's coastwise steamship Advisory Committee, of which L. J. Spence is Chairman.

This unification of control was decided on by the Director General to effect more efficient management of the seventy-nine vessels under railroad control. Mr. Walker will make headquarters in New York and will resign from the Old Dominion.

The lines now controlled by the Railroad Administration are the Mallory, Old Dominion, Clyde, Merchants and Mariners, Ocean, Southern Pacific, and South Steamship Companies.

PEACE MOVE THAT FAILED.

Germans Said to Have Negotiated with English Pacifists.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 3.—Nya Daglight Allehanda quotes Pieter Jelles Troelstra, the Dutch Socialist leader, as saying, in an interview at Lucerne, that an attempt was made last January by the leaders of the three parties constituting the German Reichstag majority to reach an agreement with the political pacifist leaders of England with the view to preparing the way for energetic action in favor of peace on the principles enunciated by President Wilson.

PREDICTS GERMAN REVOLT.

Swiss Hear That Continued Reverses May Cause Revolution.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—A dispatch from Berne, Switzerland, to Le Matin quotes a prominent Swiss citizen, recently returned from Germany, as declaring that in the past six weeks a formidable disillusion has swept over Germany.

If the German military situation does not improve, the informant said, trouble that may surpass the acts of the Bolsheviki in Russia menaces the German Empire.

FEAR FOR GERMAN EMPRESS

Complications Have Set In and All Royal Engagements Are Canceled.

COPENHAGEN, Sept 3.—The German Empress is still very ill, says the Berlin Vossische Zeitung. Although some days ago her condition began to improve, new complications have supervened and she is still confined to her bed.

There is no immediate danger of a fatal termination to the illness, the newspaper declares, but a serious relapse is feared. All engagements of the royal family have been canceled.

OPEN BUSH TERMINAL CLUB.

Buyers and Manufacturers Brought Together in New Quarters.

The informal opening of the clubrooms of the International Buyers' Club, an auxiliary organization of the Bush Terminal Sales Building, 132 West Forty-second Street, took place yesterday. The clubrooms will be open for the inspection of the business public for the next two weeks, and the privileges of the club are available for every merchant and accredited buyer. There is no charge for membership.

Three floors of the building, which is one of the tallest in upper Manhattan, are devoted to the purposes of the club. The first, second, and third floors are given over entirely to the club, and they are among the most handsomely furnished clubrooms in the city. On the first floor are the general reception room, small conference rooms, and grill room. The second floor is fitted up more especially for women, who constitute nearly 50 per cent. of the buyers, but not exclusively for them. In the front is the writing room, while in the rear is the library, which contains many volumes on all mercantile business.

The purpose of the Bush Terminal Sales Building is to give to the smaller merchant the same buying opportunities as his largest competitor. On the other hand, it gives the smaller manufacturer of worthy merchandise an opportunity, at comparatively small cost, to cultivate domestic and foreign markets which he could not otherwise afford to reach out for.

SPAIN NOT EXPECTED TO ENTER THE WAR

STAND STIFFENS NEUTRALS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—One important international sideshow that is progressing with entire satisfaction to the Allies is the controversy between Germany and Spain over sunken tonnage. A reply is expected from Germany in a few days to Spain's announcement that for every Spanish ship torpedoed hereafter a German ship in a Spanish port will be taken.

Nothing but an equivocal answer to save time is anticipated, but the Spanish Government now has full confidence in allied victory because of the July-August offensive and will adhere to the determination to reimburse itself for further ship losses.

There is nothing retroactive about the Spanish resolution. It calls for no seizures to make up for 20 per cent. of Spain's entire tonnage destroyed before the recent declaration.

It is not at all expected by the Allies that Spain will enter the war. Neither is it desired. Of course, if she did she would be proclaimed as one more belligerent, but she is doing the cause more good now by her new aggressive attitude toward Germany than she could do by contributing troops. At best she would only put in a few indifferently equipped divisions, not greater in numerical strength than what America is sending every month.

Afterward there would be added complications caused by the reward which Spain would want in the international settlement. She might feel that she had earned Gibraltar or a piece of French colonial territory in Northern Africa.

As it is now, Spain is rendering great service in a moral way by setting a good example to the other neutrals. In a more concrete way she has taken a step that will assure more tonnage in future for trade between the Allies and neutrals. She knows that she has nothing to fear from Germany if the Kaiser does make an empty declaration of war.

There are practically no Spaniards in Germany. On the contrary, there are 100,000 Germans in Spain who may be interned or sent out of Spain. Neither could Germany attack Spain anywhere. Spain, without entering the war in a military way, can use effective economic measures against Germany both during and after hostilities. For example, she can use her influence in South America against a resumption of Germany's efforts to re-establish prestige in that continent.

This entire situation, so favorable to the Allies, has been brought about without the slightest suggestion or advice from them to Madrid. Its logical outcome is a stiffening of the Spanish backbone.

PLANS FOR LAFAYETTE FETE

Lieutenant Adrien de Pachmann of the French High Commission will make the address on "Lafayette" at the children's fête in Central Park on Sept. 6 to celebrate the 161st anniversary of the birth of the Marquis and the anniversary of the first battle of the Marne, under the auspices of the Women's National Committee of the American Defense Society. Plans have been made for great numbers of children to attend the fête and learn something of the historic events which have formed a band of union between France and America. Several settlements and children's societies have arranged to have groups of children dress in French costumes, carry French and American flags, and march to the Mall in the park from Fifty-ninth Street escorted by Boy Scouts. Mothers in different parts of the city are organizing the children of their blocks, and these will proceed to the fête in "block" parties.

Assisting Mrs. William Scranton Skinner, Chairman of the Governing Board of the Women's National Committee, in arranging the fête are Mrs. Robert Bacon, Mrs. Gertrude Atherton, Mrs. Frederick H. Allen, Mrs. Sanford Bissell, Mrs. Whitney Warren, Miss Louisita A. Leland, Mrs. Douglas Robinson, Mrs. William G. Slade, Miss Carita Spencer, Mrs. Carroll Dunham, Mrs. Charles H. Ditson, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Mrs. Louis Livingston Seaman, Mrs. Frederick Nathan, Mrs. E. H. Harriman, Miss Winifred Holt, and Mrs. Casper Whitney.

CARUSO TO SING AT DINNER.

Will Give the "Marseillaise" at Lafayette-Joffre Celebration.

Caruso, who is an officer of the Order of the Legion of Honor of France, has consented to sing the "Marseillaise" at the dinner given by the France-America Society on Friday next at the Waldorf-Astoria in celebration of the 161st anniversary of the birth of Lafayette and the fourth anniversary of Marshal Joffre's victory of the Marne.

Ambassador Jusserand of France and Secretary of the Interior Franklin K. Lane will be among the speakers. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of the society, of which Elihu Root has recently become a Director, will be toastmaster. The Chairman of the Executive Committee is F. Cunliffe-Owen. There will be a large gathering of diplomatic, military, and naval representatives of the Entente powers, and Professor Masaryk, the head of the Provisional Government of the newly recognized Czechoslovak nation, will be among the guests.

PROF. JAMES SEEKS ACTION.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—Edmund J. James, President of the University of Illinois, tendered his resignation at a special meeting of the Board of Trustees held here today. The noted educator, now 64 years of age, pleaded for an immediate release so that he might get into active service with some agency for the duration of the war.

The resignation came to the board as a complete surprise, and the members declined to take action. A compromise offered to President James is that he accept a year's leave of absence was refused by him. He declared he wanted to be entirely relieved so that he could join in the big fight. Incidentally, he revealed that for some time he had been attempting to get into active military service, but that his age barred him.

New Club for Enlisted Men.

Mrs. Isaac L. Rice, in co-operation with the New York War Camp Community Service, will open a service club for enlisted men on Friday at her home, 12 East Eighty-seventh Street. The chief feature of the house is the roof-garden, which is being especially furnished for soldiers and sailors.

DRAFT BOARD TO PICK REGISTRATION PLACE

All Will Be Allowed to Select Points Most Convenient for Work in Districts.

11,500 REGISTRARS NEEDED

Trained Policemen and Firemen of Three Years' Service Remain Eligible to Exemption in Class 3 D.

Local draft boards all over the city have been informed by Martin Conboy, Director of the Draft for this city, that location of registration points for Sept. 12 will be left to their discretion, subject to the approval, of course, of the Provost Marshal General's office here. In other words, the local boards are to select places for registration most convenient for their localities and as many such places as are required to expedite the registration of citizens between the ages of 18 and 45.

The draft boards are directed also to appoint one registrar for every eighty registrants, which will mean a force of 11,500 for the 900,000 men who are expected to register on Sept. 12, this figure being computed on the basis of one and a half times as many men as appeared for the first registration. So far as possible, the nature of the population and territory permitting, the draft boards will concentrate the work of registration in one place. If the population of the district is unusually large or scattered over a wide territory, more than one place of registration is to be selected—as many, in fact, as will be necessary to accomplish the work within the specified hours.

The registration places will be schoolhouses, halls, empty stores, or places of any other description that may suit the convenience of the local board and receive the approval of Director Conboy's office. No use will be made of the city's election machinery as such, although election officials will be called in to help in the work in those boards where the registration is too large to be handled by the officials designated for the purpose.

Special interest has developed in the possible status of policemen and firemen in relation to exemption claims. Captain David Asch of the Adjutant General's office stated yesterday that "trained" policemen and firemen of three years of service would remain as usual eligible to exemption in Class 3D. Fire Commissioner Drennan, as the result of a conference with Provost Marshal General Crowder, however, will endeavor to obtain this classification for all firemen and policemen, whether they have seen three years' service or not, in view of the fact that the Fire Department is especially short of men and is in need of every man that it has.

Provost Marshal General Crowder, according to the Commissioner, declined to make a general ruling on the subject in view of the fact that any such ruling from him would have to apply to the country as a whole, and would inevitably result in slackers seeking to avoid the draft in many small villages by enrolling in the volunteer fire organizations or by becoming constables. Fire Commissioner Drennan, however, intends to obtain such an interpretation by the district board of the questionnaire with reference to firemen and policemen as would enable the local boards to put firemen and policemen in Class D on a certification of the Commissioner of either department that they were necessary to the service. The new form of questionnaire facilitates such an interpretation in that it does not qualify the question: "Are you a trained fireman," &c., by the designation of any number of years of service.

While Commissioner Drennen is endeavoring to retain the firemen, the draft officials, on the other hand, assert that many firemen and policemen have complained that their eagerness for service is interfered with by the attitude of Mayor Hylan in declining to allow them the difference between the Government and the city pay, unless they were forcibly drafted.

Considering the fact that the Jewish holidays begin Sept. 6 at 5 P. M., Captain Riegelman of Director Conboy's office yesterday issued a notice notifying all drafted men scheduled to leave for Southern camps on that date that their departure had been postponed until Monday, Sept. 9, when they will leave at the same hour and from the same place as specified under the orders for Sept. 6. The postponement is made in order that drafted men of the Jewish faith may spend the holiday at home with friends and relatives.

Drafted men numbering 594, and representing thirteen local boards, mostly from Brooklyn, left here yesterday for Southern training camps. Local Board 26, located at 176 Nassau Street, Brooklyn, a neighborhood made up largely of Italians, sent eighty-seven men. These came in taxicabs, vans, and limousines. The parents and friends led the procession in two large horse-drawn trucks. Local Board 32, located at 219 Patchen Avenue, Brooklyn, sent forty-eight men. Forty-one automobiles were used to convey the recruits and their relatives and friends to the place of departure.

There was a rush of applicants for birth certificates at the Brooklyn offices of the Health Department yesterday following the passage of the new draft bill. All day long the offices of Dr. Sylvester J. Byrne, the Assistant Registrar of Records, were crowded with men and youths anxious to obtain documentary evidence as to their correct ages. Most of them were lads whose eighteenth birthdays and men whose forty-fifth birthdays fall near the draft registration date.

POLICE AND FIREMEN ARE TO BE EXEMPT

Provided the Municipality Will Certify That They Cannot Be Replaced.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—A greater number of firemen and policemen will receive deferred classification in the coming draft under new regulations announced today by Provost Marshal General Crowder. Deferred classification service in the same municipality it being necessary only that the department employing that the registrant certify that he is highly trained and cannot be replaced "without substantial and material detriment to the public service." The registrant must make the same statement in his own behalf in filling out his questionnaire.

No changes are contemplated in the basic rules governing the operation of the draft in the case of men included under the new age limits. This was indicated today by Provost Marshal General Crowder, who after a visit to the White House with General March, Chief of Staff, explained that the principles which prevailed in the selection of men between the ages of 21 and 31 would be retained in large measure for the guidance of those operating the selective machinery.

There will be some changes, however, in the details relating to men engaged in certain industries, and more especially to men of more mature age included in the new registration. Just what these are the Government is not prepared to announce, but it is believed that rules to cover all questions that can be foreseen now will be sent to draft boards within a few days.

General March and General Crowder conferred with President Wilson for an hour today. They were summoned by the President, who wished to familiarize himself with all details of the man-power measure and its proposed method of operation.

Whether arrangements will be made which will automatically exempt railroad men and coal miners as a body cannot yet be stated. Director-General McAdoo is understood to be in favor of providing some method other than the decision of local boards for exempting essential railroad employes. General Crowder said that, under present plans, the matter of exempting this class of workers would be in the hands of the district boards, to be taken up by them after the questionnaires have been passed on by the local boards which, he said, are without jurisdiction to exempt a registrant on the ground that he is an essential industrial worker.

Just what the changes in detail of selecting those of the higher ages will be, Marshal-General Crowder was not prepared to say. This information will be forthcoming later, when all the arrangements for making selections are promulgated.

CAPTAIN ROOSEVELT TO MEET WIFE TODAY

Telephones to Oyster Bay He Will Be in Washington—Colonel and Wife Vote Early.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Sept. 3.—Captain Archibald Roosevelt, who is in this country to recuperate from his wounds on the French battlefront, telephoned his wife at Sagamore Hill this afternoon that he would be able to leave the hospital and journey to Washington tomorrow. Upon receipt of the news Mrs. Roosevelt left for Washington, where she will visit Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Colonel Roosevelt's daughter.

Colonel and Mrs. Roosevelt appeared early today at the primary voting place. Mrs. Roosevelt took her ballot and was only a few minutes in the booth. The Colonel waited until she had finished and then marked his ballot. The former President and his wife had motored from Sagamore Hill. On the front seat of their car was Mrs. Clara Lee, wife of Charles Lee, who has been the Colonel's negro chauffeur for many years. She waited for the Colonel to vote and then cast her ballot.

THOMAS R. TALTAVALL DIES.

Editor of Telegraph and Telephone Age Was a Veteran Operator.

Thomas R. Taltavall, 63 years old, editor of The Telegraph and Telephone Age, of New York, and one of the most expert telegraph operators in the country, died yesterday at his home in Mahwah, N. J., of heart disease.

Mr. Taltavall began his career in a telegraph office in Wellsville, Ohio, in 1867. He was one of the first operators on the first wire leased by the Associated Press to handle newspaper service between New York and Washington in 1875. He was with the Associated Press in this city for fourteen years.

Mr. Taltavall resigned in 1890 to become editor of the Electrical Age, which four years later he gave up to become associate editor of The Electrical World. In 1911 he became editor of The Telegraph and Telephone Age, which position he filled at the time of his death.

Cardinal Farley Sits Up Every Day.

MAMARONECK, N. Y., Sept. 3.—Cardinal Farley continues to improve. Mgr. Carroll, his secretry, said today that the Cardinal was able to sit up an hour every day. "He has a good appetite and is improving slowly," said the Monsignor. There is no sign of a relapse, which is the thing most feared at present.

$2 Invested in Vogue

Will Save You $200

This year, above all others, when extravagance and waste are to be avoided, you should have Vogue at hand. For, now every woman must devote even more than her customary care to the selection of her wardrobe, so that not one hat, gown or wrap may remain unworn and its price wasted.

The gown you buy and never wear is the really expensive gown. Gloves, boots, hats, that miss being exactly what you want, are the ones that cost you more than you can afford.

VOGUE suggests that before you spend a single penny on new clothes, before you even plan your wardrobe, you consult its great Autumn and Winter Fashion numbers.

THESE ARE THE 9 NUMBERS OF VOGUE

WHICH YOU WILL RECEIVE FOR $2

★Autumn Millinery September 1
Little hats and big hats; hats that take the veil and hats that choose the world; appropriate gowns, veils, and coiffures.

Forecast of Autumn Fashions September 15
The earliest advance information from Paris on the new silhouette—saving you from the costliest of all errors: a wrong start.

War Time Modes and Autumn Patterns October 1
First aid to the fashionable woman of not unlimited means who wishes to curtail her expenses without in the least sacrificing smartness.

Paris Openings October 15
The combined fashion exhibits of Paris, sketched and described by Vogue's own artists.

Winter Fashions November 1

Vanity Number November 15

Christmas Gifts Number December 1

Holiday Number December 15

Lingerie Number January 1

Motor and Southern Number January 15
Everything new in the motor world; where to go and what to wear in the South.

In the next few months, during the very period in which Vogue's special Fashion Numbers appear, you will be selecting your entire wardrobe for the coming Autumn and Winter, and spending hundreds of dollars for the suits, hats, gowns and accessories that you select.

Consider then, that for $2, a tiny fraction of your loss on one ill-chosen hat or gown, you may secure ten issues of Vogue—an assurance of valuable and new ideas and an insurance against costly failures.

Don't Send Money

You need not bother to enclose a cheque or even to write a letter. The coupon opposite will do, and is easier and quicker. With one stroke of the pen, you will solve your entire clothes problem.

★SPECIAL OFFER

If your order is received immediately, we will start your subscription with the current Autumn Millinery Number—thus giving you ten numbers of Vogue instead of nine without any extra charge.

Since the additional copy must come out of a small supply on hand to meet the demand for this big special number we cannot guarantee being able to send it unless your card is mailed immediately.

VOGUE, 19 West 44th Street, New York City

Send me NINE numbers of Vogue, beginning with the Forecast of Autumn Fashions Number, and I will remit $2 on receipt of bill. It is understood that, if this order reaches you in time, you will send me a copy of the Autumn Millinery Number, without extra charge, making TEN numbers in all.

MURRAY CRASHES WAY TO VICTORY IN TENNIS FINAL

Robert Lindley Murray of Niagara Falls, one of the finest sportsmen and most proficient racquet wielders who ever came forth from the Golden Gate, was crowned yesterday as the national singles tennis champion when he defeated William T. Tilden, 2d, of Philadelphia in the final round of the tournament at the West Side Tennis Club at Forest Hills, with the score 6—3, 6—1, 7—5. Probably there has seldom, if ever, been a case in the long history of the championship when a player so little coveted the title as did Murray this season. A month ago it was his firm intention not to play in the event, and he was shaken from his resolve only because he was impressed with the motives which induced the tennis officials to provide funds for the soldiers and sailors in this manner.

Even when Murray did consent to play there was hardly a possibility that he would be able to go through the tournament. He had had no practice. Being engaged in war work, he had more serious things to interest him than tennis. It has been the history of championship tennis that a player must prepare during an entire season before he could even hope to stand forth prominently in a national singles event. How much the worthy successor to Maurice E. McLoughlin, William M. Johnston, and Richard Norris Williams, 2d, the champion of 1916, accomplished in the short space of time allotted to him is indicated by his victory yesterday, an accomplishment as amazing as it is gratifying to a host of Murray's admirers.

Murray's Improvement Rapid.

Coming to the Southampton tournament only two weeks ago, Murray was a weak contender, but his improvement in play has been quick as well as steady, and it reached its culmination in the final match against Tilden, who was fairly swept off his feet by the onrush of the indomitable Californian. It was a victory in straight sets, where five had been freely predicted; it was the triumph of the brilliant, forcing, McLoughlin type of tennis over the finished but less fiery play of the Easterner.

It must be said for Tilden, who had not before met defeat this season, that he was not at his best for the crucial match of his career on the courts. There was lacking something of the dash, much of the court-covering ability, because the Quaker City expert was suffering from a boil on his right ankle, but eventaking this into consideration it is difficult to see how under the most favorable conditions he could have beaten Murray as the latter was playing yesterday.

There was a calm confidence in his own ability that marked the former Californian's work from the moment he took the court. The big gallery that crowded into and overflowed the stand could almost sense that he was saying, "I am here to win," for from the first moment of play until the last his star was in the ascendant. But even with the title in sight, Murray probably had little thought of the honor that might come to him with victory. At Southampton he said, "Now that I am in the tournament, I shall give my best to the game," and through round after round against some of the strongest tennis stars in the country he advanced steadily until at last he came to the end of the play to receive laurels which he had not really sought.

Stage Set for Brilliant Play.

The stage was set for brilliant tennis when the two rivals Tilden and Murray came to the court for the big match. Eddie Conlin, umpire par excellence, was in the chair, and there was a coterie of linesmen, many of whom had themselves been prominent in the title play. But the match, from the standpoint of keen tennis, did not live up to expectations. Tilden, who had been favored in some quarters to defeat his Coast rival, could not rise to the occasion. When Murray broke through his service in the second game of the match, the handwriting was clear that Murray would be proclaimed the winner, and it took just short of an hour to establish the fact beyond all doubt.

It was Murray's service more than anything else which broke up Tilden's play. The Philadelphian, himself a brilliant player in this particular, met more than a match in the Californian, who time and again burned across service aces that were hardly more than a streak. Even Murray's twist service was a puzzle to Tilden, who found himself drawn into repeated errors. On the other hand, Tilden's service, which was not going any too well, was far from being troublesome to Murray.

The new champion played the characteristic net game for which he is famous. He tricked Tilden with ease with soft shots and stop volleys and smashed and volleyed in a manner that almost defied return. For the greater part of the time Murray's game was under rather better control than usual. There was only here and there a trace of wildness, and, with an almost impenetrable defense and an offense that was wickedly severe, Murray raced along to victory, to the amazement of the spectators, who had expected to see him forced at least to a hard match.

Path to Victory Is Smooth.

The first two sets fell to Murray with comparative ease. In the second set he broke through Tilden's service with slight difficulty on three occasions. He had a lead of 4—1 in this set in a twinkling, and then it was only a matter of two more games before he had the set safely tucked away.

In the third set it looked as if Murray would once more race away from his opponent, but Tilden by a determined effort and a rally that was nobly fought, in view of his handicaps, carried the score from 4—1 against him up to deuce. Tilden had sacrificed his own service in the fourth game, but in the ninth he broke through Murray in a love game, and took the next game as well, to bring the scores to 5 all. The Californian burned across two service aces to clinch the next game, and then broke through Tilden to take the set and match.

During the course of the tournament a raffle was conducted in which chances were sold on the racquet which should be used by the champion in winning the match. The lucky number in the draw was 804. It was announced that some $8,000 had been raised by the tournament for the Army and Navy Departments' Commissions on Training Camp Activities.

Prior to the championship match Mrs. George W. Wightman and Nathaniel W. Niles competed against Miss Molla Bjurstedt and Frederick B. Alexander in an exhibition mixed doubles event. Miss Bjurstedt and Alexander won the first set at 9—7, and the second went to the rival pair at 7—5.

TROTTERS IN CLOSE FINISH.

Patrick Duluth Shows Heels to Big Field at Hartford.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 3.—Close finishes prevailed during today's Grand Circuit meeting at Carter Oak Park. Patrick Duluth, with Crozier in the sulky, took first money in the 2:15 trot, winning two heats of the race, which was conducted on the three-heat plan, every heat a race. In both heats the field of ten starters came down the home stretch so closely bunched that the judges experienced much difficulty in placing the horses. The decisions were not satisfactory to the drivers, three or four of whom entered protests.

The other two events, the Whirlwind, a $3,000 purse for the 2:06 pacing class, and the $2,000 Nutmeg Stake for two-year-old trotters were also decided in straight heats, Murphy winning the former with Directum J., and Serrill, up behind, Let Fly, carrying off first money in the latter event.

The summaries:

Patrick Duluth, (Crozier)	3	1	1
Joseph Guy, (Hyde)	2	2	7
Leonard C., (Crossman)	4	8	2
Zomidotte, (McDonald)	7	7	3

J. W. Mokum, Mont Volo, Benzol, Salina Guy and Worthy Bingen also started.

WIHRLWIND, 2:06 PACE.—THREE HEATS. (PURSE $3,000.)

Directum J., (Murphy)	1	1	1
Mary Rosalind, Parr, (Valentine)	2	3	3
Edward P., (Leese)	3	4	2
Oro Rino, (Geers)	4	2	5

Little Batiste and Walter Cochato also started.

Dorothy Day, (Murphy)	2	2

Mary's Sister and Eliza Dillon distanced.

Greb to Box Bartfield Again.

Pittsburgh promoters are angling for a return match between Harry Greb, formerly of Pittsburgh, now attached to Uncle Sam's navy, and Soldier Bartfield, the Brooklyn middleweight. It is planned to stage a contest between these boxers for ten rounds at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, if satisfactory terms can be agreed on by the representatives of the fighters.

SUNNY SLOPE AGAIN IN VAN AT BELMONT

William Martin's Sunny Slope firmly established himself as a serious contender for three-year-old honors over the mile route when he easily disposed of Motor Cop in the Jerome Handicap at Belmont Park yesterday. The victory over the winner of the Withers was the more remarkable because Sunny Slope was an added starter, his name only being put on the board after it was determined that he had suffered no ill effects in scoring handily over Eyelid and Hollister in the Autumn Handicap on Monday.

It takes a good horse to win races in first-class company on successive days, and Sunny Slope proved himself one. He had to pick up a five-pound penalty for his success on Monday, which brought his impost up to 120 pounds, only three pounds less than Motor Cop carried. The latter had won his races at this distance with such ease that with Loftus in the saddle he was made an odds on choice, but there was plenty of support for Sunny Slope.

Loftus evidently had received waiting instructions, for though Motor Cop was off in front he allowed Sunny Slope to take the lead in the middle of the back stretch, and the son of Astronomer was rated along in the van thereafter. Loftus did not make a move on the favorite until entering the stretch and he partially closed up the gap of two lengths before Callahan called on Sunny Slope for his extreme speed. Loftus's whipping finish was of no avail thereafter, for Sunny Slope moved away freely and was pulled up near the finish to win handily by two lengths.

Morton L. Schwartz gained double brackets, winning the steeplechase with Crest Hill and then scoring with Flyaway in the very next race, a five-and-a-half-furlong dash for two-year-olds. The fields were small but puzzling, as only one of the favorites won.

SANFORD TO SELL HORSES.

Amsterdam Owner Will Retire from Racing During the War.

Turfmen were surprised yesterday by the announcement that John Sanford had decided to sell the thoroughbreds in training, as well as the yearlings at his Hurricania Stud at Amsterdam, N. Y. The breeding establishment, which was founded by his father, the late General Stephen Sanford, will be maintained, and the friends of Mr. Sanford were unanimous in the opinion that he would return to active participation in racing as soon as the war is over.

The yearlings will be sold on Friday evening, Sept. 13, while the horses in training will be disposed of in the paddock at Belmont Park on Futurity Day. Mr. Sanford has been a large purchaser of blooded stock, both at home and abroad, for a number of years, and he has some of the best racing strains in the world in the animals which will be offered at auction.

Last Call for A. A. U. Dues.

Announcement was made yesterday Association A. A. U. that Friday would be the last day of grace for local athletic clubs to pay the annual dues to the organization. This date is ten days in advance of the Metropolitan Association meeting.

Boxing Bouts at Yacht Club.

The Bensonhurst Yacht Club of Brooklyn has received a sanction to promote an amateur boxing tournament at its quarters Sept. 17 and 19. The classes listed for competition are 110, 118, 128, and 138 pounds, and it is likely that there will be at least one special bout between topnotch amateurs.

SOX AND CUBS FIT FOR WORLD SERIES

Both Confident of Victory on Eve of Opening Game at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—A cloudless sky, with a bracing wind sweeping out of the northeast, is the weather forecast for the opening game of the wartime world's series between the Chicago Nationals and Boston Americans at Comiskey Park tomorrow afternoon. Everything is set tonight for the initial combat. Each team is supremely confident of eventual triumph, and the players are in perfect physical condition.

Manager Mitchell of the National League champions put his players through an hour of batting drill at Comiskey Park this afternoon, and ende the practice with a spirited fielding workout. The players limbered up in dashing form, and Mitchell left the field satitsfied they were ready for the series.

The Red Sox, however, reached Chicago from the East too late to engage in practice, and Manager Barrow sent his players early to bed. The American League pennant winners are quartered at a hotel within a short distance of the baseball park and may take a brief workout to loosen up their muscles tomorrow morning.

While neither of the rival leaders would announce for publication the pitcher selected for the opening game, the Chicago pilot said he expected to start a left-hander—either Vaughn or Tyler.

"Vaughn and Tyler will both warm up," Mitchell said, "and the one that appears to be in the better shape will be selected. Killifer will do the catching, so I am certain to have a strong battery. Naturally, I feel confident the Cubs will win the series. I base my conclusion on the fact that we have the better ball club."

Manager Barrow declined to give any hint in regard to his probable pitching selection, but bleacherites guessed that "Bullet Joe" Bush would be chosen, with second choice falling to "Babe" Ruth.

"The best thing I can say is that the Red Sox are ready for a fight, and I, of course, feel certain that we shall bag the championship," Barrow said. "I realize that we are playing a wonderful team. The games, I think, will be close and will arouse more interest than is expected."

Fred Thomas, former third baseman of the Boston team, was granted a two weeks' furlough from the Great Lakes Naval Training School today, which will permit him to participate in the world's series.

Interest in the series has not proved one-half as great as in former years, and there will be no protest that tickets have fallen into the hands of the scalpers, which was the cry last year, when the White Sox and Giants clashed.

Despite the apparent lack of interest, officials of the Chicago Nationals expect a capacity crowd—approximately 30,000—when the game is started tomorrow. Walter Craighead, business manager of the club, referred to the fact that there were more than 300,000 applications for seats to the 1917 games, with but 30,000 available.

"There certainly is one-tenth as much interest in the games this year," he said.

GUTH LEADS GOLFING FIELD.

Net Card of 70 Is Best in Newspapermen's Handicap.

Qualifying rounds in both the club championship and the tournament for the September cup of the New York Newspaper Golf Club were decided coincidently over the Van Cortlandt links ysterday. The competition for the September trophy is on a handicap basis, and in this event M. Guth led with a card of 98, 28—70. T. R. Grimler returned the best gross score of the day, an 83. War Savings Stamps were given as prizes. The pairings for the first match round in the club championship were as follows:

Grimler vs. Davis, Scollard vs. Laux, Dailey vs. Wood, Gabest vs. Zimmerman, Pope vs. Roth, Guth vs. Campbell, Hall vs. Nowlan, Perez vs. Ruhlander.

M. Guth, 98, 28—70; T. R. Grimler, 83, 12—71; Frank P. Nowlan, 88, 17—71; W. P. Wood, 86, 15—71; Charles Gebest, 92, 19—73; Peter L. Campbell, 94, 20—74; H. Perez, 89, 15—74; Leo Zimmermann, 93, 19—74; A. P. Roth, 87, 12—75; Charles Laux, 94, 17—77; C. A. Dailey, 100, 23—77; Charles Scollard, 99, 21—78; David Hall, 93, 14—79; Frank Pope, 92, 12—80; F. B. Davis, 96, 16—80; Robert Ruhlander, 103, 20—83.

Don't be disturbed by everything you read in the newspapers, even though there may be a temptation in some quarters to reduce standards, as evidenced by the following news item appearing in yesterday's Sun:

Some Clothing Makers Slighting Their Wares

SOME manufacturers of clothing are taking advantage of war conditions and slighting workmanship, according to one buyer of large quantities of clothing. And not only is this circumstance making it hard for the retail clothier, he said, but high prices and poor merchandise also enter into the equation.

"Formerly when I bought clothing I was able to work up a considerable amount of enthusiasm over my wares," he stated, "and I was able to instil that enthusiasm into my salesmen, but there is nothing to enthuse over in the goods we are getting now. Every time I sell a suit of clothes I feel like a gold brick salesman, because I know that the value isn't there."

School and college outfits now ready.

"Don't tell me your cigar smoking is costing you more every day! Of course it does—everything does.

"You're like the fellow who said he couldn't pass through the doorway because his hat would strike the top of the framework.

"Well, take off your hat to the Piccadilly Little Cigar, and be thankful I told you about it.

"If you want to economize in your smoking; if you like and feel you must have the fragrant Havana flavor, buy a box of Piccadilly Little Cigars.

"These are the days to save; but how rarely can one save without sacrifice! Smoking the Piccadilly in lieu of big, costly cigars is one of the rare cases.

"Buy a box today; why defer the pleasure and profit?"

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday—6 per cent. for the best names. Saturday—6 per cent. for the best names. The quotations are for six months' paper.

Bids Were Scarce Yesterday.

Interest apparently was lacking in the public opening of bids for dugout blankets and three-leaf twills, for Government account, that took place here yesterday, for not only were bids few but the attendance was very limited. Including officials, men in the trade, and reporters, there were barely ten persons in the room when Harry Williams, who presided, began reading the bids. The call for blankets asked for 102,500, the specifications setting their size at 48 by 84 inches and their weight at 8½ to 4½ pounds each. There were only nine bidders, the bids running all the way from $2.40 to $5.50. About 1,700,000 yards of 39-inch 68-76, 4-yard three-leaf twills were wanted by the Government, and bids covering only 900,000 yards were received. There were but three bidders, and only one of these bid a definite price, which was 21½ cents. The other bidders specified the Government maximum price at time of delivery. The goods are wanted for delivery in the last quarter of the year.

Gray Goods Very Quiet.

Mills drew their horns in tighter than ever in the local gray goods market yesterday following the sharp rise in cotton that, in turn, followed the Government report presaging a marked shrinkage in the current year's crop as compared with earlier reports. Second-hands also paused to get their bearings, with the result that there was very little of interest doing during the day.

May Dispose of Claflin Notes.

Holders of Series No. 1 notes of the denomination of $1,000 or less that were issued late in 1914 in payment to creditors of the old H. B. Claflin Company may turn them in if they wish to accept 5 per cent. of their value in cash as final payment. Announcement to this effect has been made by the Mercantile Stores Corporation, 200 Fifth Avenue. The notes covered 85 per cent. of the total of the original claims, about 40 per cent. of which had been paid before the present offer of the corporation was made. This payment, together with the original 15 per cent. cash settlement, means that the creditors will receive approximately 60 per cent. of their claims if they accept the offer and surrender their notes for a final 5 per cent. settlement. There are more than 1,300 creditors holding Series No. 1 notes, which were for about $7,650,000.

Dinner to William Hoar.

The farewell dinner given yesterday noon to William Hoar by the Garment Salesmen's Association, of which he had been President for many years, was attended by about 150 members of the association and their friends. Mr. Hoar, who resigned from the Presidency to take up work in the overseas service of the Y. M. C. A., was visibly overwhelmed by the extent and the unanimity of the tribute paid him on the eve of his departure for the other side. Arthur Lewy, who has been elected to succeed Mr. Hoar as President, acted as toastmaster.

Burlap Prices Soften.

Burlap prices continue to ease off slightly as a result of the continued lack of real demand, and yesterday current quotations in the local market were based on the nominal figures of 23 cents for 10½-ounce "40s" and 18¼ cents for 8-ounce goods of the same width. There was very little business stirring. Quotations on the waistcoats were virtually the same as here, being not more than a quarter of a cent under the local nominal figures. An unconfirmed report had it during the day that Calcutta was stronger again in sympathy with a rise of about 40 per cent. in the price of jute. This rise is due to a sharp decline in estimates concerning the present season's crop.

Muskrats Will Be Scarce.

From present indications manufacturing furriers are going to face a general shortage of muskrats this Fall, and the situation as to skunks is not much better. Yesterday was closing day for the annual Fall auction of the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation, and, while the receipts of the general run of skins is understood to be up to the average, a shortage is noted in the two varieties mentioned. The local sale will begin on Monday, Sept. 23, in the Masonic Hall, and show day will be on Sept. 18. A shortage of muskrat and skunk at the St. Louis sale also is presaged by the current report of Funston Brothers & Co. of that city. In part, the report says: "Receipts to our sale, which will take place on Oct. 7 and days following, have been very light so far and we recommend heavy shipments of all articles."

Ready-to-Wear Trade Picking Up.

As was hoped and even expected, with Labor Day past, business in the women's ready-to-wear industry of this city is becoming more active. Already there seems to be quite a fair sprinkling of buyers in town seeking various numbers to round out their stocks, and the mail brought word of many others who are leaving shortly or who have already left for this market. Thus, with these signs of a revival of interest amounting frequently to actual business, and the practical realization of predictions made not long ago that the second season would be earlier this year, the suggestion of gloom and apathy which prevailed last month is in a fair way to disappear.

Buying for Fall Begun.

Though as yet people have only begun to come in from out of town, the larger retail dry goods stores of the city yesterday were more active, it was said, than they have been for some time past. There are some people back from country and seashore who are visiting the stores, and the cooler evenings are serving to remind them and others that things for Fall and Winter will soon be required. There was quite a little business done in the women's coat, suit, and dress departments yesterday. They all shared about equally in the sales made.

Fur Hats Being Shown.

In spite of the Summer "feel" still in the air, millinery wholesalers here are already offering hats in various materials combined with fur. This is mostly the case, however, with manufacturers of the higher-priced goods, and yet these hats have not been sold at retail. The materials used with fur include gold and silver brocaded satin, velvet, and panne velvet, and they are combined with mole, natural squirrel and nutria. Mole is most in demand for this purpose. In many cases the upper brims, crowns and facings are made of fur. Some of these hats have bags and scarfs to match. The prices of the sets ranging from $60 to $100.

Expects Good Suit Season.

There is good reason to believe that suits will be in high favor this season, according to the opinions expressed by several of the leading manufacturers in this city. "Due to wartime conditions and to the need for economy," said one of them, "practicality is certain to play a more conspicuous part in garments for women this year than ever before; and women's suits are eminently practical. Nearly all women doing Red Cross or semi-military work are wearing suits, whether or not a uniform suit is prescribed. The example set by these women substantiates all the usual talking points in suits. That retailers appreciate this becomes more evident every day as late or duplicate orders arrive."

RECORD WAR EXPENDITURE.

Total for August Likely to Exceed $1,750,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Government war expeditures in August broke all monthly records by more than $100,000,000, amounting to $1,714,000,000 on reports up to today. Later reports may raise this by $50,000,000.

Ordinary war expenses amounted to $1,468,000,000, or $200,000,000 more than last month's high record. This did not include outlays of last Saturday, yet to be tabulated. Loans to allies were reported as $244,000,000, not including Saturday.

BUSINESS RECORDS.

In Town.

ALEXANDER McCONNELL, a florist of 611 Fifth Avenue, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $82,419 and assets of $99,080, consisting of real estate, $77,000; stock in trade, $62,035; automobiles and carriages, $2,895; machinery, $1,509; accounts, $9,983; cash in bank, $138; cash on hand, $65; books, $40; fixtures and books, $275. FINANCIAL MARKETS

It was too much to expect the stock market, even with the recent warning against an increase in the tide of speculative dealings, to continue on its orderly way, as reports of the capture of Lens, of Queant, and of other important points long in the enemies' hands came in. The earlier hours reflected the restraint under which trading has been conducted lately, but as the day wore on enthusiasm was voiced in a spirited demand for stocks under the influence of which the list closed well above last week's final prices.

The real measure of the Street's estimate of the significance of the day's news was supplied by the dealings in United States Steel. In the early part of the session attention was held by advances in American Hide & Leather, Southern Railway, and half a dozen other less important issues, but as the buying movement gained headway it converged on Steel, selling up to 116 just before the close, the equivalent of 120¼ with the dividend off, this issue displayed greater strength on a broadening demand than has been seen in some weeks. The rest of the list, with few exceptions, was fairly active and strong, with total dealings approaching a half million shares.

Almost as striking as showing the Street's interpretation of the meaning of Haig's advance was the change in rates on neutral countries in yesterday's market. Selling based on the expectation that the new gains will hasten the time when Germany will be forced to acknowledge defeat carried rates on Holland, Switzerland, Sweden, and Norway down quite easily, the drop amounting to half a cent in some instances. Call money was held at 6 per cent. despite a brisk demand.

While the cotton market, in a week of rapidly rising prices, was obviously engaged in discounting a very unfavorable Government report, the figures made public yesterday so far surpassed the worst fears of damage wrought by drought in August that prices were forced to still higher ground, establishing new high records never approached in past years. August proved the most disastrous month in the history of the crop, ending with the crop reduced 2,500,000 bales. The June estimate of a yield of 15,285,000 bales has now been reduced to a prospective crop of 11,137,000 bales.

FIREMEN THREATEN STRIKE.

London Brigade Demands Recognition of Union by Sept. 8.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Following the settlement of the police strike last week London yesterday was threatened with a strike of the Fire Brigade. The Secretary of the Fire Brigade Branch of the National Union of Corporation Workers addressed an ultimatum to the Ministry of Labor demanding a reply to previous requests for recognition of the union.

In asking for a reply by Sept. 8, the Secretary expressed a hope that it would be satisfactory, as the men, "in their present frame of mind, will require assurance to prevent them from taking drastic action."

TO SELL INTERBORO NOTES.

A syndicate composed of J. P. Morgan & Co., the First National Bank, the National City Company, Harris, Forbes & Co., Lee, Higginson & Co., Halsey, Stuart & Co., and Kissel, Kinnicutt & Co. has been formed to sell $33,400,000 of Interborough Rapid Transit Company's three-year 7 per cent. secured convertible notes at 98½, to yield investors slightly more than 7½ per cent.

The War Finance Corporation has agreed to take $12,500,000 of the notes, with the understanding that in the event that the syndicate succeeds in disposing of the entire issue of $33,400,000 it will be relieved of its obligation, the War Finance Corporation being compensated just as it was in the case of the recent Bethlehem Steel Corporation financing.

The notes are to be secured by $52,187,000 Interborough Rapid Transit Company first and refunding mortgage 5 per cent. bonds, and will carry the privilege of conversion into such bonds at 87½, with adjustment of interest. The notes are to be redeemable at 103 and interest during the first year, 102 and interest during the second year, and at 101 and interest during the third year.

From the offering price of 98½ a selling commission of 1½ per cent. out of the gross profits will be allowed to the syndicate members on confirmed sales, of which one-half of 1 per cent. may be allowed to dealers of institutions with bond departments.

J. D. RYAN QUITS COPPER CO.

C. F. Kelley Succeeds as President of Anaconda Mining.

John D. Ryan resigned yesterday as President of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company, in order to devote all his time to Government work. A statement issued at the company's offices, following a special meeting of the Directors, made the announcement of his retirement and the election of C. F. Kelley, for several years a Vice President of the company, as President to succeed him. Mr. Ryan also retires from the Directorate.

Mr. Ryan went to Washington in July of last year, first to work with the War Industries Board and later with the American Red Cross. For several months he has been Director of Air Service, and a few days ago his authority in respect to the production of airplanes was strengthened by his appointment as Second Assistant Secretary of War. Mr. Kelley is a Director of the Andes Exploration Company, the United Metals Selling Company, and other concerns affiliated with or controlled by the Anaconda organization.

National City Co. Opens New Office.

The National City Company announces that its uptown office, at 514 Fifth Avenue, (southwest corner of Forty-third Street, will be opened this morning. The office will be in charge of Colonel John B. Young, who has been connected with the National City Company since it entered the bond-distributing business, and who prior to that time was associated with the National City Bank of New York.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Steel's Sharp Advance.

Counting in the dividend which came off the price last Friday, Steel common yesterday sold above 120 and closed at 120. Buyers of last Wednesday and Thursday who paid upward of 115 for their stock saw the full dividend recovered before the last half-hour of trading began yesterday, and in the final thirty minutes witnessed the better part of a point profit added. The rapidity with which Steel was bid upward toward the end of the day demonstrated a striking scarcity of offerings. At 2:45 o'clock the quotation stood at 114¼ and twelve minutes later it was up exactly 1¾ points from that level.

War Copper Demand Increases.

Like steel, the increasing demand of copper for war purposes is growing beyond the scope expected by producers and consumers three months ago. It is estimated now that less than 3 per cent. of the current output of the country's refineries is going into manufacturing not connected with the war. Only a few weeks ago, men concerned with the distribution of the metal calculated that 5 per cent. was available for commercial purposes in the United States and abroad.

Stutz Motor Earnings.

The Stutz Motor Car Company's semi-annual report, issued yesterday, showed what appeared to be the effect of curtailed manufacturing. The net sales receipts were $1,935,957, a decline of $553,665, or more than 22 per cent. from the total in the first half of 1917. The net profit of $398,066 was less by $223,709 than a year before. At that the balance of $7.30 a share available for dividends was not unfavorable. It was about $1 a share less than for the corresponding period of 1917.

Money Committee Meets.

The so-called Money Committee held its regular weekly meeting yesterday afternoon at the offices of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. Benjamin Strong, Governor of the bank and Chairman of the committee, who has been away on a vacation for several weeks, was on hand. The other bankers present were Gates W. McGarrah, President of the Mechanics and Metals National Bank, who acts as Chairman in Mr. Strong's absence; Frank A. Vanderlip, President of the National City Bank; James S. Alexander, President of the National Bank of Commerce; Walter E. Frew, President of the Corn Exchange Bank; Jackson E. Reynolds, Vice President of the First National Bank, and William P. Conway, Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company. Messrs. Reynolds and Conway are not regular members, but substituted for the Presidents of their respective institutions. Neither Mr. Strong nor Mr. McGarrah had any statement to make for publication. It is understood that the committee is keeping careful watch over the stock market and is ready to make good the threat contained in last week's statement of Mr. McGarrah in the event that there appears any warrant for increasing rates "that will prove corrective."

Stabilizing Market for Liberty Bonds.

George W. Hodges, Chairman of the committee which is endeavoring to devise a plan for stabilizing the market for Liberty Loan bonds, had an informal conference yesterday with Charles E. Mitchell, President of the National City Company, and his associates. They discussed the so-called Canadian plan and other suggestions that had been advanced, but no definite or final decision was reached. The committee expects to hold several meetings before announcing its proposed program.

Sifting Wheat from the Chaff.

Conscious that their own status was above reproach, hundreds of men over the draft age embarrassed the officers who were trying to pick up unregistered men in the financial district yesterday by standing about ready to laugh at the discomfiture of those who could not produce cards. Now and then the crowd was scattered, but the effort was like making a hole in the ocean, for it flowed back at once to form a ring around the men in uniform. The warning was so plain that any youngster between 18 and 31 who was not prepared to face the ordeal had ample opportunity to escape by taking one of the numerous roundabout ways with which a messenger becomes acquainted.

A Cheap Call.

When the market is hopelessly quiet the put 'n call broker who cries his wares is subjected to a good deal of ridicule, but when an advance like that witnessed yesterday takes place he gets his revenge. It was recalled at the close, with Steel at 116, that a call on 100 shares of Steel at 114, with twenty-seven days yet to run, was offered around brokerage offices on Saturday for $175.

Whence the Money Came.

J. P. Morgan & Co. yesterday paid out something like $195,000,000 to redeem United Kingdom 5s which fell due Sept. 1. They would say nothing as to the source from which the money was received beyond the fact that it was turned over for the purpose by the British Government. Sir Hardman Lever, representing Great Britain, obtained the funds as part of an advance made by the United States a few days ago.

BRITISH NOTES PAID.

J. P. Morgan & Co. Turn Over $195,000,000 to Holders Here.

J. P. Morgan & Co., as fiscal agents for the British Government, paid out yesterday about $195,000,000 to holders of the two-year 5 per cent. second notes of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, which matured on Sunday and were due yesterday. This is the second of the British external loans raised in the United States since the beginning of the European war to mature and to be paid. On Feb. 1 of this year there was paid $100,000,000 of one-year 5½ per cent. secured notes.

The issue that matured yesterday was for $250,000,000, but from time to time the British Government, through the Morgan firm, sold securities deposited as collateral for the notes and reduced the amount of its outstanding obligations. The latest statement of the New York Stock Exchange shows that there were outstanding last week $192,786,000 of these 5 per cent. notes. Yesterday's payments of about $195,000,000 included the semi-annual interest on the notes, as well as the principal.

French Steamer Pampa Sunk.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—The French steamship Pampa of 4,471 tons, was sunk by a torpedo on the night of Aug. 26-27 while on a voyage from Bizerta to Saloniki. Four Serbian soldiers out of 359 persons on board are missing.

The War Demands of the U. S. Government

It is estimated that 50% of the available labor and raw materials of the country will be required by the United States to carry on the war with maximum efficiency. The consequent stimulation of many industries and the curtailment of others has created unusual situations for investors to consider. With these facts in mind we invite requests for our latest investment recommendations.

EXCHANGE RATES AGAIN STRONGER

MOVEMENT SEEMS GRADUAL

Stocks Also Move Sharply on the Strength of Favorable War News.

Coincident with the news yesterday of another smashing blow by the British troops through the Hindenburg line came a sharp movement of certain of the foreign exchange markets which attracted much attention in banking circles. In the case of Dutch, Scandinavian, Swiss, and Spanish exchange the price changes were more markedly beneficial to the status of the American dollar in the neutral countries of Europe than any which had occurred during a single day in many months. Bankers interpreted the alterations of quoted rates as indicative of a growth of sentiment, influenced by the success of the allied arms.

All the exchanges mentioned have long been at a substantial premium above par at New York, which meant a corresponding discount of the dollar in foreign markets. Yesterday the quotation for Dutch guilders, to be transferred by check, declined fully 2 cents per guilder, to 48, as compared with the year's maximum of 52.375 and the normal quotation of 40.20 cents. The Copenhagen rate of 30.12½ cents to the krone was a half cent down from last Saturday's closing price, while the Stockholm rate was off even more and the rate on Christiania almost as much. A dollar would buy 4.35 Swiss francs yesterday afternoon, compared with 4.25 last Saturday and a normal rate of 5.1826. The Spanish peseta was quoted at 23.25 per dollar, against 23.37 a few days ago.

The movements were not abrupt, for they had been gradually shading downward for the last month, as the effect of General Foch's strategy became more and more apparent, but the day's results were more substantial in extent than the financial community had expected. French exchange, which improved its position to an important degree last week, was hardly altered yesterday, and sterling rates were about the same as last week. In view of the belief long held in important international banking circles that the exchange market would forecast the imminent end of the war, quotations have been receiving close attention. The bankers have been cautious in commenting on the situation, however, as it is realized that such large premiums still exist, in case of the markets mentioned that there is room for movements of larger extent than any yet seen before the end of hostilities could be considered near at hand.

Stocks also moved rather sharply yesterday, particularly United States Steel common, which gained 4 points. Net advances of a point or more were recorded by Bethlehem Steel Class B, Crucible Steel, Great Northern preferred, New York Central, Reading, Union Pacific, Southern Railway, and others. The market was more active than the average sessions of recent weeks with the advance most pronounced at the end of the day. Purchases of Canadian Pacific, Steel, Southern Railway, and certain additional railroad and industrial stocks for account of buyers in England, Holland, and the Scandinavian countries have been reported on the increase for several days.

CLEARING HOUSE MAKES NEW COLLECTION RULE

The New York Clearing House Association, at a special meeting held yesterday afternoon, approved the recommendation of its Clearing House Committee, of which Walter E. Frew is Chairman, that the rules regarding the collection of out-of-town acceptances be amended by reducing the charges. This action was taken in response to the protest of Boston bankers who vigorously opposed the imposition of a charge of 1-10 of one per cent. Under the amended rules, which became effective yesterday, the charge for the collection of bankers' acceptances payable in Federal Reserve cities outside of New York is 1-40 of 1 per cent. in cases where credit is available at the New York Federal Reserve Bank within two days or less; and 1-20 of 1 per cent. on items where credit is available three or four days after receipt. For all other items the charge will be 1-10 of 1 per cent.

Section 6. (a) On acceptances of banks, bankers, and trust companies located in Federal Reserve cities (except New York City) and cities where Federal Reserve branches are at present, or may hereafter be established, purchased for their own account by member or clearing non-member institution, the charge shall be one-fortieth of 1 per cent. on items payable at such cities where credit is available at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York two days or less after receipt; one-twentieth of 1 per cent. on such items where credit is available at said bank three or four days after receipt, and one-tenth of 1 per cent. on such items where credit is available at said bank eight days after receipt. The above charges apply to the above items whether collected through the Federal Reserve Banks or otherwise.

(b) All notes or other time obligations not provided for in Subdivision A of this section, purchased for their own account by member or clearing non-member institutions, payable elsewhere than in New York City, shall be subject to a charge of not less than one-tenth of 1 per cent., except that in the States of Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, New Mexico, North Carolina, and South Carolina the charge shall be not less than one-eighth of 1 per cent., provided, however, that on notes or other obligations for discount or purchase taken from banks, bankers, or trust companies, with or without their indorsement, maintaining an account with the member bank discounting or purchasing the same, with the understanding that payment is to be provided at maturity in New York exchange at par, the charge shall be discretionary.

The following amendment to the Constitution of the New York Clearing House was proposed at yesterday's meeting and it will be voted on at a meeting to be held a week from today:

ARTICLE XI.

Section 2. No member of this association, or bank, or trust company, or others clearing through any member shall pay exchange or other charges or allow time, in connection with the collection of any item collectible through the Federal Reserve Banks, but which is collected through other sources, in excess of the charges which would have been payable or the time allowed had such items been collected through the Federal Reserve Banks.

The purpose of this amendment is to make the Clearing House check collection charges conform to the charges made by the Federal Reserve Banks for similar service.

NEW COTTON RECORD ON FEDERAL REPORT

Big Advance in Prices Brings Out Mass of Profit-Taking, with South a Heavy Seller.

The New York Cotton Exchange was the scene of great excitement yesterday when, at 11 o'clock, there was received the Government's crop report, indicating a condition of 55.7 per cent. of normal—the lowest on record—and forecasting a cotton crop of 11,370,000 bales, the smallest since 1909. Immediately there was a wild rush to execute buying orders and cover shorts on stop-loss orders, and prices advanced sharply, with all the principal months making new high records for the forty years that the Exchange has been in business.

Contracts for October delivery sold up to 37.25 cents and December contracts at 36.50 cents. In the sudden upward movement the advance amounted to as much as $9 a bale, and in the case of October contracts the range between the high and low for the day amounted to 240 points, or $12 a bale.

The market opened strong at an advance of 50 to 95 points, and there was not much activity until 11 o'clock, when the flash was received from Washington. The announcement of a condition of 55.7 per cent. was in the nature of a surprise, for the various private crops had not averaged under 58.5. A canvass of seventy-four members of the Exchange averaged 57.8.

The high price of 37.25 cents for October contracts compared with 35.70 cents, the previous high price established last Thursday afternoon.

The big advance in prices brought out a mass of profit-taking sales. The South was a heavy seller. The selling movement brought about a reaction in prices, the decline amounting to about a cent a pound. During the afternoon the market was dull but steady, with prices off half a cent from the best under realizing. Trade buying became less in evidence and there appeared to be some hesitation on the part of brokers. The market closed barely steady, October showing a net advance of 165 points compared with Friday's final figures.

GREAT DAMAGE DONE TO THE COTTON CROP

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—A disaster unparalleled in the history of the cotton growing industry in the United States has befallen the American cotton crop this year as the result of a severe drought in July and August. The Government's September cotton report, issued today, forecasts the prospective production this year at 11,137,000 equivalent 500-pound bales—4,098,000 bales less than was forecast at the beginning of the season.

The second largest acreage on record was planted this year and prospects seemed bright for one of the largest crops ever grown. Drought during July, however, reduced the crop by 1,616,000 bales, and dry weather in August caused the greatest deterioration ever recorded in a single month, there being a decline of 17.9 points in the condition on Aug. 25 as compared with July 25.

The entire cotton belt was affected, but in Texas and Oklahoma and the western part of the region it was greater than in the east. The extent of the depreciation amounted to 2,482,000 bales, reducing the prospective production to 11,137,000 bales. A crop of that size would be slightly smaller than those of the last three years. In a statement issued with the crop report, the Department of Agriculture said:

"The last month was the most disastrous in its effect upon the cotton crop that has been recorded, the decline being 17.9 points, equivalent to a depreciation of 24 per cent. on one month. The forecast of yield per acre, 145 pounds, is smaller than any yield ever reported.

"A large acreage, however, permits a forecast of total production of 11,137,000 bales, which is but slightly smaller than the last three crops. The depreciation was more or less general throughout the cotton belt, but greater in the West (Texas and Oklahoma especially) than in the East. The principal cause of the decline is extreme drought, but contributory causes are boll weevil, red spider, and rust."

The condition of the crop by States is: Virginia, 84; North Carolina, 77; South Carolina, 67; Georgia, 66; Florida, 60; Alabama, 66; Mississippi, 67; Louisiana, 58; Texas, 43; Arkansas, 52; Tennessee, 58; Missouri, 60; Oklahoma, 33; California, 92; Arizona, 96.

NO MONEY AVAILABLE FOR RAILROAD'S NOTES

There matured yesterday $15,000,000 of one-year 6 per cent. collateral trust notes of the Chicago & Western Indiana Railroad Company, but at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., where they were payable, it was stated that as no funds had been received with which to pay off the obligations, it was impossible for the bankers to redeem the notes. Holders of notes who presented them for payment were told that no funds were available.

It had been expected generally in banking circles that the Railroad Administration would furnish the necessary funds out of the revolving fund at its disposal, but despite the efforts made to obtain assistance, no money has come forward. It was learned yesterday that John Skelton Williams had suggested that a bank loan be arranged for the period of one year at 6 per cent. This proposal, it was said, did not meet the approval of the bankers, inasmuch as they thought it inadvisable even to try to burden the banks with a nonliquid capital loan of $15,000,000 extending over ten months or a year, and they had some doubt as to whether the banks would agree to make such an advance. It was also thought hopeless to sell to the public a note at 6 per cent. when equally good and better railroad short-term securities were being offered on a more attractive basis. It appears that Mr. Williams declined to grant permission to float a loan at a rate higher than 6 per cent. One of the difficulties in the way of financing was the fact that the railroad contract has not yet been signed and the road has no assurance in respect to its future earnings.

The notes of the Chicago & Western Indiana Railroad Company are secured by $21,000,000 first and refunding bonds, which enjoy a first lien upon extensive freight-terminal property in and around Chicago which is used by the Pennsylvania, Atchison, Erie, Wabash, Chesapeake & Ohio, and other roads.

It is understood that under the terms of the indenture, the Bankers' Trust Company of New York, which is the Trustee, may sell the security behind the notes for the benefit of the noteholders five days after payment has been defaulted.

The $15,000,000 of one-year notes were offered to the public at 99¾ by a syndicate composed of J. P. Morgan & Co., the First National Bank, the National City Company, and Harris, Forbes & Co.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts, two days, 6,192 packages. Market short of fresh table grades, and prices advanced another ½c, with a very firm feeling at the close. Renovated doing a little better, and ladles and packing stock are stronger. Creamery, higher than extras, a pound, 49@49½c; extras, 92 score, 48½c; firsts, 88 to 91 score, 46@48c; seconds, 83 to 87 score, 43½@45½c; thirds, 41@43c; unsalted, higher than extras, 50½@51c; extras, 49½@50c; firsts, 47½@49c; seconds, 45@47c; State dairy tubs finest, 47½@48c; good to prime, 45½@47c; common to fair, 40@44½c; renovated, extras, 42½@43c; firsts, 41½@42c; lower grades, 38@40½c; imitation creamery, firsts, 40@40½c; ladles, current make, firsts, 38@38½c; seconds, 36@36½c; lower grades, 34½@35½c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 36@36½c; No. 2, 35½c; lower grades, 33@35c.

EGGS.—11,921 cases. Market opens with a fairly steady tone. The highest qualities are still in pretty good demand and firm. The medium grades which come more directly in competition with storage eggs are rather quiet. There is some improvement in the quality of the general receipts, although there is still some irregularity, many lots still containing considerable mixture with heated and undesirable stock. Storage eggs in fair demand and held firmly. Strictly fancy nearby white eggs in light supply. Defective qualities are still plentiful, and meeting a dull market at weak and irregular prices. Lake Worth Drainage District of Palm Beach County, Florida
Serial 6% Bonds

Dated January 1, 1917. Coupon bonds in denominations of $1,000 and $500. Principal and semi-annual interest, June 1 and December 1, payable at the Hanover National Bank, New York City.

Maturing Serially from Dec. 1st, 1922 to 1944, Inclusive.

These bonds, the obligations of an independent drainage unit, are secured by a tax lien on 130,000 acres of land, strongly held and now averaging in value at least $35 per acre, with an aggregate value of over $4,500,000. The annual requirements for both principal and interest average only 62c per acre.

Lake Worth Drainage District extends from the City of West Palm Beach in a southerly direction for a distance of twenty-six miles and is eight miles wide. Transportation facilities are furnished by the Florida East Coast Railroad, which parallels the District for its entire length and maintains stations at intervals of from three to five miles, and by the Dixie Highway, a paved roadway extending from Jacksonville to Miami. Improved public roads connect all parts of the District with convenient stations on the lines of transportation.

Legality of the bonds has been approved by John C. Thomson, Esq., Attorney, New York City, and by Messrs. Charles & Rutherford, Attorneys, St. Louis, Missouri. The law under which the District operates has been approved by the Supreme Court of Florida, and the organization of the District has been validated by a special act of the Legislature.

UNION PACIFIC EARNS $41,536,499 IN YEAR

VALUATION IS $596,392,128

The Increase of Taxes $2,800,147 More Than Accounts for Decline of Profits.

The Union Pacific Railroad Company had an aggregate operating revenue of $130,101,864 in the year ended Dec. 31 last, which was $15,689,257 larger than the year before. The pamphlet report issued yesterday showed that, while gross business scored a substantial increase, the company's experience was not unlike the other great systems, in that expenses ate heavily into the receipts. Operating outlay amounting to $77,295,158 was $13,590,765 larger than in 1917. After counting in the income from investments, rentals, &c., and paying interest charges and taxes, there remained a net revenue of $41,536,499. This was $1,646,909 less than the year before.

It was worth noting in the report that the increase of taxes more than accounted for the decline of net earnings, the increase being $2,800,147. Of this total the Federal capital stock taxes and the war income and excess profits imposts accounted for nearly $2,000,000. The balance of earnings available for dividends was equal to 16.89 per cent. on the common stock, after allowing for the preferred stock dividends, against 17.64 per cent. the year before. The salient items of the annual statement are set forth in the following table:

Operating expenses	77,295,158	13,590,765
Taxes	8,451,691	2,800,147
Income from inv., &c.	11,791,366	*455,603
Interest charges	13,992,634	95,235
Net income	41,536,499	*1,646,909

*Decrease.

After paying dividends there remained a balance of approximately $15,325,600, which was not, however, added to the surplus account. The explanation for the disposition of the balance was described in the statement in this way:

"The entire amount of the year's surplus income after appropriations for dividends was appropriated to cover a like amount of expenditures made during the year for purposes chargeable under the requirements of the Interstate Commerce Commission to 'investment in road and equipment' accounts. This appropriation was deemed expedient in view of the new 10 per cent. tax imposed by the revenue law of Oct. 3, 1917, upon the entire undistributed net income of corporations for each year unless invested or employed or retained for employment in the business or invested in Government bonds. An amount in excess of the whole surplus income of the year having been expended for property investment purposes, and there being no present intention of capitalizing such expenditures, it was considered that the year's surplus income should be specifically allocated to those expenditures by formal appropriation, thereby making the bookkeeping conform to facts."

The balance sheet showed that the value of road and equipment at the end of the year was placed at $596,392,128, an increase of $20,140,357 during 1917. Investments in affiliated companies of $64,156,166 were $3,519,886 higher than at the opening of the year, while the investment in bonds and stock of other concerns, $204,577,819, displayed a gain of $7,547,105. Current assets were valued at $46,840,226, and current liabilities at $32,547,220. The profit and loss account at the close of the year amounted to $124,354,104.

33 NEW WOODEN SHIPS.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—American shipping was increased by thirty-three wooden vessels during August. This was announced today by Charles Piez, Vice President and General Manager of the Emergency Fleet Corporation. Twenty-two of the vessels were actually delivered to the Government, and the other eleven passed final tests and are ready for delivery.

Mr. Piez said most of the new ships would be used in the American coastwise trade, but that a few would be diverted to English Channel work connected with the war. Nearly all were constructed in the extreme South.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Prices closed strong in an active market yesterday. Trading interest in the afternoon session centred almost entirely in Steel common, which, under the impetus of a volume of buying orders, advanced 4 points. The sustained demand in this market leader was reflected not only in the industrial, but in the railroad list.

RAILROAD CONTROL CONTRACT READY

Approved by McAdoo and Leading Companies, but Some Roads May Dispute Terms.

BILLION DOLLARS RENTAL

Revenues Expected to Fall Far Short—Disputes Over Facts or Law to be Adjudicated.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The form of contract under which the Government will pay nearly a billion dollars rental every year to railroads under Federal control has been approved finally by Director General McAdoo and representatives of the leading railroads, and will be offered to the companies for signature within a few days.

Many protests from company representatives, made during long months of discussion of the contract, have been needed in the final draft, it was announced today, although some roads may yet decline to sign it and resort to further negotiation, or possibly to court action. Without a formal contract during the eight months of Federal control, the Government has paid 90 per cent. of compensation claims to needy roads, and left the balance for adjudication after conclusion of the agreement.

Each of the 170 roads under Federal management will be asked to sign the contract, which will be identical for all except that the specific annual compensation for each will be the average net railway operating income for the three years ended June 30, 1917.

As provision against disputes over questions of fact, the contract specifies that the Interstate Commerce Commission shall be called on to act as referee. Questions of law involved in disputes between any company and the Director General may be submitted to a court.

All operating revenues of the railroads are to go to the Government to be used in paying the compensation. Experience so far this year has demonstrated, however, that these revenues will fall far short of the billion-dollar compensation which it is estimated the Government will have to pay.

Property taken over by the Government must be returned in good condition at the end of the Federal control and provision made for depreciation, but the Government is permitted to make additional expenditures to insure safe operation.

If any railroad property is destroyed by fire or other means, the Government must replace it, but the Government is not held responsible for destruction by "public enemies." This is taken to mean that if war were carried to this side of the Atlantic and railroads destroyed it would be the companies' loss.

The Railroad Administration must notify a company of additions and betterments or road extensions to be made but if these finally are held to be required by war needs, and not for proper operation of the line, the company will not be called on to stand the expense.

During Federal control the Government is to assume all expenses growing out of settlement of claims arising since the roads were taken over, joint facility and equipment rents, and damage suits against railroads.

Salaries of corporation officers or other corporation or railroad expenses not directly necessary to actual operation must be paid by the companies, unless provided otherwise by the Director General.

Ordinary Federal, State, and local taxes will be paid by the Government, but each company must pay special war taxes.

The contract specifically provides that, since Government operation is to tide the nation over a war emergency, nothing in the contract terms is to be construed as expressing or prejudicing the future policy of the Government concerning ownership, control or regulation of the company.

tody. All those whose records could not be verified were held in custody.

At 7 o'clock last night 3,192 yellow cards had been issued, and there were probably 1,500 men on the armory floor whose cases had not been attended to. Anticipating that there would be an evening congestion, Mr. DeWoody arranged to make use of the 1,000 cots stored in the armory so that those who were detained over night might have beds to sleep on. The text of the card which each man detained had to make out was as follows:

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE, BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION.

The first of those rounded up were caught at the railroad stations. By 6:30 o'clock the stations or ferry-houses of every railroad connecting with New York were manned by agents of the Department of Justice, and all arrivals, suspected to be between the ages of 21 and 31 were held and questioned. By 10 o'clock there were between 2,000 and 2,500 of these train arrivals in the 69th Regiment Armory. Those having residences other than New York were sent up to the armory balcony at the east end of the building, while the natives were herded in the "bull-pen," a roped space in the centre of the armory floor.

Hurry calls were sent by telephone to the homes of the men, appealing to members of their families to hurry to the armory with whatever cards had been issued by local draft boards, which those in the roundup had failed to carry in their pockets. By noon the armory was besieged by relatives and friends of the men inside. By 2 o'clock in the afternoon the rush of these was so great that they had to be driven from the armory to the street. The iron gates of the armory closed and 720 men from Companies C and D of the Provost Guard at Fort Niagara, which are now stationed at the barracks in Mulberry Bend Park, were hrown around the three sides of the armory.

The arrivals at the armory, for the most part, wore smiling faces and joked one another good naturedly. But as the day grew older and many saw prospect of sleeping in the armory all night, the personal atmosphere changed. The plight of the out-of-town men was indeed serious. The only thing that they could do was to telegraph to distant homes for their draft board records. There seemed to be not only no thinning out in the strangers' gallery during the entire day, but by early evening there was a downright congestion. And what was true in the gallery was true on the floor. At 7 o'clock last evening there were more men in the "bull pen" than there had been at any time during the long day.

Nobody had to go without luncheon or dinner, and those who had to sleep in the armory last night will be served with breakfast this morning. The Government arranged with the caterer who has the contract for feeding those who are detained at Ellis Island to supply as many meals as may be necessary.

Salesmen Caught in Roundup.

In the armory crowd were many local salesmen who were picked up with their sample cases. Many of these who were brought to the armory in the morning were still there last night, having been unable to produce satisfactory information about their eligibility for military service under the first selective draft act. But if some of those who were held all day in the "bull pen" had used just a little horse sense, they need have stayed but a short time. A case in point was that of Perry M. Acker of Peekskill. He had been standing in line from about 2 o'clock in the afternoon until 6 o'clock last evening. Some one asked him how he happened to be picked up, because he looked easily to be more than 31 years old.

"Why," he said, "I work for the Federal Shipbuilding Company at night as a rigger in Kearny, N. J. I live in Peekskill, and commute back and forth. I came to New York earlier than usual today because I had some personal business to attend to. When I landed at the Grand Central Terminal I was nabbed."

"Well," said one of the American Protective League agents, "if your story is true, it is vastly more important that you be sent your way to Kearny than that you be kept standing around here. Come over here to the Bureau of Information and we will see what can be done." At the Bureau of Information, Acker told his story, said his department number was 45 at the Kearny plant, and that his company number was 121. He said he would pay the expense of a telegram or telephone message to the County Clerk of Westchester County, who would give the record of his birth.

"Let's see that white slip you have," said one of the men supervising the work in the Bureau of Information.

Acker produced his white slip, and it showed that he had been discharged from custody two or three hours but didn't know it. There were hundreds of other cases like this.

The first man brought into the armory was Abraham Ituro, a Russian, 26 years old, of 148 East 121st Street. He was one of the idlers on the Twenty-sixth Street side of the armory watching the show. He said he had been in this country fourteen years, and when he was asked if he had registered under the first selective draft act, he replied that he had not, because he did not want to. He was promptly sent to the north gallery to join the crowd of real slackers.

All day long, throughout the city, in places where crowds are wont to be found, such as Forty-second Street and Fifth Avenue, Forty-second Street and Broadway, Forty-second Street and Eighth Avenue, Thirty-fourth Street and Fifth Avenue, Thirty-fourth Street and Broadway, Thirty-fourth Street and Park Avenue, and all along Broadway and Sixth Avenue, from Fourteenth to Twenty-third Street, squads of soldiers and sailors were posted to interrogate all those who were suspected of being slackers. The inquiries were made courteously and quietly, but those accosted realized that the interrogators were not to be trifled with. When a squad of ten or twelve suspects was collected at any one point, it was marched to the nearest police station. Between 12 and 1 o'clock guards were posted at most of the city corners, the blocks were closed, and then soldiers and sailors combed them for men who ought to be in the service and were not.

At the noon hour something like 1,000 men were rounded up in Fourteenth and Twenty-third Streets. The great majority of them were cloak and suit makers, and, much to the surprise of the Government agents, nearly every one of them produced his card and was allowed to go. A considerable crowd of alleged slackers had been rounded up at 1 o'clock in Fifth Street and Lafayette Place. A passing truck was commandeered, and the men were taken directly to the Sixty-ninth Street Armory. Arriving there, somebody thought to question the driver. He didn't have his credentials, so he was arrested and his employers were notified to send somebody for the motor truck.

Find Many Drug Fiends.

Expecting that criminals and drug fiends would be rounded up among the slackers, detectives from Headquarters and members of the narcotic squad were on hand, both in New York and Brooklyn, to take a careful look at those rounded up. There were twenty-five or thirty drug fiends found at the 69th Armory, and they were taken in charge by doctors and nurses stationed at the armory hospital. Something like a hundred wanted by the police of New York and New Jersey were taken to Police Headquarters. This reminded United States Marshal McCarthy of what happened in Chicago when they rounded up the slackers there. He said that the net result of that roundup was that 600 men were obtained for the army and 300 crooks were sent to jail.

Late last evening when the official returns came in from Brooklyn, where William Blatchford, Special Agent of the Department of Justice, was in charge, Mr. De Woody said that many more had been taken in the day's bag than had been estimated earlier in the evening. Between 8,000 and 10,000 from Brooklyn, Queens, Coney Island, and other Long Island beaches had been taken to the Twenty-third Regiment Armory and their cases reported to sixty-five local draft boards. Mr. De Woody estimated that there were 5,000 still to be attended to at the armory at 9 o'clock. He estimated that, of the total number, 5 per cent. were out-and-out slackers.

The midnight returns from Jersey City showed that 7,000 men had been detained, and it looked as though about 2,000 of them would be obliged to spend the night in the Fourth Regiment Armory. More than 2,000 persons assisted in the roundup. Midnight returns from Newark estimated the arrest of 4,000. They were first taken to eight police stations and then to the First Regiment Armory. Fifteen of the number were found to be out-and-out slackers and were immediately inducted into the service. They will be sent to Camp Dix tomorrow.

Raymond J. Knoeppel, the representative of the American Protective League in the Bronx, issued a statement last evening to the effect that over 50 per cent. of those taken into custody in that borough came to New York from out of town to evade the draft at home.

The official count for Queens, which came in shortly before 11 o'clock, was as follows: Sixty men rounded up at Hunter's Point, 150 in Astoria, 225 in Elmhurst, 300 in Flushing, 100 in Glendale, 75 in Richmond Hill, 300 in Jamaica, 75 in Rockaway Beach, and 250 in Far Rockaway.

They had a merry day of it rounding up slackers in Passaic. When they decided to quit about 9 o'clock last night 1,500 of those suspected of being eligible for military service were held in the Natonal Guard armory. Teh roundup there was conducted by members of the State militia, the Passaic and Rutherford police, and Department of Justice agents, working under the direction of Thomas Smith. Most of the men were picked up in the fifty factories in and about the city.

The final first-day figures from Hoboken were supplied just before midnight by Special Agent Joseph P. Holmes of the Department of Justice. More than 2,000 were detained in the City Hall Armory, and Mr. Holmes estimated that 5 per cent. were real slackers.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

A Bronx investment property figured in a sale and resale yesterday. The Barnett Realty Company sold to a client of S. S. Isaacs, attorney, the six-story apartment house at 936 Intervale Avenue, on a plot 137.6 by 87 by irregular, in the Hunts Point district, which has been held at $100,000. The property was resold to Jacob Berlin, for investment.

Hotel Bristol Sale.

T. Elliott Tolson, with his associates, David H. Knott and W. W. Wyckoff, forming a corporation, have purchased the entire Hotel Bristol property, 122-124 West Forty-ninth Street, and 129-135 West Forty-eighth Street, so that they are now the sole owners, leasing it to the present company which has been operating the hotel for the last eight years, the Wynotol Realty and Hotel Company, of which T. Elliott Tolson is President.

Last week Mr. Tolson made a contract with the National War Work Council of the Young Men's Christian Associations of the United States to care for their overseas force during the continuation of the war, and six floors in the Forty-ninth Street building will be set aside for the exclusive use of the association. The necessary alterations are expected to be completed within two months. Douglas L. Elliman & Co. negotiated the lease.

Private Dwelling Sale.

The Elizabeth Realty Company purchased from James H. Cruikshank, operator, 316 West 137th Street, a three-story dwelling on a lot 16 by 100 assessed at $6,500.

Buyer for West Side Corner.

The William S. Dempsey Realty Company bought from the William Lustgarten Company the four tenements at the northeast corner of Eleventh Avenue and Forty-eighth Street, on a plot 100 by 100. The John P. Peel Company and E. J. Crawford were the brokers. It is reported that negotiations are pending for the erection of a service station on the plot, to be leased for a long term to an automobile concern.

The Bronx Market.

A. L. Frumento sold for Santo Ciacini to J. Slotnick the five-story tenement, with stores, at 2,357 Hoffman Street, on a plot 37 by 94.

Charles R. Faruolo sold for Ida K. Bronner the five-story flat, 2,246 Washington Avenue, to an Italian investor.

Samuel Barnett has sold the two-family house at 960 Grant Avenue, on a lot 20 by 100, and held at $12,500, to Price Brothers, represented by Abraham Leichter, as attorney. A. H. Hamel was the broker.

Manhattan Beach Results.

A total of $357,475 was realized last Saturday at the auction sale of 400 lots and six houses at Manhattan Beach. The dwellings, which were sold to H. B. Rollher, W. S. Graves, H. Jacobsen, H. A. Rollsbor, P. J. Monahan, and Daniel Daly, brought $66,150. Inside lots were sold at prices ranging from $850 to $1,750 each, and corners containing five lot plots from $4,250 to $6,750. Joseph P. Day conducted the sale.

Queens Borough Sale.

Minor L. Platt has sold for the estate of Edward E. Scheurer the property at the southeast corner of Flushing and Eighteenth Avenues, Astoria, Long Island City, 156 by 172 feet. The sale involves the Elite Hotel property, together with the good will, stock, furniture and fixtures; the Scheurer nurseries and Monumental Works. Part of the property is occupied by apartments and stores. The purchaser will make extensive alterations to the hotel and occupy it.

Westchester County.

New Jersey.

Bowles & Co. sold for George S. Rowe his house on Crescent Avenue, Leonia, to Dean Potter of New York City.

Frederick Brown, operator, resold to E. C. Eachel the former Morgan property in Montclair, N. J., held at $60,000. The property consists of a mansion and half acre of ground on Undercliff Road. F. M. Crawley & Brother negotiated the sale.

Edward P. Hamilton & Co. sold for the estate of Samuel Campbell the residence and outbuildings with six acres on Ridgewood Road, South Orange, N. J. The dwelling is octagonal in shape, and was built of solid concrete about seventy-five years ago. It has been owned by the Campbell family since construction.

Former Ticket Offices Leased.

The United States Railroad Administration has leased Brooklyn stores formerly occupied as railroad ticket selling offices at 24 Court Street to Henry Willard and 505 Fulton Street to Louis Kendzur.

Establish Country Department.

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. have opened a country department in charge of N. M. Ladd, Morton C. [illegible] Hayes Robbins, E. C. Hatch, and [illegible] Tilson.

Commercial Leases.

S. Osgood Pell & Co. leased for Propper Brothers the recently completed garage at 305 to 307 West 128th Street for a term of twenty-one years from Sept. 1 at an aggregate rental of about $250,000. The same brokers recently leased the building for George Henlein to the present tenant for a twenty-one-year term. The subtenant will continue to operate the garage.

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. and F. B. Robert leased for the Vanderbilt Avenue Realty Company store No. 1 in 270 Park Avenue, together with the basement under it, and also the remaining space in sub-basements Nos. 1 and 2, extending under the Madison Avenue frontage from Forty-seventh to Forty-eighth Street. The lessee is the Thonet-Wanner Company, furniture dealer.

M. & L. Hess, Inc., leased for the Ellisdale Company at 55 Fifth Avenue the entire fourteenth floor, containing 20,000 square feet, for a term of years to the F. M. Lupton, Publisher, Inc., publishers of The People's Home Journal, for executive offices.

Education Notes.

The public schools will reopen next Monday. The registration of new pupils in the day schools will begin today and continue during the rest of the week. The registration of pupils in some of the evening high and in night elementary schools will begin this evening. The other evening high schools and evening trade schools will open for registration on Sept. 9. Americanization classes, under the new immigrant education laws, will be operated in evening schools. Every one between sixteen and twenty-one who cannot speak, read, or write English must attend either a day or evening elementary school or a class maintained by his employer. Teachers will report at their respective schools on Friday to prepare for the reopening of the schools.

The Board of Education will hold its next meeting on Sept. 11.

The New York Evening High School for Women, Irving Place, Sixteenth to Seventeenth Streets, will begin to register students this evening, at 7:30 o'clock. Registration will continue on Thursday and Friday evenings and on every evening the following weeks, Saturdays and Sundays excepted. Regular sessions of the classes begin on Monday evening, Sept. 9, at 7:30 o'clock. Commercial courses include stenography, typewriting, bookkeeping, commercial law, commercial geography, commercial arithmetic, office practice, commercial English, commercial Spanish, history and civics, penmanship, and mechanics of writing. Among the academic courses are English, French, German, Spanish, drawing, chemistry, physics. Classes in trade dressmaking, costume design, corsetry, and salesmanship, domestic science, home sanitation, bookbinding, trade embroidery are offered for students in the trade and industrial courses.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Pressure remains high in the Northwest and is again falling in the Southwest, with resulting general rains in the Rocky Mountain region, the plains States, and the lower Missouri Valley. There also were showers in the lake region, the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, Georgia, Florida, the East and West Gulf States.

The showers were quite light in the South, except in northwestern Georgia and northern Alabama. Over the remainder of the country the weather was generally fair.

It is decidedly cooler in Iowa, Nebraska, Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma, and the western portions of Missouri and Arkansas, and low temperatures continue in the Northwest with some frosts and freezing temperature Wednesday morning in North Dakota and extreme northwest Montana. Elsewhere temperatures were moderate.

Showers will continue Wednesday and Thursday in the South, and there also will be showers Wednesday in the lower Ohio Valley and New England, followed by fair weather Thursday. In the Middle Atlantic States, the upper Ohio Valley, and the lake region fair weather will prevail Wednesday and Thursday.

Temperature change will not be decided, and there are no prospects of high temperatures during the remainder of the week over any considerable portion of the country.

Winds for Wednesday and Thursday along the North Atlantic Coast will be moderate south, shifting to southwest and west, showers Wednesday, fair Thursday. Middle Atlantic Coast: Moderate South, becoming variable, fair; South Atlantic Coast: Gentle to moderate, mostly east, fair.

FORECASTS FOR TODAY AND THURSDAY.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Partly cloudy Wednesday. Thursday, fair.

New England—Local showers Wednesday. Thursday, fair.

Western New York—Fair and cooler Wednesday. Thursday, fair.

Temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

CURCI BRINGS SUIT FOR HIS WIFE'S LOVE

She Alleges Her Husband and His Brother Have Held Contents of Her House Wrongfully.

The separation of Amelita Galli-Curci, the singer, and her husband, Luigi Curci, an Italian Marquis and landscape painter, who left his title behind when he came to this country with his wife in 1916 to aid her in winning fame, became a matter of public record yesterday when the singer sent Deputy Sheriff Rooney to her town house at 27 West Sixty-seventh Street to take possession of personal effects she claimed as hers which she valued at $17,000, and which she alleged her husband was withholding from her wrongfully.

At about the time the writ of replevin was issued Signor Curci filed a $250,000 alienation suit against her manager, Charles L. Wagner, and her accompanist, Homer Samuels, on the ground that Wagner and Samuels had conspired together to turn her against him for their own purposes. Galli-Curci at once issued a statement branding her husband's charges as "absurd," and made for the purpose of humiliating her.

The complaint in Curci's alienation suit was served on Samuels on Saturday when he was riding with the singer in her car near Croton, N. Y., and was served on Mr. Wagner in his office at 511 Fifth Avenue yesterday. It alleges that both defendants made false and fraudulent representations to the singer concerning her husband and urged her to abandon him on the ground that his station in life, although he is an artist and is well to do, was a drawback to her success.

Curci says he married the singer in Rome in 1908 and that they lived happily together until November, 1916, when Wagner became her manager. She engaged Samuels as accompanist in February, 1917, and it is alleged that the two defendants then began their conspiracy to supplant the plaintiff's affections with the "unlawful affections of Homer Samuels." The plaintiff says his domestic troubles culminated when he ordered Samuels from the Summer home of the singer at Pine Hills in the Catskills on Aug. 17 last, after upbraiding him for his attentions to the singer, and Galli-Curci left the house with Samuels.

In Galli-Curci's replevin suit to get her personal effects she filed a bond for $34,000, or twice the value of the property, in the Sheriff's office, and Deputy Rooney at once took possession. She gave a list of the articles she said were being withheld from her, which included tapestry panels, rugs, a Capo di Monte vase, all the singer's wearing apparel in the house, and the furnishings of a modern apartment.

RED CROSS TO CARE FOR 10,000 CAPTIVES

Will Have Warehouses in Denmark and Switzerland with Supplies of Food and Clothing.

PLAN CHRISTMAS ROLL CALL

Drive for New Membership Announced—District Quotas the Limit of Population.

The Atlantic Division of the Red Cross announced yesterday that it had obtained two large storage warehouses at Copenhagen, Denmark, and Renens, Switzerland, in which food, clothing, tobacco, and other comforts will be assembled at once in sufficient quantity to maintain 10,000 American soldiers in prison camps in Germany, if that number should need care.

At latest accounts a few more than 500 American soldiers had been located at prison camps in Germany. These supplies will be distributed weekly through neutrals.

Henry P. Davison announced yesterday that in the week from Dec. 16 to Dec. 23 of this year a "Christmas Roll Call" would be held at which it was hoped to enroll practically every man, woman, and child in this country as a Red Cross member. Mr. Davison's statement was in part as follows:

"From Dec. 16 to 23 the list will be opened for every American in every corner of the world, so that it may be known that the whole nation at home and abroad is registered for the cause. The Red Cross wants again to give the world notice not only that America can fight, but that to the last man, woman, and child we stand four-square for mercy, honor, and good faith among the nations.

"There will be no allotment of quotas to any communities. The quota for every district will be the limit of its adult population. When the roll call comes, every American, old or young, will be called on to register and add the weight of his name to the Red Cross message.

"Let us answer with one voice to the words of President Wilson when he said, 'I summon you to the comradeship.'"

CHINESE GET BIG LOAN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PEKING, Sept. 3.—An agreement was signed today between the War Ministry and the Taiheikumei Japanese Company for a loan of 30,000,000 yen to be issued at 90 and bearing 7 per cent. interest. The issue will be secured by Chinese Treasury bonds. The scheme is the most extensive ever attempted in China, and consists of the formation of a company which will virtually monopolize all imports and exports requiring Government permits, including iron, rice, arms, ammunition, railway material, &c.

The Government agreement provides that Chinese only are eligible as shareholders of the company, but it is understood that the Japanese will provide the entire funds, while the Chinese will receive 40 per cent. of the shares.

Regulations have been issued forbidding the export of silver and copper money, which is needed in the Government's campaign against the rebels in the south.

CLAIM MARCH AS A DANE.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 3.—Much interest has been created in Denmark by the statement that the American General March is of Danish descent. The press appears to have unearthed the fact that he is closely related to the respected Danish family of Mark at Nibe, Jutland.

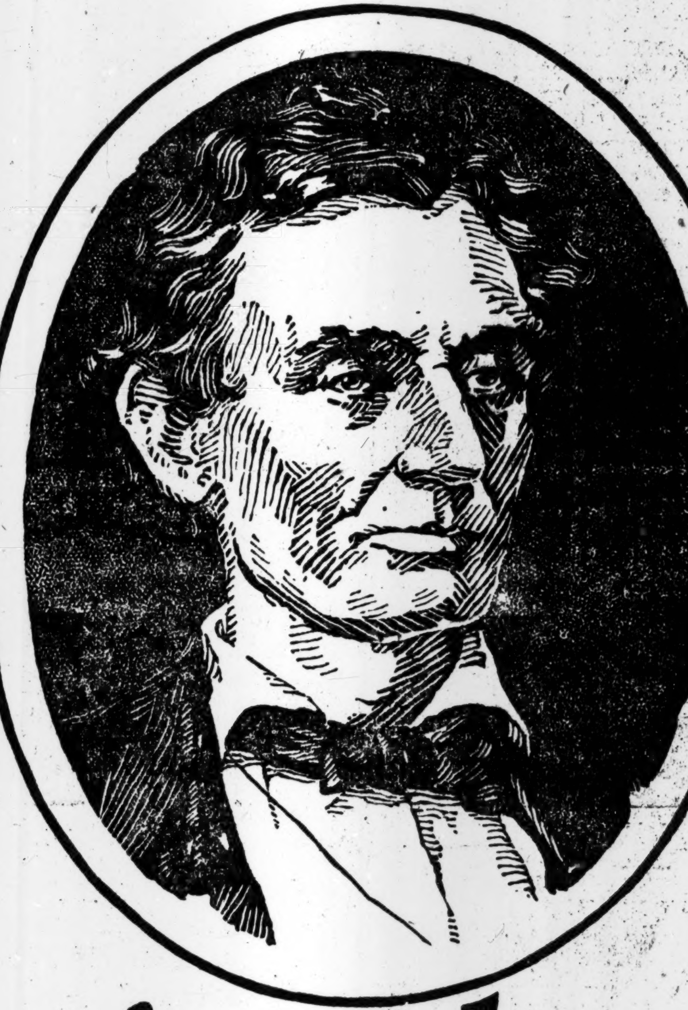
The Razor



Lincoln used

THE razor Lincoln used was not unlike the man himself—in outward form, unassuming, and yet an instrument of exquisite balance—with a time-saving length of blade, a fresh, keen stropped edge for the work in hand and a wonderously even temper.

One pictures Lincoln as full of affection for this honest blade despite the fact that his deep-furrowed face was not the easiest to shave. The only things that Lincoln's razor really needed to lighten the patient morning task were the safety and convenience of the guarded, double-edged blade of the
